Arrests & Clearances

There were 41,467 total arrests in Delaware in 1993. Of the total arrests, 34,778, or 83.9% were adult arrestees. Juveniles accounted for 6,689, or 16.1% of total arrests. Arrests for Part I crime numbered 9,267, or 22.3% of total arrests. Part II arrests accounted for 32,200, or 77.7% of total arrests.

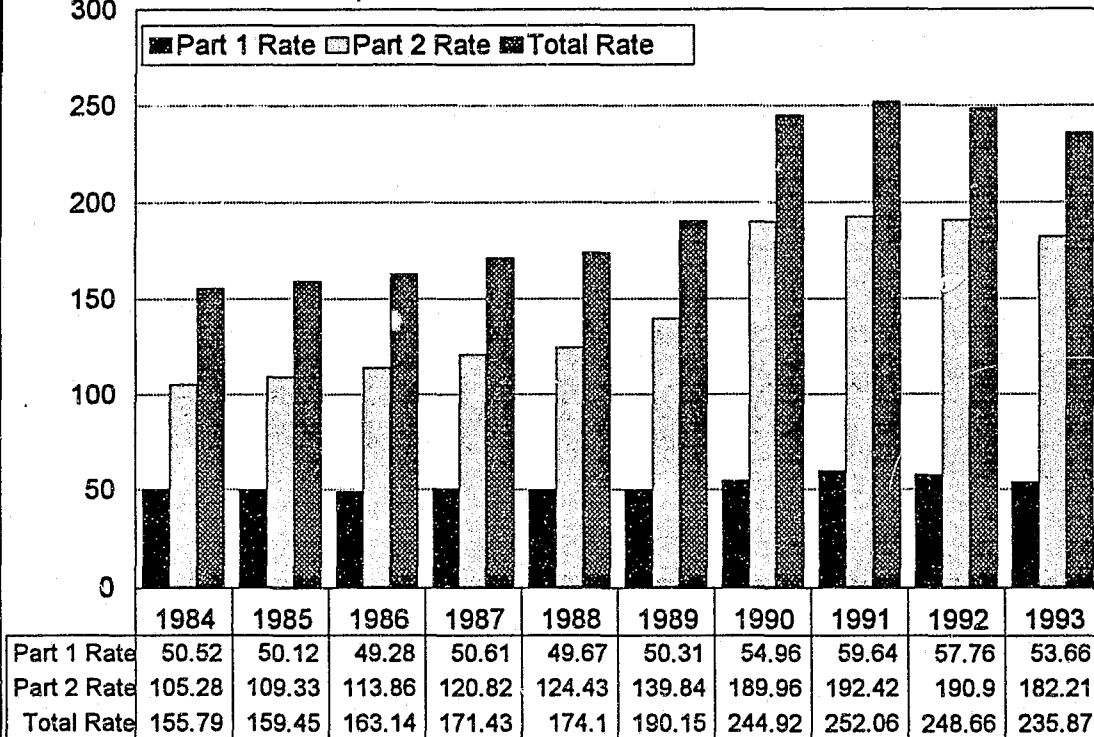

Clearances

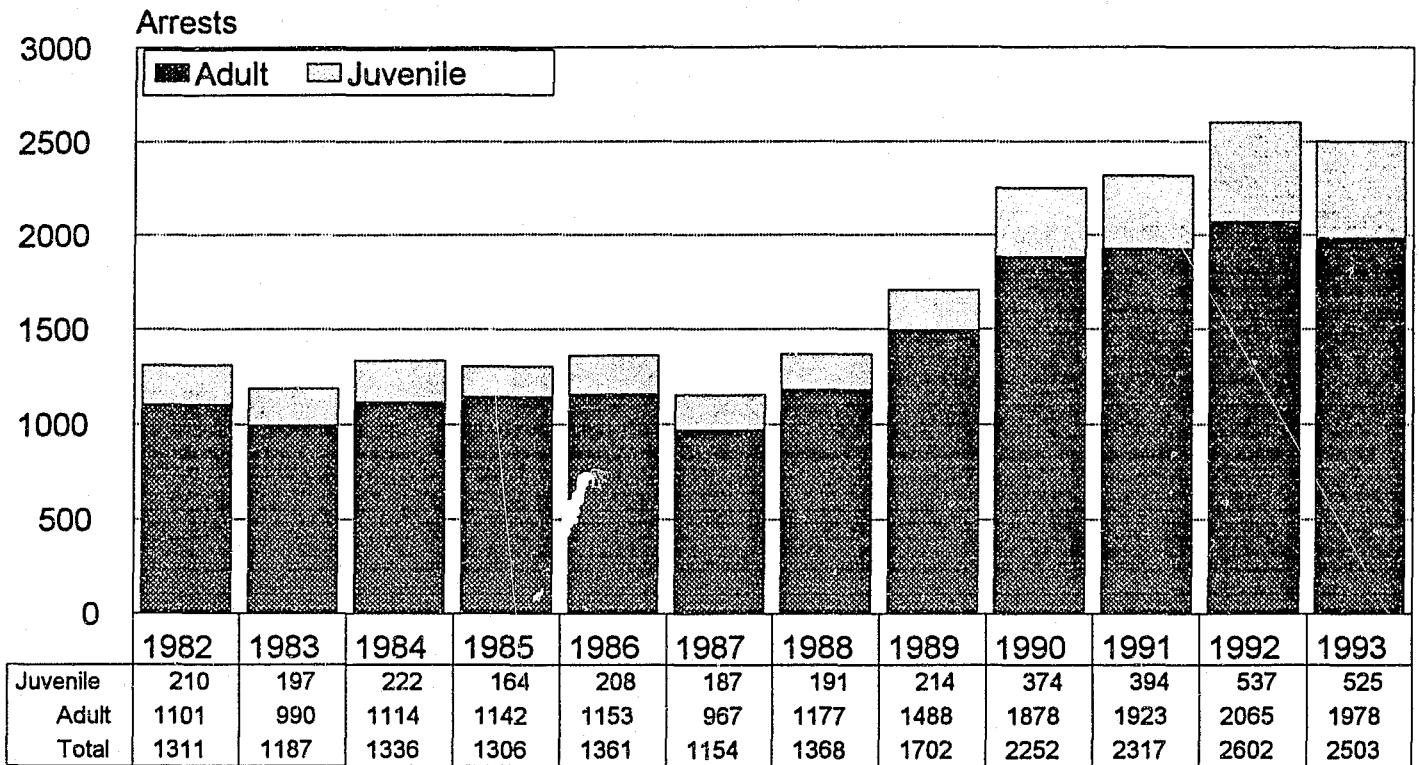

A clearance occurs when a crime has been "solved." Most crimes are cleared by arrest. One crime may result in more than one arrest; conversely, one arrest may clear several crimes. In addition, a crime may be "cleared" by exceptional circumstance. Exceptional circumstances apply when police know the identity and whereabouts of the offender but cannot arrest him due to circumstances beyond their control (i.e., offender was killed or cannot be located, extradition was refused, etc.).

Illicit Drug Crime

Delaware's reported illicit drug offenses decreased to 5,999 in 1993, down 3.8 percent from the 1992 level of 6,235. The statewide decline was due to a 10.3 percent decrease in New Castle County's reported offenses; from 4,169 in 1992 to 3,740 in 1993. Reported drug offenses increased in the other two counties. Kent County reported a 9.8 percent increase; from 993 in 1992 to 1,090 in 1993. Sussex County reported an 8.9 percent increase; from 1,073 in 1992 to 1,196 in 1993.

Delaware's reported illicit drug offenses decreased to 5,999 in 1993

Drug Offense Rates

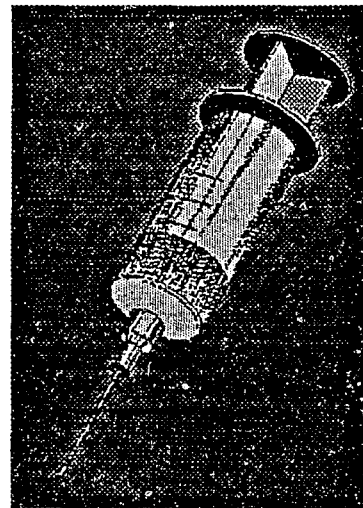

When comparing the drug offense rate, a statewide decrease in 1993, 8.7 versus 9.1 per 1,000 population in 1992 is seen. The 1993 New Castle County rate decreased from 9.3 to 8.2, while Kent and Sussex County rates increased from 8.7 to 9.3 in Kent, and 9.1 to 9.7 in Sussex.

Drug Arrests

There were 2,496 statewide arrests for drug offenses in 1993, an 11.3 percent decline from 2,814 drug arrests in 1992. New Castle County drug arrests fell 15.7 percent, 1,711 in 1993 versus 2,029 in 1992. Kent County had 5.4 percent fewer drug arrests, 389 in 1993 versus 411 in 1992. In Sussex County, however, drug arrests increased 5.9 percent in 1993, to 396 from 374 in 1992. Of 1993's 2,496 statewide drug arrests, 2,168 were adults and 328 were juveniles.

Admissions to the Department of Correction

Drug offender detained admissions to DOC decreased to 964 in 1993, down 22.1 percent from 1,237 in 1992. However, sentenced admissions for drug offenses continued a decade-long increase. Jail (1 year or less) admissions increased 22.9 percent, from 327 in 1992 to 402 in 1993. Prison (more than 1 year) admissions increased from 318 in 1992 to 327 in 1993.

Types of Drugs Most Frequently Seized in Delaware

Substances seized in drug investigations are submitted to the State Medical Examiner's Office for analyses. The types of substances subsequently analyzed offer some insight into illicit drug activity.

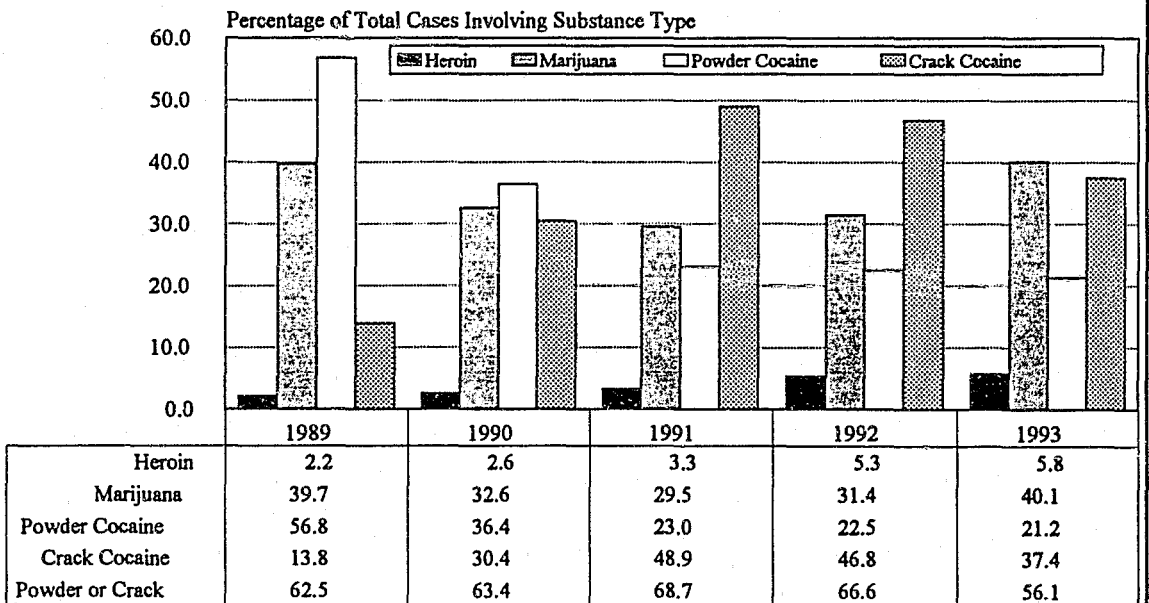

In the late 1980's cocaine replaced marijuana as the drug most frequently encountered by Delaware law enforcement authorities. Having peaked in 1991, cocaine cases have declined for the last two years, but continue to be the highest proportion of all seizures. Since first appearing in Delaware in 1987, crack cocaine prevalence surged rapidly, surpassing that of cocaine powder in 1991. Since 1991, crack seizures have subsided considerably while powder seizures maintained fairly stable proportions. Fifty-six percent of all statewide drug seizures in 1993 involved cocaine in either powder or crack form.

Marijuana's prevalence, after declining to a low in 1991, has surged in the last two years. In 1993, marijuana was seized in forty percent of all drug investigations statewide, up from about thirty percent in 1991. Heroin and PCP follow cocaine and marijuana in prevalence of illicit drug seizures. Though not nearly as common as cocaine or marijuana, heroin and PCP seizures have increased considerably in recent years. Heroin seizures, as a proportion of total cases, have almost tripled since 1989. PCP seizures dropped in half from 1989 to 1991, but bounced back to more than double in the two years since. In 1993, heroin was seized in 5.8 percent of all cases; PCP was seized in 2.7 percent of all cases.

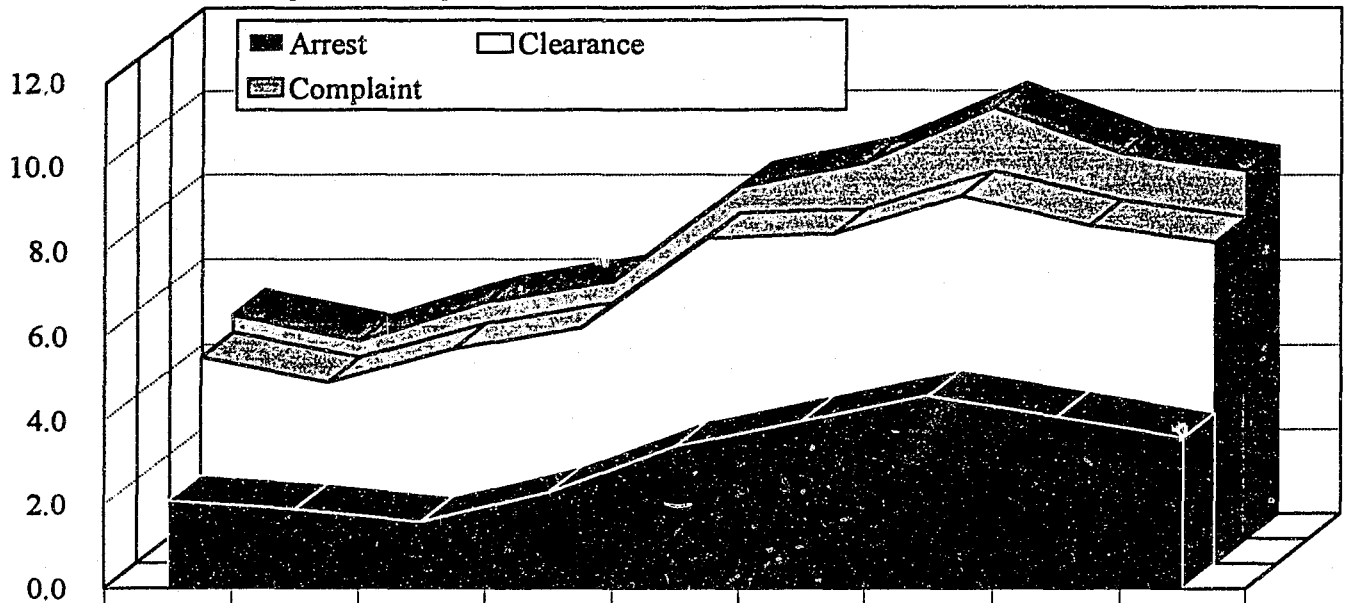

In 1993, marijuana was seized in forty percent of all drug investigations

Crime in Delaware 1993

Uniform Crime Report (UCR) and Computer Aided Dispatch (CAD) Data

Reporting of crime data in Delaware is based on Uniform Crime Report (UCR) data. While UCR data is detailed and accurate, there is often up to a year lag in UCR data availability. Accordingly, the last year end UCR data for Delaware currently available is for 1993. In addition, Delaware's UCR year end data for 1994 may not be available until late 1995 or early 1996. As this time

CAD data can be used as an early indicator of crime trends lag promotes significant delays in the measurement and analysis of crime activity in Delaware and accompanying criminal justice policies, the Statistical Analysis Center, in conjunction with the City of Wilmington Police Department, has begun to compare UCR data with the Computer Aided Dispatch (CAD) data collected by the Wilmington Police Department. The CAD data represents the number of calls received by the Wilmington Police Department for police assistance and the corresponding type of crime under which the calls were dispatched from headquarters to officers. For example, a call the Wilmington Police Department receives from a citizen for police assistance for an assault will be counted in the CAD data as one assault. The CAD data, therefore, reflects the number of crime types for which officers were dispatched, whereas the UCR data, which is based on the officers written report, may report a different type of offense or possibly no offense at all after the officer completes an investigation of the call.

CAD Data as Early Indicator of Crime Trends

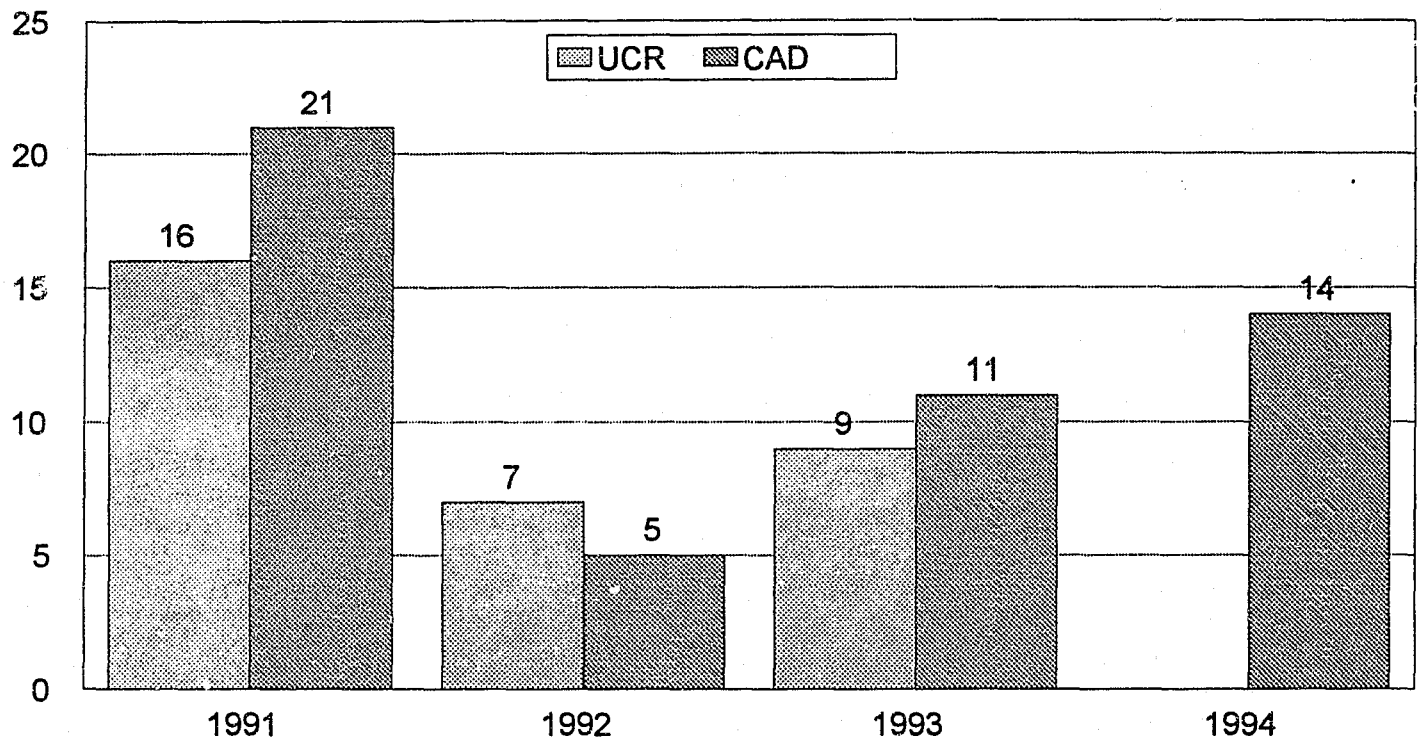

Although UCR and CAD data differ in scope and definition, CAD data, which is collected daily, corresponds well to UCR from 1991 to 1993, the last year for which year end UCR data is available. Accordingly, CAD data can be used as an early indicator of crime trends in recent time periods with a reasonable degree of accuracy.

Wilmington CAD data for year end 1994 indicates that Part I & II assaults increased over 1993 from 3997 in 1993, to 4312 in 1994. CAD burglary complaints also has increased slightly over 1993 from 2103 to 2151. Rape, robbery and homicide all increased in 1994's Wilmington CAD reports. Homicide rose from 11 in 1993, to 14 in 1994 while rape rose from 73 to 78 complaints in 1994. Robbery also increased in 1994 to 756, up from 730 in 1993. In Wilmington, the most significant increase in CAD data occurred in the number of drug complaints received by police from 2,674 in 1993, to 3,663 in 1994.

In analyzing the Wilmington CAD data holistically, a general increase in violent and drug crime complaints is evident for 1994. Given the fact that the CAD and UCR trends historically correspond in direction, meaning that if CAD complaints increase or decrease UCR reported crimes will increase or decrease in proportion as well, it is probable that 1994 UCR reports will reveal increases in these crime categories for Wilmington.
