Dear Colleague:

The COSCA Court Statistics and Information Systems Committee and the staff of the Court Statistics and Information Management Project of the National Center for State Courts is pleased to present you with this edition of the State Court Caseload Statistics: Annual Report for 1980. As you may recall, this work is completed under the guidance of the COSCA Court Statistics and Information Systems Committee with funds from the Bureau of Justice Statistics. It contains an organization chart for the courts in each state, and a statistical profile for each court.

We hope that you will find this publication a valuable resource.

Sincerely,

Victor E. Flango

This State Court Caseload Statistics: Annual Report, 1980 is the sixth in a series containing statistical caseload data compiled from the annual reports of each state court system and from other unpublished data. This volume is a product of the cooperative effort between the National Center for State Courts and the Conference of State Court Administrators (COSCA), to develop within the Center a national database of state court caseload statistics. The effort is funded by the Bureau of Justice Statistics.

This is the second volume in the series whose data are available on computer tape. Machine readable data is a major asset to those conducting research on state court management and facilitates greatly the compilation of the summary tables in this volume. The Center hopes to continue this automation in future years.

The Court Statistics and Information Management Project (CSIM) continues to expand the scope of its activities and capabilities, shifting its focus from data collection and publication to the analysis of these data for the benefit of the courts community. The automation described above should enhance staff's ability to conduct such research. This Annual Report series,

The Conference of State Court Administrators (COSCA) continues to support the Court Statistics and Information Management Project in its efforts to establish, within the National Center for State Courts (NCSC), the capability to gather, analyze, and disseminate statistical information on state court systems. The project has been made a cooperative effort between COSCA and the NCSC by giving policy control and direction over the project to a committee composed of state court administrators, court data processing personnel, a trial court administrator, and a representative from the academic community selected by COSCA.

This sixth edition of the Annual Report improves upon the data and tables contained in previous editions of the report. In making these improvements, we continue to be guided by the users of this information. Many of the summary tables have been rearranged to identify comparable data. This is an ongoing process that will continue to benefit from increased awareness of comparable subject-matter jurisdiction among the states. Modifications have also been made to the way in which the trial data from general and limited jurisdiction courts are presented. It is our belief that these additions and modifications will help the users of this report to find the information they need in a form that is useful to them.

This year's continued automation of the data contained within this Report will greatly improve staff's ability to conduct sophisticated analysis however, will continue to be the principal project publication. From year to year the quantity and quality of the reported data demonstrate gradual improvement.

The National Center has been assisted in data gathering for the production of the Annual Report by state and local-level court personnel from across the country. The leadership of COSCA and especially the COSCA-CSIS Committee, now chaired by Walter Kane, have helped guide project staff in their search for ways to present these data in a way that is both parsimonious and comparable.

of court management data, and facilitate the project's goal of disseminating statistical information in a form conducive to research.

As always, we must caution the reader of this report to pay close attention to all indications of the completeness and comparability of data, and to read the introduction to the report where the methodology used to construct the report is discussed. Face sheets for the summary tables further outline the sources of data, the rationale behind some of the summary statistics, and minimum limitations that should be considered in interpreting the data. An inspection of the current edition and the five previous editions of this report should demonstrate to the reader that the quality and quantity of court-related data continue to improve.

The preparation of State Court Caseload Statistics: Annual Report, 1980 has been supervised and greatly assisted by the Court Statistics and Information Systems (CSIS) Committee appointed from the membership of the Conference of State Court Administrators (COSCA). The CSIS Committee members have given generously of their time, talent, and experience. Their participation has been invaluable to the project staff. The positive control exerted by COSCA through this committee, using a review and approval process, has greatly enhanced the quality of this report.

The COSCA CSIS Committee members, however, are not the only COSCA members whose assistance has been vital to the production of this document. The administrators and their staff in all the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico have provided the Court Statistics and Information Management Project with whatever research materials they had available, both published and unpublished, and they have been consistently patient and helpful in answering written and telephoned inquiries for more data or for explanations of the data provided. Their continuing support of the development of a national data base of state court statistics within the National Center for State Courts is the crucial element in determining the quality of the statistics that are being gathered.

The members of the National Conference of Appellate Court Clerks are other indispensable sources of much-needed data. The clerks volunteered to provide and verify appellate court data that in many states are unavailable from any other source. Their assistance has been invaluable in increasing the quality of appellate court data available to the project.

The Court Statistics and Information Management Project staff would like to recognize and thank all these many individuals who have contributed to this sixth in the series of annual reports on state court caseload statistics.

Highlights

Production of the Annual Report series is an evolutionary process with the long-term goal of improving the statistical series playing an important role for the Court Statistics and Information Management Project. This process is further discussed in the introduction.

Data availability has improved from the first half of this century, when the first national compilation of caseload data was attempted. Some gross volume data are displayed in this report for all appellate courts, for most of the trial courts of general jurisdiction, and for many of the trial courts of limited or special jurisdiction. However, the validity and reliability of much of the data reported has not been ascertained.

Substantial effort by the Court Statistics and Information Management Project (CSIM) staff and the Conference of State Court Administrators CSIS Committee was required to develop a methodology for displaying nationwide state court caseload for the first annual report, published in 1979 to cover the 1975 court year. During preliminary attempts to aggregate available statistics into specific groupings, it became obvious that any realistic compilation must have a structure derived from, not superimposed upon, the data reported by the states. The second annual report (i.e., 1976), published in 1980, reflected that orientation and emphasis, with augmentations made to improve the presentation of the data and to accommodate the addition of limited jurisdiction data. In the third edition of the Annual Report series, the summary tables were extensively re-vised to reflect recommendations made by members of the Methodological Review Panel. The summary statistics as presented in this sixth annual report reflect the existing situation in state court statistics and are presented in a format designed to increase their usefulness.

For the reader of this document, cautionary notes necessarily abound. Because of many state-to-state variations in the kinds of data reported, the summary tables in this annual report do not permit extensive, valid, direct comparisons of caseload among states without careful examination of all the factors involved in assuring that the data are comparable. Variations in data availability, court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, definitions of case types and units of count, reporting periods, and the degrees of completeness and accuracy of data all combine to make cross-jurisdictional comparisons extremely complex. These variations are discussed in general terms in the introduction to the report. The limitations on analysis section can be found in the face sheets accompanying each summary table.

Comparisons among the 1980 data contained in this report and the 1975 through 1979 data contained in the first five reports in this series should be made only after careful examination of the factors mentioned above to ascertain that these factors have not changed for the courts of interest.

The report is divided into two parts, each with its own purpose. The summary statistical tables in Part I were constructed from the individual court profiles for all the states found in Part II. Depending on the interest of the user, he can proceed from the general to the specific or vice versa. Users of the report may locate a summary table of interest in Part I, for example, one containing caseload inventory data for domestic relations cases. An examination of the data contained in the table may stimulate questions that are answered, in part, by reference to either the court organization charts or individual court profiles contained in Part II. Another approach is to first examine a court profile in Part II of the document, and then turn to the appropriate summary tables in Part I to compare caseload volume of other courts with similar jurisdiction, to that of the court of interest.

This two-part structure for the document required its preparation to proceed in stages. First an overview court organization chart and an individual statistical profile was prepared for each state's appellate and trial courts. The resulting documentation makes up Part II of this report. Data were then compiled into nationwide inventory statistics (begin pending, filed, disposed, and end pending). The inventory statistics were separated where possible into broad case category classifications, chosen to reflect the kinds of data being reported by the states.

Several general observations can be made about the 1980 state court caseload data. First, in addition to the increase in available data, the number of cases filed in the courts has also increased from 1979 to 1980. The caseload estimates indicate that the number of cases filed per judge has increased. Most trial courts also reported increases in the number of filings from 1979 to 1980. Second, the courts have managed to handle this increase in filings fairly well with most courts disposing between 90 and 100 percent of the number of cases filed. A few courts disposed more cases than were filed. The disposition rates of less than 100 percent, however, mean that most courts are adding to their pending caseload. For courts reporting pending caseload, most had increases of less than 20 percent. Finally, for courts reporting pending and filed data, the number of cases pending at the end of the year as a percent of the number of cases filed was less than 60 percent for most courts of last resort, less than 90 percent for most intermediate appellate courts and for civil caseload in most trial courts, less than 50 percent for criminal caseload in most trial courts, and less than 50 percent for juvenile caseload in most trial courts.

The composition of the caseload of the courts is also of interest. In the appellate courts, the data available indicate that approximately 55 percent of the appeals filed in 1980 were civil appeals. For the trial courts in 1980 the caseload estimates indicate that of the 85.8 million cases filed, approximately 14.6 million were civil cases, 11.3 million were criminal cases, 58.4 million were traffic cases, and 1.5 million were juvenile cases.

The court organization charts and statistical profiles in Part II are helpful references because they indicate not only the organization and subject matter jurisdiction of the courts in each state, but also the differences in reporting periods, units of count, and variations in case categories and classifications. They show at a glance how much data were available for comparison purposes.

Introduction

Introduction

Courts Statistics and Information Management Project

The Annual Report series of state court caseload statistics is the product of the continuing cooperative relationship between the Conference of State Court Administrators (COSCA) and the National Center for State Courts (NCSC). Financial management, project management, and project staffing responsibility are assumed by the Court Statistics and Information Management (CSIM) Project, formerly called the National Court Statistics Project (NCSP) of the NCSC. COSCA, through its Court Statistics and Information Systems Committee, provides general policy review, guidance, and control over all project activities. The series is funded by the Bureau of Justice Statistics.

The twin goals of the Court Statistics and Information Management Project are to collect, compile, analyze, and disseminate state court caseload statistics and to help states improve the quality of the data they report by assisting them in resolving their statistical problems. The Annual Report series responds directly to the first goal by compiling all available state court caseload data from the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico.¹

Uses of court statistical data

The four major uses of court statistical data, as identified in the CSIM publications, State Court Caseload Statistics: The State of the Art and Court Case Management Information Systems Manual², are (1) operational (aiding in the execution of routine day-to-day activities at the local level); (2) management (decision making at the state or local level concerned with improvement of the court process and system-wide efficiency in the use of court resources); (3) internal planning and research (goal setting and policy planning to establish long-term programs and identify evolving problems); and (4) indirect court uses (decision making by those outside the courts concerned with policy making or research about court operations). The various uses of court statistics require different levels of detail and analysis, but the availability of detailed statistics is dependent upon the statistical reporting system used at the state or local level. This annual report has restricted its scope to the level of detail currently available from state-level reporting systems.

Operational decisions are made at the local level and require detailed information on a ¹Repetition of "50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico" becomes very cumbersome. Throughout the rest of this report, "states" and "court systems" will be used for the reporting units that include the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico.

case-by-case basis. These decisions must be made daily and cannot be based upon year-end summary statistics such as those contained in this 1980 report.

Management decisions can be made at either the state or local level and require aggregation of detailed information used for operational decisions. Caseload management data such as that needed to determine the status of the preparation of the record for appeal or to generate exception reports are gathered by some state reporting systems, but this kind of information is also case specific and too detailed to be compiled and used for nationwide comparisons. In contrast, state-level summary statistics are useful for management purposes in areas such as comparisons of time lapses in case processing to establish norms or guides; analyses to determine assignments of judges needed to relieve backlog; analyses to determine the need for additional judges, support personnel, or facilities; and analyses to determine the impact of an intermediate appellate court on the state system.

In response to the recognized need for certain management data nationally, the 1980 Annual Report has concentrated on uniformly classifying caseload data and on compiling available case processing time data. Caseload and case processing are major components of court workload, which the CSIM Project has defined to mean all court-related matters that consume time and effort (hence, purely administrative and ministerial functions are also included as workload). Measurement of court workload per se is not directly addressed in this report, but caseload inventory data and data regarding the number of trials do provide partial indications of the extent of judicial activity. The data presented in this report reflect the quantity of management data now available from each state's reporting system in published and unpublished reports.

Internal planning and research, as well as planning and research by those outside the court system, require a much wider range of data and analysis than operational and management decisions. The information necessary for these purposes often includes not only an aggregation of data on caseload and caseload but also specific data regarding status of cases, as well as information on court operations, judicial budgets, actions prior to filing a case, and actions after disposition of a case. Of interest to some individuals within and outside the court system are studies on a wide range of other subjects, such as the effect and cost of litigation, bail availability and uniformity including recognizance/10% bail programs, the validity of case weighting techniques, sentence disparity patterns, the effects of plea negotiation on caseloads, and the impact of legislation. To answer these questions is, however, beyond the capabilities of most state or even local court information systems. Basic information on caseload and caseload is adequate for many other planning and research issues where the level of needed detail is not as high. These latter kinds of issues include, for example, case filing and disposition trend analysis, caseload composition analysis, analysis of reversal rates, time lapse analysis to establish norms and guides, and forecasting of caseload volumes to determine resource and facilities needs.

Scope of the data in the annual report series

The first annual report (1975) presented available caseload data for state appellate courts and trial courts of general jurisdiction, and for selected categories (juvenile, domestic relations, probate, and mental health) in limited jurisdiction courts. The second annual report (1976) again presented available data for appellate courts and courts of general jurisdiction, and also included all available caseload data for all limited jurisdiction courts. As data from each court level become more complete, future aggregation of trial court caseloads should become more meaningful.

The 1976 report was expanded to include Puerto Rico. Data from Guam were added for the 1977 court year. The scope of future reports will be broadened to include American Samoa and the Virgin Islands when these data become available.

This report reflects court organization and jurisdiction as it existed in 1980 but the reader should keep in mind that court systems are not static entities. For example, in 1979, Connecticut consolidated its trial courts, eliminating its Juvenile Court and Court of Common Pleas and shifting this jurisdiction to its Superior Court. The dollar amount limits of civil jurisdiction have changed in many courts. Because court organizational or jurisdictional characteristics change over time, caution should be exercised in attempting to compare the data in this 1980 report with earlier data or with more current data.

Data collection

Data sources. The sources of data for the tables presented in this series are published annual reports provided by the states and unpublished statistical material requested of, and supplied by state court administrators and appellate court clerks. (Appendix B of this report identifies the sources of data from each state.) Additional relevant information was secured from appropriate personnel in each state. Telephone contact and follow-up correspondence were used to collect missing data, confirm the accuracy of available data, and determine the legal jurisdiction of each court. Information was collected concerning the number of judges per court or court system (from annual reports, offices of state court administrators, and appellate clerks); the state population (based on Bureau of the Census 1980 revised estimates); other 1980 demographic data (taken from the Statistical Abstract of the United States: 1980³); and special characteristics regarding subject matter jurisdiction and court structure. When explanation of a court's jurisdiction was not directly obtainable, information from the State Court Organization, 1980⁴ was used.

⁴National Court Statistics Project, National Center for State Courts, State Court Organization, 1980 (Washington, D.C.: U.S. Government Printing Office, 1982).

Verification of data. With the cooperation of the Conference of State Court Administrators, all data after CSIM classification were submitted for review and verification to the appropriate state court administrator's office. An additional check was provided through the cooperation of the National Conference of Appellate Court Clerks (NCACC), which invited CSIM staff to submit appellate court data for review and verification to the appropriate clerk of the appellate court in each state. This process also included followup by CSIM staff through telephone or letter contact with the state personnel. Forty-nine of the 53 states and territories covered by this report verified the data for 1980. Finally, the format, content, and limitations of data tables have been reviewed and approved by the COSCA CSIS Committee, which guides the Court Statistics and Information Management Project.

In order to produce the statistics contained in this report, a great deal of effort was expended by CSIM Project staff in collecting missing data, whether from published or ancillary sources, in defining terminology, and in identifying categories in which cases should be placed. In other words, data contained in this report cannot be replicated solely from available published material. Yet even after this extensive data-gathering effort, large gaps remain in the data collected.

An extensive effort was required to validate CSIM classification of data provided by the states and to avoid further distortion of any data received. Although attempts to reconcile obvious discrepancies in reported data were made, the CSIM Project staff did not have the resources to assess the underlying validity or accuracy of the data received from the states. For example, the published cumulative case statistics for appellate courts or for trial courts frequently did not balance with reported totals within each category. Such discrepancies are, however, footnoted in the court statistical profiles in Part II of this report.

Types of data included. As a result of the fact that few states report data suitable for all kinds of planning and research purposes, and because most states report only certain types of data, the NCSP initially chose to include in the national series only those kinds of data that either were already fairly widely available or could be made available without requiring undue effort. Enough states reported trend data, caseload by category, number of reversals, and time-to-disposition data to warrant inclusion of these topics in this report, and some preliminary analyses can be made. For those states not supplying basic data, gaps and "not/available" entries in the profiles draw attention to the missing data. In the past, all data supplied by a state, complete or not, were entered in the summary tables. Beginning in 1979, only data that are complete (or at least 90% complete for a case category) are displayed in the summary tables. This was done to facilitate comparability. As more data become available in coming years, the Annual Report series can be expanded to include broader and more sophisticated compilations and analyses.

Many current variations in court data, as indicated by profile footnotes, must be considered before summary tables can be constructed to make comparisons among courts or states. Variations that limit the comparability of the 1980 data include: court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, case definition, completeness, accuracy, and reporting periods. These variations (with the exception of variations in reporting periods) are discussed on the face sheets to the summary tables.

Variations in reporting periods. As indicated on profile headings and in Figure A, most states report data by calendar year; many report by fiscal year, however, and a few report appellate court data by court term. Therefore, the time spans covered in this report are not always directly comparable.

Although data included in this report cover reporting periods of approximately uniform length, the starting and ending dates for the reporting periods vary both within and among states. Differences in reporting periods have little effect on cumulative data elements such as filings and dispositions, since no matter when the reporting period began and ended, the data cover one complete year. Pending data are greatly affected, though, since they represent a "snapshot" in time and can vary greatly depending on when that snapshot was taken. Figure A displays the actual reporting periods for all courts not using the calendar year for the reporting period.

Data display

Case category classifications. CSIM case categories used for this 1980 report are those chosen by the COSCA CSIS Committee for inclusion in the State Court Model Annual Report and State Court Model Statistical Dictionary. These case categories appear as principal headings in the summary tables in Part I, and in each court's profile in Part II. Terminology used within each state is displayed on each court's profile as subheadings under the boldface CSIM main headings. The CSIM main headings are categories used uniformly for all the states. For example, a state's "application for leave to appeal" was classified under the CSIM category of request to appeal in all tables. Explanations used in source documents to clarify a state's data are included, as are explanations to clarify project staff's arrangement of those data. These appear, where appropriate, as footnotes in each court's profile and as footnotes to the summary tables.

Format used. Profiles (Part II). After the 1980 case data available from each state were classified, a profile of the courts in each state was constructed. Each state profile for 1980 contains the following:

court system within the state, the jurisdiction and route of appeal for each court, the number of judges, and information on the types of trials.

--A set of tables containing the case-related data received from each state court or court system.

Summary Tables (Part I). Complete data from each state profile were transferred into summary tables designed to display the kinds of available data that could be aggregated. The summary tables are divided into two major sections (appellate and trial) to reflect the two major levels of courts.

Appellate courts include both courts of last resort (the final court or courts of appeal within a state) and intermediate appellate courts (the court or courts in which the primary work is the disposition of initial appeals received from trial courts of general jurisdiction or administrative agencies, and in which some decisions are subject to appeal or review by a court of last resort). For purposes of displaying data, the courts of last resort have been divided into two groups: those in states with intermediate appellate courts and those in states without intermediate appellate courts. With few exceptions, this division conveniently separates courts of last resort according to whether they have almost complete discretionary jurisdiction. Courts of last resort in states without intermediate appellate courts generally have little or no discretionary jurisdiction, although there are exceptions, such as Virginia and West Virginia.

For purposes of this report, a trial court is considered to be a court of general jurisdiction if it meets one of the following criteria:

--The individual state considers it a general jurisdiction court.

--Felony cases are tried and felony sentences given for all types of felony cases.

--The judges of the court are general jurisdiction court judges sitting on temporary assignment.

All other trial courts are classified as limited or special jurisdiction courts.

In the 1975 Annual Report, the states were arranged alphabetically in all summary tables. In 1976 the trial courts handling criminal cases were grouped according to the way in which criminal cases were counted in each court. In the 1979 report, a further evolution in the grouping of states has been added to all trial court case type tables (except juvenile) in order to place together those courts that have similar subject matter jurisdiction. Trial court case type tables are also arranged in this volume as follows:

Complete state data:

1. Exclusive court jurisdiction: States where one court has exclusive case type jurisdiction.
2. Not exclusive court jurisdiction: States where two or more courts have case type jurisdiction.

Incomplete state data:

3. States where one or more courts have case type jurisdiction, but complete data are not reported by one or more courts.

Footnotes. Standard footnote headings specifying the completeness and quality of the data are used on all court profiles and will continue to be used in the Annual Report series.

Footnotes that contain necessary information on the quality of the data are included on the summary tables. If more information on the data presented in the summary tables is needed, the user should consult the individual court profiles where all footnotes are given.

Data interpretation

Several devices are used in the summary tables for analyzing the caseload data. The measures selected for use vary according to the data being analyzed and are explained in the face sheets accompanying each group of summary tables under headings such as disposed cases as a percent of filed cases, end pending cases as a percent of filed cases, number and percent change in pending caseload, filed cases per unit of population, and filed and disposed cases per judge.

In addition, estimates of national caseload totals are found on Tables 1 and 13. An explanation of the estimation procedure will be found in Appendix A.

Continuing development of the series

The Annual Report series is an evolving product. It is anticipated that additions and refinements will be made to successive volumes in the series. Between 1975 and 1976, the amount of data contained in the report was greatly increased by the inclusion of data from all special and limited jurisdiction courts. In the 1979 report, face sheets were added to the summary tables to explain the type and depth of analysis considered by the CSIM Project to be meaningful, given the quality and completeness of the data. In addition, over half the trial court tables were rearranged to group those states in which case category data could be compared. This kind of rearrangement will continue in succeeding volumes. As more is learned about the quality of the data, more specific suggestions will be given for their proper use, along with warnings to help avoid their abuse. Figure B presents a helpful cross-reference to summary tables in previous editions of this series. This will assist the user to locate similar information that may have been rearranged on the summary tables over the years.

It is important to the long-term improvement of the statistical series that these early volumes in the series be circulated widely enough to encourage reader/user ideas and commentary, and that they be used as a vehicle for developing solutions to problems encountered during the statistical series production process. As each successive volume is published, the CSIM Project can consider the feedback subsequently received from users of the documents, thereby further enhancing succeeding volumes. During this process, the availability to future researchers of successive-year data compilations will preserve complete time series information. The drawbacks occasioned by limitations in data currently available are greatly outweighed by the importance of having data available for all years in the continuing statistical series.

In order to improve the quality of data contained in future volumes of the Annual Report series, the CSIM Project staff and COSCA CSIS Committee will consider the feasibility of conducting audits of selected data from particular courts. It is anticipated that the combination of these "mini-audits" and technical assistance by project staff to states requesting an assessment of and assistance in improving their statistical report systems will systematically improve the validity and reliability of the data contained in the Annual Report series.

It should also be pointed out that for the second year, the data contained in this report are available in computer-readable form. There are five data sets: appellate caseload, trial caseload, criminal dispositions, civil dispositions, and traffic dispositions. These data sets were used to construct 37 of the 46 summary tables. This year, Tables 10-12, 26, 36-37, 40-41, and 46 were still compiled by hand. This number should get smaller in future years.

This automation process has spotlighted the need for more specific information on subject-matter jurisdiction and disposition types. A Jurisdiction Guide is to be implemented in conjunction with the 1981 Annual Report. This will be a valuable tool in the project's quest for presenting comparable data.

As states gradually increase the quantity and quality of data available to the CSIM Project, the problems presently caused by incomplete data will decrease. Progressive improvements should be apparent to the reader of successive volumes in the series.

Future analysis will not only describe court systems as they exist at the present time but will also predict where they are going. The purpose will be to identify existing or developing problems and suggest solutions. Research proposed by the CSIM Project is not anticipated to be exhaustive, but will concentrate on those questions considered to be of greatest interest and importance to the courts and research communities.

Dynamics of improvement

Ideas and suggestions for improvement of this state court caseload statistical series have come from many sources, and have provided the creative stimulus needed to assess current CSIM Project efforts constructively and to map future directions.

Continuation of evolutionary improvement in this statistical series rests, ultimately, upon the ability of the CSIM Project to maintain a productive dialogue and flow of ideas among the producer-compilers of the Annual Report, its data sources, and its end users. Much improvement in state court statistics has already been achieved, but much remains to be done.

Because of their importance and potential impact for improving the national statistical series on caseloads, the Model Annual Report and Model Statistical Dictionary need to be briefly described.

During compilation of the State of the Art and the 1975 Annual Report, a staggering classification problem resulted from the multitude of terms being used by the states to report their caseloads. The need for both a model annual report and a statistical dictionary of terms for court usage became obvious. These documents, published in 1980, are to be used as tools to assist the states in improving their statistics. Such improvement should eventually be reflected in future annual reports.

The State Court Model Annual Report⁵ is a flexible working outline of critically needed, basic management data that should, as a minimum, be included in state court annual reports. The model identifies the kinds of data and the types of display needed for caseload and other management. The State Court Model Statistical Dictionary⁶ is a companion document which provides common terminology, definitions, and usage for reporting civil, criminal, traffic, juvenile, and appellate caseload inventory and manner of disposition as presented in the model annual report. The classification structure and definitions serve as models of preferred terminology and meanings for purposes of statewide and national comparison. The first edition of the dictionary covers those data elements essential for classifying court caseload inventory and manner of disposition. A supplement to the dictionary, published in 1984, contains revisions of those terms that experience has demonstrated needed improvement, as well as additional data element sets for court caseload (events in case processing) which are needed to determine status of pending cases.

Both of these documents must be viewed as a logical first step in promoting comparable court statistics. They were not available to states in time to affect their reporting systems or the national Annual Reports before 1980. Nevertheless, their effect will be noticeable in each succeeding national-level Annual Report because the CSIM Project's technical assistance effort is interwoven with the Annual Report national statistical series. This is accomplished by helping states adopt the suggestions in the model annual report and model statistical dictionary and by proactive identification of particular state systems that could benefit from technical assistance directed at helping resolve existing methodological problems of classification structure, terminology, definition of local data-reporting procedures, and data handling/transformation procedures. To the extent that such technical assistance suggestions are adopted, individual states directly benefit and the Annual Report national statistical series indirectly benefits.

Future versions of the Model Annual Report and Model Statistical Dictionary will consider development of finer levels of detail, expansion of the classification structure, and addition of other significant information.

State Court Organization, 1980⁷ is also related to the annual report in that it contains the types of organizational information most often sought by court administrators and researchers.

The Court Case Management Information System Manual⁸ was produced jointly by the National Court Statistics Project (now CSIM) and the State Judicial Information Systems Project to provide a methodology for building a court information system that would provide the data needed for both daily court operations and longer-term case management, resource allocation, and strategic planning.

The process of building toward meaningful statistics takes time. Concurrently with expanding and refining the Annual Report national statistical series, the CSIM effort must encourage movement toward quality and precision in state court statistics. The necessarily long-term nature of this evolutionary process will contribute greatly to year-to-year improvements and enhancements of the statistical series. Given the complexity of the problems being faced, building toward comparability, quality assurance, and appropriate detail is a necessary incremental process. It is in this light that the CSIM Project presents the data and analysis contained in the Annual Report, 1980.

Appellate court summary statistics

In this section, tables are presented to show the caseload of appellate courts in 1980. Appellate courts are subdivided into courts of last resort (the final court of appeal within a particular state) and intermediate appellate courts (courts whose primary work is the disposition of initial appeals received from trial courts of general jurisdiction or administrative agencies, and whose decisions are usually subject to appeal or review by a court of last resort within a given state). For purposes of data presentation, in some tables, the courts of last resort have been divided further into courts of last resort in states with intermediate appellate courts and courts of last resort in states without intermediate appellate courts.

Data presented in the following tables were compiled from all data that were available, both in annual reports and in unpublished data provided by individual appellate court clerks and state court administrators.

Three factors restrict comparability from state to state of these appellate court caseload data. These are variations in court jurisdiction, variations in case classification, and variations in the way cases are counted.

Major variation from state to state in court jurisdiction among appellate courts results from the kind and amount of discretionary jurisdiction over initial appeals granted to courts of last resort and to intermediate appellate courts. States having both levels of appellate courts generally direct the more difficult appeals to the court of last resort, but these are not necessarily the same types of cases in every state. Similarly, trial courts of general jurisdiction in some states have incidental appellate jurisdiction. These courts may receive a large portion of the initial appeals, while other states that do not assign appellate jurisdiction to general jurisdiction courts will have all of their appeals heard in the appellate courts. In these states the appellate courts will have a much higher filing rate, but not necessarily more workload than in those states where appeals are heard in general jurisdiction courts. Another variation in appellate court jurisdiction is in the amount of discretion in jurisdiction granted to the court.

The second major variation in appellate court data arises in the classification of cases. Some courts report only total filings with no indication as to the types of cases included or the proportion of the caseload each type accounts for. Other courts report only what they have designated as appeals. Still other courts classify all types of cases by case category. Often definitions are not given for the case categories. The types of cases classified as appeals present a difficult problem. Requests for bail pending appeal, requests for delayed appeal, and petitions to stay the lower court ruling pending appeal generally are not considered appeals, but are counted as such in some courts. The appeals caseload will be inflated in these states. Comparison of appellate caseload is difficult because of these kinds of variations in the classification of the cases being counted.

The final variation in appellate court case data results from differences in the point at which cases are counted, and how they are counted. Some courts count cases as soon as the notice of appeal is filed while others count them at a later event, such as the filing of the record or the filing of the appellant's brief. Courts may inflate or deflate their caseload by the way they count appeals of criminal convictions for two or more defendants, by whether cross appeals are counted as separate cases, and by the way they count appeals granted through discretionary jurisdiction. Courts with discretionary jurisdiction sometimes report the total number of cases filed without distinguishing between mandatory and discretionary jurisdiction cases; or they separate mandatory and discretionary cases filed but do not indicate the number of requests for discretionary review granted; or they provide separate data for mandatory cases, discretionary jurisdiction granted, and discretionary jurisdiction denied; or they combine mandatory jurisdiction cases and cases accepted for review, but report separately the total number of petitions for review filed, resulting in double counting of granted petitions for review.

In trying to deal with these many variations in case data, the Court Statistics and Information Management Project has presented as much information as possible about the caseload. The jurisdiction of each court is outlined briefly in the court system chart for each state located in Part II of this report. Also presented in each court statistical profile in Part II is any available information about case category classification or how and when cases are counted. Because the deciding of appeals is the primary function of the appellate courts, data on appeals should be separated from data on procedural matters. The significant differences in the definition and classification of cases in appellate courts have led the CSIM staff to define appellate caseload to include as 'cases' any appeal, any original proceeding, any request to appeal, or any sentence review only case.

The appellate tables that follow (Numbers 1 through 12) are sequenced from the presentation of general data to more specific analytical tables. The tables present general caseload, various analyses of caseload, civil and criminal break-downs, and time-to-disposition of appeals. The last table (Table 12) presents a 5-year trend in filings for those states reporting total case data for 5 or more years.

TABLE 1: Reported and estimated national caseload for courts of last resort, intermediate appellate courts, and all appellate courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization:

All 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico have courts of last resort. Oklahoma and Texas have two courts of last resort, one that hears civil cases and one that hears criminal cases.

Thirty two states have intermediate appellate courts. Four of these states have two intermediate appellate courts.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

Courts of last resort in states with intermediate appellate courts generally have wide discretion in setting their agenda. Most appeals are heard as a matter of right by intermediate appellate courts and by courts of last resort in states without intermediate appellate courts. (The courts of last resort in Virginia and West Virginia are exceptions.)

Total case figures are not comparable from state to state without considering the mix of mandatory and discretionary appeals heard by each court, and the variety of case types included in the jurisdiction of each court.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Some states report total cases processed without any indication of case type. Other states include, in their reported caseload, only appeals that were decided on the merits. Some appellate courts include all original proceedings, while others report no original proceedings. Some states do not distinguish cases, from motions or other procedural matters.

This report defines "appellate case" to include any appeal, original proceeding, request to appeal, or sentence review only case.

Sources of data for each court are found in the individual court profiles in Part II, and in Appendix B.

Reported cases:

The reported cases figures contain the reported cases that were 100% complete with no "j" footnotes. These data can be found in Tables 2, 3, and 4.

Percent of population represented:

State population figures used for all appellate courts and courts of last resort are from the revised 1980 Bureau of Census figures and total 229,712,000 for the 50 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. Bureau of Census estimates for the population of the 32 states with intermediate appellate courts in 1980 totaled 197,377,000.

Estimated totals from Appendix A:

These figures represent the estimated data from those states who reported less than complete data. The estimating equations can be found in Appendix A.

Estimated national totals:

Estimated national totals for 1980 are the cumulative totals of all reported data that were complete, plus the estimated data for each state not reporting complete data. This figure for "All appellate courts" is the sum of estimated national totals from "courts of last resort" and "intermediate appellate courts." The procedure used to estimate incomplete or missing data is discussed in Appendix A.

Estimated cases per judge:

This measure is used to indicate the average number of cases filed for each appellate judge, and the number of cases in which each appellate judge participated in the disposition.

There were 933 judges assigned to appellate courts in 1980: 352 in courts of last resort, and 581 in intermediate appellate courts. The estimated national totals in each of the categories were divided by the number of judges serving that level of court.

Estimated cases per 100,000 population:

This measure is used to indicate the frequency with which cases are filed and disposed in appellate courts.

Estimated cases per 100,000 population were calculated by dividing the estimated national totals by the appropriate population figure, 2,297.12 for all appellate courts and for courts of last resort, and 1,973.77 for intermediate appellate courts.

Examples of appropriate uses and techniques:

The estimates of total volume can be compared to the estimates of total volume of cases filed and disposed in trial courts in Table 13 to indicate how frequently cases are appealed to appellate courts. These figures may be compared to the caseload of federal appellate courts to indicate the proportion of appellate cases that are heard in the state court systems.

Limitations on use:

Data have been aggregated in order to make rough estimates of overall national totals, but due to the small sample size but this has been done without regard to definitions of case categories and units of count. The national estimates contained in this report should be viewed only as "ball-park" estimates, and not the exact volume of cases in state courts.

Note: Reported cases for all appellate courts is less than the sum of reported cases for courts of last resort and intermediate appellate courts due to the fact that states with more than one appellate court had to report complete data for all its appellate courts in order for this table to display total state appellate caseload.

A state with one court reporting complete data, and one court reporting incomplete data will not be reported in "All appellate courts" but will have the complete data from the one court reported in the appropriate section (i.e., either "Courts of last resort" or "Intermediate appellate courts").

TABLE 2: Reported appellate court caseload for all appellate courts, 1980

Variations in court organization:

Appellate courts are subdivided into courts of last resort (the final court of appeal within a particular state) and intermediate appellate courts. This table presents data for both of these appellate court types.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

In some states, trial courts of general jurisdiction have incidental appellate jurisdiction. These courts may receive a large portion of the initial appeals, while other states that do not assign appellate jurisdiction to general jurisdiction courts will have all their appeals heard in appellate courts. In these states the appellate courts will have a much higher filing rate, but not necessarily more workload than those states hearing appeals in general jurisdiction courts.

Sources of data:

All appellate courts reported at least some caseload inventory data for 1980.

Data presented in this and the following tables were compiled from both annual reports and unpublished data provided by individual appellate court clerks and state court administrators. The sources of data for each court are shown in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Reported national totals:

The reported national totals include only data from states reporting complete data in the inventory categories for all courts in the state.

Number of states reporting:

Only those states that reported complete data for all appellate courts are included in this table. The term "state" in this and following tables includes the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Percent of population represented:

State populations used for "all appellate courts" are the revised 1980 Bureau of Census figures and total 229,712,000 for the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Appropriate analyses:

Disposed as a percent of filed. The statistic indicates how well all the appellate courts in a state are disposing of cases that are filed. This figure may be somewhat dependent on the number of appellate judges, as well as the types of cases that can be appealed. A figure less than 100% indicates that the state appellate courts are not keeping up with their caseload. A statistic greater than 100% indicates that the courts are beginning to reduce their pending caseload.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons should not be made among states before checking for similarities and differences among the states in the profile section in Part II. When comparing the number of appeals filed and disposed among states, also consider the percent of the appeals that are discretionary (i.e., the number of requests to appeal handled by each state); the number of appellate courts in the state; whether there is an intermediate appellate court in the state; and the extent to which some appeals are heard at the trial level.

Note: For inclusion on this table, a case is defined as any appeal, original proceeding, request to appeal, or sentence review only case. All available data are entered in the table and all appropriate calculations are included. Blank spaces indicate that either the data were unavailable or less than 90% complete, or the calculations were inappropriate. Data from Minnesota, Nebraska, New York and North Carolina were either totally missing, or substantially incomplete.

Data are incomplete:
Alabama--Total cases in the Court of Criminal Appeals do not include petitions disposed of in the clerk's office at the direction of the Court.
District of Columbia--Pending data do not include disciplinary cases.
Massachusetts--Pending and filed figures for the Supreme Judicial Court do not include cases heard in "single justice sessions."
New Jersey--Supreme Court--Total cases filed and pending do not include all requests to appeal.

Wisconsin--The disposed and pending figures for the Supreme Court do not include miscellaneous original jurisdiction cases.

*Reported national totals:
The reported national totals include only data for states reporting data in the caseload category for all courts in the state. Only complete data were included in the national totals. Figures marked with an "i" footnote were not included.

*Number of states reporting:
Reported cases for courts of last resort and "all appellate courts" are from the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. Reported cases for intermediate appellate courts are from the 30 states with intermediate appellate courts.

*Percent of population represented:
State populations used for courts of last resort and "all appellate courts" are the revised 1979 Bureau of Census estimates and total 229,712,000 for the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

TABLE 3: Detailed caseload categories for courts of last resort, 1980.

TABLE 4: Detailed caseload categories for intermediate appellate courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization:

Table 3 contains caseload inventory by case type for the courts of last resort in the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. Table 4 contains caseload inventory by case type for the intermediate appellate courts in the 32 states that have intermediate appellate courts.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

Major variation from state to state results from the kind of discretionary jurisdiction granted to courts of last resort and to intermediate appellate courts. States having both levels of appellate courts generally direct the most difficult appeals to the courts of last resort, but these are not necessarily the same types of cases in every state.

Although most courts of last resort, have jurisdiction over original proceedings, disciplinary, advisory opinion, and request to appeal cases, intermediate appellate courts rarely hear these types of cases. The individual state profiles broadly outline the specific jurisdiction of each court.

These variations in jurisdiction make caseload comparisons among appellate courts extremely difficult.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

The classification used by each state will be found in the pertinent state profile in Part II. This report defines "appellate case" to include any appeal, original proceeding, request to appeal, or sentence review only case, and where possible, has placed each state's case data within these case classifications.

Some states report total cases processed without any indication as to the type of proceeding. Other states include in their caseload only appeals that were decided on the merits. Some appellate courts include all original proceedings, while others report none. Some states do not distinguish cases from procedural matters such as motions for rehearing.

Classification of the same type of proceeding varies from state to state. For example, habeas corpus may be reported as a separate category, or it may be subsumed in appeals, original proceedings, or motions.

Sources of data for each court are found in the individual state profiles in Part II, and in Appendix B.

Reported national totals:

The reported national totals for courts of last resort (i.e., Table 3) and intermediate appellate courts (i.e., Table 4) include only data for states reporting complete data in the caseload category.

The number of requests to appeal granted that appear in parentheses were not included in the totals to avoid double counting (see footnote "e").

Number of states reporting for courts of last resort:

Reported cases for appeals and total cases are from the states that reported complete appeals data. Reported cases for original proceedings and requests to appeal are from the 50 states handling original proceedings and 48 states handling requests to appeal that reported complete data for each of these categories.

The term "state" in this and following appellate tables includes the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Number of states reporting for intermediate appellate courts:

Reported cases for appeals and total cases are from the 32 states with intermediate appellate courts that reported complete appeals data. Reported cases for original proceedings and requests to appeal are from the 23 states handling these types of cases that reported complete data for each of these categories.

Percent of population represented for courts of last resort:

State populations used are the Bureau of Census counts for 1980 and total 229,712,000 for the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. The total population is 219,657,000 for the 50 states handling original proceedings and 225,235,000 for the 48 states handling requests to appeal.

Percent of population represented for intermediate appellate courts:

State populations used are the Bureau of Census counts for 1980 and total 197,377,000 for the 32 states with intermediate appellate courts. The total population is 150,718,000 for the 23 states handling original proceedings and 136,870,000 for the 23 states handling requests to appeal. The percent of population represented for each caseload category is based on the total population figure for states where the category is relevant.

Appropriate analyses:

Although these tables are designed primarily to display total caseload data, they may also be used for some analysis. Comparisons may be made between caseload figures of courts of similar type, for example, between the number of mandatory appeals filed in courts of last resort, and those filed in intermediate appellate courts.

Limitations on use:

North Carolina--Supreme Court--Total pending cases do not include any requests to appeal. Filed and disposed requests to appeal and total cases do not include cases involving substantial constitutional questions, and a variety of other requests to appeal subcategories.

Oklahoma--Supreme Court--Pending data do not include certiorari cases.

Wisconsin--Supreme Court-- Original proceedings and total cases disposed and pending do not include miscellaneous original jurisdiction cases.

JExplanation of data included in the category:

Alabama--Supreme Court--The figures for original proceedings filed and disposed include some appeals.

District of Columbia--Court of Appeals-- Appeals include requests to appeal.

Louisiana--Supreme Court-- Appeals filed include a few habeas corpus original jurisdiction cases.

Montana--Supreme Court-- Requests to appeal filed could not be separated from appeals and original proceedings.

Nebraska--Supreme Court-- Appeals include a minimal number of original proceedings.

New Hampshire--Supreme Court-- Requests to appeal are included in the appeal figure.

*Reported national totals:
The reported national totals included only data for states reporting data in the caseload category for all courts in the state. Only complete data were included in the national totals. Figures marked with an "i" footnote were not included; those marked with a "j" were included. The numbers of request to appeal granted that appear in parentheses were not included in the totals to avoid double counting (see footnote "e").

*Number of states reporting:
Reported cases for appeals and total cases are from the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. Reported cases from original proceedings and requests to appeal are from the 49 states and 47 states handling original proceedings and request to appeal, respectively.

*Percent of population represented:
State populations used are the 1980 Bureau of Census reports, and total 229,712,000 from the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. The total population is 219,657,000 for the 50 states handling original proceedings and 225,235,000 for the 48 states handling requests to appeal.

Note: For inclusion on this table, a case is defined as any appeal, original proceeding, request to appeal or sentence review only case. Total cases include sentence review only cases. All available data are entered in the table. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable, or less than 90% complete.

NH = This case type is not handled in this court.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

A request to appeal granted is not counted as a disposed request to appeal or as a filed appeal. It is counted as a disposition only when the resulting appeal is disposed.

The numbers of requests to appeal granted are the numbers appearing in parentheses in the table. These numbers are not included in the calculated national totals.

^fData is incomplete:

Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--Total cases do not include petitions disposed of in the clerk's office at the direction of the Court.

California--Total pending cases figures do not include original proceedings.

New York--Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court--Total cases filed do not include all original proceedings.

Oklahoma--Court of Appeals--Total pending do not include certiorari cases.

Pennsylvania--Commonwealth Court--Total cases disposed do not include any original proceedings.

Wisconsin--Total begin pending cases do not include requests to appeal.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--Pending and filed appeal data include original proceedings and requests to appeal. Disposed appeal data includes requests to appeal.

Iowa--Court of Appeals--Total appeals filed and pending include sentence review only cases.

New York--Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court--Filed and disposed appeals include an unknown number of original proceedings.

North Carolina--Disposed appeals include original proceedings.

Wisconsin--Court of Appeals--Filed, disposed and end pending appeals include requests to appeal.

^{*}Reported national totals:

The reported national totals include only data for states reporting data in the caseload category for all courts in the state. Only complete data were included in the national totals. Figures marked with an "i" footnote were not included; those marked with a "j" were included. The number of requests to appeal granted that appear in parentheses were not included in the totals to avoid double counting (see footnote "e").

^{*}Number of states reporting:

Reported cases for appeals and total cases are from the 32 states with intermediate appellate courts. Reported cases for original proceedings and requests to appeal are from the 23 states and 23 states, respectively, handling each case type.

^{*}Percent of population represented:

State populations used are the 1980 Bureau of Census report, and total 197,377,000 for the 32 states with intermediate appellate courts. The total population is 150,708,000 for the 23 states handling original proceedings and 136,870,000 for the 23 states handling requests to appeal. The percent of population represented for each caseload category is based on these total population figures.

TABLE 5: Caseload for appeals and requests to appeal (civil and criminal) and total cases for courts of last resort, 1980.

TABLE 6: Caseload for appeals and requests to appeal (civil and criminal) and total cases for intermediate appellate courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization:

Tables 5 and 6 display a portion of the data displayed in Tables 3 and 4, and the same variations in court organization apply.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

Tables 5 and 6 display a portion of the data displayed in Tables 3 and 4, and the same variations in subject matter jurisdiction apply.

Variations in case classifications and definitions:

The total cases column in Tables 5 and 6 is the same as in Tables 3 and 4, and includes all appeals, original jurisdiction cases, requests to appeal, and sentence review only cases. Only two case types--appeals and requests to appeal--are displayed in Tables 5 and 6, both separated, where data were available, into civil and criminal categories.

These tables indicate that a significant minority of states fail to break down appeals into even the most general case types--civil and criminal.

The sum of civil and criminal cases may not add up to the figures shown for appeals and requests to appeals in Tables 3 and 4 because other types of appeals and requests to appeal may be included in the total cases. (See the pertinent state profile in Part II for this information.)

The types of cases classified as appeals present a particular problem. Matters such as requests for bail pending appeal, requests for delayed appeal, and petitions to stay the lower court ruling pending appeal generally are not considered appeals, but are counted as such in some courts, inflating the appellate caseload in those states.

Courts with discretionary jurisdiction sometimes report the total number of cases filed without distinguishing between mandatory and discretionary cases; or they separate mandatory and discretionary cases filed but do not indicate the number of requests for discretionary review granted. Some provide separate data for mandatory cases, discretionary review granted, and discretionary review denied, while others combine mandatory cases and cases accepted for review, but report separately the number of petitions for review filed, resulting in double counting of granted petitions for review.

Sources of data for each court are found in the individual profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Appropriate analyses:

Although these tables are designed primarily to display the breakdown of appellate caseloads into the civil and criminal case types, they may also be used for some analysis. The ratio of civil to criminal appeals may be calculated for any court. These ratios may be compared between courts of similar type. The ratio of civil appeals to civil requests to appeal may be calculated and compared to the ratio of criminal appeals to criminal requests to appeal.

Limitations on use:

Although cases are identified as being civil or criminal on this table, the definitions used by the courts to make this distinction may differ. One court may include juvenile appeals, and appeals of administrative agency cases in its civil appeal category. Other courts may report these cases in three separate categories, as recommended in the Model Statistical Dictionary. Before comparisons are made, one should check each court profile to determine whether there is any indication of the types of cases included in the civil or criminal category.

For those courts that report non-civil and criminal cases in separate categories and for those that have jurisdiction over original proceedings in addition to the appeals and request to appeal cases reported here, the sum of the figures reported for any case category on the table will be less than the total cases figure reported for that case category.

NH = This case type is not handled in this court.
X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total, but were unavailable by category.
-- = Not applicable.

^eCases are not included in the total to avoid double counting:
A request to appeal granted is not counted as a disposed request to appeal or as a filed appeal. It is counted as a disposition only when the resulting appeal is disposed. The numbers of requests to appeal granted are the figures appearing in parentheses in this table.

[†]Data are incomplete:
District of Columbia--Pending data do not include disciplinary cases.
Indiana-- Requests to appeal granted do not include data from criminal petitions.
Mississippi--Supreme Court--Filed and disposed civil and criminal appeals do not include a number of unspecified cases.
Nebraska--Total cases do not include requests to appeal.
New Jersey--Supreme Court--Filed and pending total cases do not include all of the requests to appeal.

[‡]Explanation of data included in the category:
Maryland--Court of Appeals--Begin pending and filed civil appeals include juvenile appeals.
Oklahoma--Supreme Court-- Civil appeals filed include all original proceedings. filed.

Note: For inclusion on this table, a case is defined as any appeal, original proceeding, request to appeal, or sentence review only case. Total cases pending, filed, and disposed include original proceedings and sentence review only cases as well as all appeals and all requests to appeal. Data for intermediate appellate courts from the following states were excluded from this table because they failed to break their appeals and requests to appeal into civil and criminal cases: Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, North Carolina and Pennsylvania. All available data are entered in the table. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable, or less than 90% complete.

NH = This case type is not handled in this court.
X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total, but were unavailable by category.

^oCases are not included in the total to avoid double counting:
A request to appeal granted is not counted as a disposed request to appeal or as a filed

^IData are incomplete:

Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--Data do not include petitions disposed of in the clerk's office at the direction of the Court.
California--Courts of Appeal--Total pending cases do not include original jurisdiction cases.
Oklahoma--Court of Appeals--Total pending data do not include requests to appeal.

^JExplanation of data included in the category:

Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--Pending and filed appeals include original proceedings and requests to appeal. Disposed appeals included requests to appeal.
Colorado--Court of Appeals-- Civil appeals filed include some appeals from administrative agencies and boards.
Iowa--Court of Appeals-- Civil appeals filed and pending include administrative law and postconviction relief cases. Criminal appeals filed and pending include sentence review only cases.
New Mexico--Court of Appeals-- Criminal appeals filed include juvenile appeals.
Wisconsin--Court of Appeals-- Civil and criminal appeals include requests to appeal.

TABLE 7: Caseload for courts of last resort in states with intermediate appellate courts, 1980.

TABLE 8: Caseload for courts of last resort in states without intermediate appellate courts, 1980.

TABLE 9: Caseload for intermediate appellate courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization:

In Tables 7 and 8, the courts of last resort in states with intermediate appellate courts have been separated from the states without intermediate appellate courts, while Tables 7 and 9 together show the total appellate caseload in those states with intermediate appellate courts.

These tables contain the same caseload inventory data that is shown in Table 2, and the same variations in court organization apply to these tables.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

The jurisdiction of each court is outlined briefly in the court system organization chart for each state located in Part II of this report.

Major variation from state to state results from the type of mandatory and discretionary jurisdiction over initial appeals granted to courts of last resort and to intermediate appellate courts. States having both levels of appellate courts generally direct the more difficult appeals to the court of last resort, but these are not necessarily the same types of cases in every state.

In some states trial courts of general jurisdiction have incidental appellate jurisdiction, which affects the number of appeals filed in the appellate courts.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Total case figures may not be comparable from state to state.

Some states report total cases processed without any indication as to what types of proceedings are included. Other states include in their caseload only appeals that were decided on the merits. Some appellate courts include all original proceedings, while others report none. Some states do not distinguish appeals and other cases from procedural matters.

Variations in counting cases:

The kind and amount of discretionary jurisdiction granted to courts of last resort and intermediate appellate courts vary from state to state. Courts with discretionary jurisdiction sometimes report the total number of cases filed without distinguishing between mandatory and discretionary cases; or they separate mandatory and discretionary cases filed but do not indicate the number of requests for discretionary review granted. Some provide separate data for mandatory cases, discretionary review granted, and discretionary review denied, while others combine mandatory cases and cases accepted for review, but report separately the number of petitions for review filed, resulting in double counting of granted petitions for review.

Courts may count cases at different stages in proceedings. Some courts count cases when the notice of appeal is filed. Others wait to count cases until they are argued or submitted on briefs. Courts which count cases at stages that occur later in case processing will not count those cases on which a notice of appeal is filed but later the parties decide not to pursue the subsequent stages. The manner of counting cases in each court is given in Table 11 and on each individual appellate court profile in Part II of this report.

Sources of data for each court are found in the individual profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Appropriate analyses:

All percentage calculations that were less than 1% but greater than 0% have been rounded up to 1%. All percentage calculations that were less than 0% but greater than -1% have been rounded down to -1%.

Disposed cases as percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases that the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed. This measure was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten.

End pending as percent of filed. This figure gives the percent of the number of filed cases that were pending at the end of the year. This measure is computed by dividing the number of cases pending at the end of the year by the number of cases filed and then multiplying by one hundred. A value of one hundred percent indicates that the number of cases pending at the end of the year was equal to the number of cases filed during the year. A value higher than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload larger than cases filed, while a value lower than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload smaller than the number of cases filed. This percent was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten.

Number change in pending caseload. This number gives the net increase or decrease in pending caseload for the court year by subtracting the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year from the number of cases pending at the end of the year. An alternative to this calculation, subtracting the number disposed from the number filed, was used when pending data were unavailable or incomplete. When this alternate formula was used, the resulting number was enclosed in parentheses. A positive number indicates that the pending caseload increased during the year while a negative number indicates that the pending caseload was reduced in size. Thus, a large negative change in pending indicates that the court is keeping the caseload current, while a large positive change in pending would indicate that the court has not kept pace with its filings.

Percent change in pending caseload. This percentage indicates the change in pending cases relative to the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year, and is obtained by dividing the number change in pending caseload by the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year and then multiplying by one hundred. (This figure cannot be calculated if the alternative formula described above was used to calculate the number change in the pending caseload.) A high negative percent indicates that the court reduced its pending caseload significantly, while a high positive percent indicates that the pending caseload increased significantly. This measure was not computed if the number of beginning pending cases was less than ten.

Filed and disposed per judge. These measures are displayed in appellate court tables. If all other factors (court jurisdiction, discretionary jurisdiction, case definition, panels in the court, etc.) are similar, these measures permit comparison of caseload per judge. These statistics were computed by dividing the filed and disposed cases respectively, by the number of appellate judges serving that court.

The necessity for caution when making any comparisons among states must be repeated. This warning holds true especially for comparisons using any of the above measures.

Filed per 100,000 population. The unit of state population used on all court caseload charts is 100,000. This measure compensates for variations in state population and gives a more realistic basis for comparison of caseloads among states of various sizes. If all other factors (court jurisdiction, discretionary jurisdiction, case definition, etc.) are similar, the filed per 100,000 population statistic permits direct comparisons among states of the number of filed cases.

Limitations on use:

Note: For inclusion on this table, a case is defined as any appeal, original proceeding, request to appeal, or sentence review only case. All available data are entered in the table and all appropriate calculations are included. Blank spaces indicate that either the data are not available or the calculations were inappropriate. The New York and North Carolina courts of last resort were not included in this table because they had substantially incomplete data.

-- = Not applicable.

^eCases are not included in the total to avoid double counting: A request to appeal granted is not counted as a disposed request to appeal or as a filed appeal. It is counted as a disposition only when the resulting numbers appearing in parentheses in the table. These numbers were not included in any of the calculations.

ⁱData are not complete:

Wisconsin--The disposed and pending figures do not include miscellaneous original jurisdiction cases.

^kAdditional information:

Both Oklahoma and Texas have two courts of last resort. The Supreme Court hears only civil matters; the Court of Criminal Appeals hears all criminal matters. Both also have an intermediate appellate court that hears only civil matters. Although the Court of Criminal Appeals in both states has no intermediate appellate court, data from both courts of last resort are included on this table for Texas and Oklahoma so that the entire caseload of that level of court can be presented as a unit as it is for every other state.

All available data are entered in the table and all appropriate calculations are included. Blank spaces indicate that either the data were unavailable or less than 90% complete, or the calculations were inappropriate. Numbers appearing in parentheses, representing the number of requests to appeal that were granted, were not included in the calculations.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

The Alaska Court of Appeals has jurisdiction over criminal cases only.
The Louisiana Courts of Appeal, Oklahoma Court of Appeals, Tennessee Court of Appeals, and Texas Court of Civil Appeals have jurisdiction over civil cases only.

officers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania only.
^eCases are not included in the total to avoid double counting:
A request to appeal granted is not counted as a disposed request to appeal or as a filed appeal. It is counted as a disposition only when the resulting appeal is disposed. The numbers of requests to appeal granted are the numbers appearing in parentheses in the table. These numbers are not included in the calculated figures.

ⁱData are not complete:

Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--Figures do not include petitions disposed of in the clerk's office at the direction of the Court.
New York--Appellate divisions of the Supreme Court--Total cases filed do not include all original proceedings.

TABLE 10: Opinions reported by appellate courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization:

Appellate courts in this table have been separated into courts of last resort in states without intermediate appellate courts, courts of last resort in states with intermediate appellate courts, and intermediate appellate courts. This breakdown illustrates how the number of cases disposed of by opinion may vary by appellate court organization.

The number of appellate courts in each state is shown in Table 2.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

The types of appellate cases and their complexity vary from state to state, and from appellate court to appellate court within a state. Variation in subject-matter jurisdiction may be partially explained by court organization, e.g., the presence of an intermediate appellate court, or the existence of a specialized appellate court. The number of, and time consumed by, original jurisdiction cases is also affected by several variables, including whether state statutes require that collateral attacks on criminal convictions be filed originally in the trial court or in the appellate court.

Sources of data:

These are found on the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

A case was classified as disposed of by opinion if it was so classified by the state annual report, e.g., a listing of "per curiam" would only be classified as an opinion if it was listed as "per curiam opinion." The data do not include dissenting and concurring opinions.

Courts may increase or decrease their reported caseloads by the way they count appeals of criminal convictions for two or more defendants, by whether cross appeals are counted as separate cases, and by the way they count appeals granted through discretionary jurisdiction.

Appropriate analyses:

Number of cases disposed of by opinion as percent of dispositions. This summary statistic may indicate the importance attributed by a specific court to opinion-writing as a manner of disposition. A figure of 68% can be interpreted to mean that 68% of that court's dispositions were resolved by an opinion. Although a lower figure in another court may indicate that court's preference to resolve disputes without opinion, the lower figure may result from a variety of other factors, such as: a higher caseload than the first court; fewer resources that can be devoted to opinion-writing than the first court; or a different set of cases that do not require elaborate explanations of decisions through opinion-writing. In short, this may be more of a workload measure than one which identifies opinion-writing as a method of announcing decisions.

Number of cases disposed of by opinion per judge. This summary statistic can be used as but one component of a general workload measure. A figure of 44 can be interpreted to mean that given that court's definition of an opinion, 44 cases were disposed of by an opinion for each judge assigned to that court.

Limitations on use:

Differences between courts can limit the value of the figures reported in this table. The use of different terminology by different courts to mean the same thing further complicates analysis. A per curiam opinion in one court may be the functional equivalent of a full opinion in another court, or a memorandum opinion in yet another court. An effort has been made to limit the reporting of opinions in this table to full-length opinions, signed or unsigned, but because we are not able to differentiate among ways terms are used in each state, some less than full-length opinions are probably included in these data.

Beyond the problem of distinguishing among types of opinions, full opinions may be of different lengths. Also, courts make varied use of commissioners, law clerks, and other legal staff. Some courts may use staff to draft opinions, while others do not. These figures may also vary depending on appellate court structure and the amount of discretionary jurisdiction. For these reasons, figures such as the number of cases disposed of by opinion per judge, and the number of opinions written per judge are less than perfect indicators of the level of work done by judges in these courts, and they are by no means an all-encompassing measure of a judge's workload. Behaviors other than opinion-writing are important components of a judge's daily activities.

Note: All available data are included in the table. Blank spaces indicate that data were unavailable. A case was classified as disposed by opinion if it was so classified by the state annual reports, e.g., a listing of "per curiam" would only be classified as an opinion, if it was listed "per curiam opinion." The data do not include dissenting or concurring opinions.

NH = This case type is not handled in this court.
X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

^cJudge information:
Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--There are three supernumerary judges also assigned to this court.
California--Courts of Appeal--There were 63.6 full-time judge equivalents during fiscal year 1979-1980.
Illinois--Appellate Court--Four retired and nine circuit judges also served by agreement during 1980.
Missouri--Supreme Court--Two commissioners also served the Court.

New York--Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court--Nine justices and twelve certified retired judges were temporarily assigned to this Court.
New Jersey--Appellate Division of Superior Court--Twenty-two judges are authorized, but one judge served as acting administrative director of the courts.
Washington--Supreme Court--In addition, one commissioner serves the Supreme Court, and three commissioners served the Court of Appeals.

ⁱData are not complete:
Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--Data do not include petitions disposed of in the clerk's office at the direction of the Court.
Nebraska--Supreme Court--Requests to appeal are not included in disposition data.
^jExplanation of data included in the category:
Alaska--Supreme Court--Civil and criminal appeals include some juvenile appeals.
Idaho--Supreme Court--Civil appeals include juvenile appeals. Criminal appeals include postconviction remedy cases.

Iowa--Supreme Court and Court of Appeals--Civil appeals include agency appeals and postconviction remedy appeals. Criminal appeals include sentence review only cases.
Kentucky--Court of Appeals--Of the figures given, 1,005 were "nonpublished" opinions.
Maryland--Court of Appeals--Seventeen of the 140 opinions were unreported.
Court of Special Appeals--843 of the 1,061 were unreported and all per curiam.
Minnesota--Agency appeals data include requests to appeal.
Mississippi--Supreme Court--Of the 372 written opinions, 107 were "unpublished."
Ohio--Court of Appeals--Miscellaneous cases include habeas corpus, original actions, administrative agency appeals, and appeals from the Court of Claims.

^mCategories for disposition type or trial data:
Georgia--Supreme Court--The 614 written opinions disposed of 665 cases.
Idaho--Supreme Court--198 cases were disposed of by 149 majority and 49 per curiam opinions.
Illinois--Appellate Court--The 2,148 majority opinions disposed of 2,523 cases.
Kentucky--Supreme Court--the 240 opinions disposed of 281 cases.
New Jersey--Supreme Court--The 92 written opinions and 18 per curiam opinions disposed of 134 appeals and 9 disciplinary matters.
Appellate Division of Superior Court--The 3,594 opinions disposed of approximately 3,832 cases.
South Dakota--Supreme Court--170 opinions disposed of 202 cases.

TABLE 11: Time interval (days) data for courts of last resort and intermediate appellate courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization:

Appellate courts in this table have been separated into courts of last resort and intermediate appellate courts. See Table 2 for the number of appellate courts in each state.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Data on this table are apparently for appeals decided on the merits after a full review by the court, although this fact is not usually made explicit in the source documents.

Variations in counting cases:

Some courts count cases as soon as the notice of appeal is filed while others count them at a later event, such as at the filing of the record or the filing of the appellant's record. The latter method will exclude those cases that are withdrawn before the counting point from total dispositions.

Appropriate analyses:

Comparison can be made of time to disposition for courts at the same level that use the same event for the start of the time interval. The time intervals used on this table are designed to divide the entire time a case is pending into the portion of time it is under the control of the court and the portion over which the lawyers have control. Comparisons can be made of the portion of the entire time the case is pending in a particular status with similar cases pending in another court of the same type. Comparisons can also be made of the length of time different types of cases take in the same court.

Limitations on use:

Courts are grouped on this table by type of court (court of last resort or intermediate appellate court) and by the events used to define the start and end of each interval. Comparisons should be restricted to similar types of cases in courts that use the same events for the start and end of the interval of interest.

Although an attempt has been made to divide the entire time a case is pending into the portion over which the lawyers have control and the portion the court has control, these are not the only actors that affect the pace of litigation. The lawyer may have to wait for the court reporter to prepare the necessary transcripts. The court may have to wait for another court to make a decision on a different aspect of the case. This table indicates the average pace of litigation for large groups of not necessarily homogeneous cases. A detailed study of the pace of litigation should be supported by data of far greater detail than are available here.

Note: Times are often given in months, fractions of months, or months and days. For comparability, months were converted to days by using 30.5 days per month.

Data on this table are apparently for appeals decided on the merits after a full review by the court, although this fact is not usually made explicit in the source documents. The data for the Washington Supreme Court are only for appeals filed directly with the court, and not for appeals certified or transferred from the intermediate appellate court. In addition to regular appeals, the New Jersey Supreme Court data include some cases in which the decision on the merits is made pursuant to the argument as to whether the certification should be granted.

All available data are entered in the table. Blank spaces indicate that the data are not available.

For the time the briefs are filed, the following events were used:
Readiness--Iowa Supreme Court.
Data perfected--Washington Supreme Court, and Washington Court of Appeals.
Appellee's brief--Alabama Court of Civil Appeals
For time decision announced, the following events were used:
Opinion publication--Alaska Supreme Court
Final decision--Oregon Supreme Court and Oregon Court of Appeals

Note: For inclusion on this table a case is defined as any appeal, any original proceeding, or any request to appeal. Requests to appeal are counted when originally filed and are not counted again if granted. All complete data are entered in the table. Blank spaces indicate that the data are not available.

-- = Not applicable.

*Indicates the year the intermediate appellate court began operation.

^bParticular court or reporting system information:
Georgia--Supreme Court--Data reported by the court prior to 1979 do not include pending data, and it is therefore not clear how requests to appeal which were granted in these years were counted. Data from before 1979 may not be comparable with that reported for years after 1979.

ⁱData are not complete:
Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--Figures do not include petitions disposed in the clerk's office at the direction of the court.

Nebraska--Supreme Court--Figures given include appeals and original jurisdiction cases only. No information is available on the number of requests to appeal that are filed.

New Jersey--Supreme Court--Data do not include all motions for direct certification and motions for leave to appeal.
New York--Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court--Data reported do not include original proceedings.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:
Maryland--Court of Appeals and Court of Special Appeals--Requests to appeal granted were double counted in the data reported here for 1975 and 1976--once when the request to appeal was filed and again when the resulting appeal was filed.

^kAdditional information:
Arizona--Supreme Court--Figures given for 1975-1979 were corrected from previous editions of this report.
Kentucky--Supreme Court--Before 1976, the court of last resort was named the Court of Appeals.

Trial court summary statistics

This section contains tables that display the 1980 statistical data from the trial courts. The data cannot be found in published annual reports alone. All published annual reports and other available documents from the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico were used. Unpublished data provided by state court administrators or other officials were also used.

In this 1980 Annual Report the number of states with some trial court data displayed has increased from 44 states and the District of Columbia in 1975, to 49 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico in 1977, 1978, 1979, and 1980. The major reason for the increase has been the addition of statistics from limited jurisdiction courts. Court systems that contributed to the 1975 Annual Report have provided more data as state court administrators have become aware of the CSIM Project data needs. Several states that submitted no data for the 1975 report have since changed or improved their data systems to the extent that they now provide data for the national statistical series.

Trial court data received from states are generally more detailed and easier to interpret than appellate court data. However, some very specific problems prevent comparisons of the data presented in this report. These problems are (1) the lack of uniform case classifications; (2) lack of uniform ways of counting cases; (3) the lack of complete data reported by the courts; (4) questions relating to the validity of data collected, both published and unpublished; and (5) variations in the subject matter jurisdiction of the courts.

The first problem in comparing data available from trial courts is the lack of uniformity in case classification and unit of case count. Both the case categories and the data classified in the case categories vary from state to state. Under the case category of "law," for example, one state may use the term "civil judgment," another "civil complaint," and still another may report the case as "money judgment." This makes consolidation of these categories difficult. The lack of uniformity in unit of case count causes difficulty in comparison of caseload (see Figure C). Units of counting criminal cases may be informations, indictments, or complaints; the number of defendants; or even the number of charges. Civil cases may be counted at the filing of a complaint, at note of issue, or at the time placed on the calendar.

The second problem in comparing data available from trial courts is the lack of complete statistics. Some states report only total caseload.

Others report individual case categories, but omit breakdowns within certain categories to show what is included within, for example, domestic relations, estate, or mental health. This omission presents a problem in interstate comparisons. In addition, there are states that are not consistent in their reporting of data. The general jurisdiction court, for example, may give detailed category breakdowns, whereas the limited jurisdiction court may report only total civil, criminal, and juvenile cases, or not report at all.

The third problem relates to questions of validity of the data collected, both published and unpublished. One of the major factors in data validity is the chance of human error. Many elements (hidden data, transposition of figures, double counting of cases, manner used to verify data) contribute to the scope of this problem. Although many verification techniques have been implemented by state court administrators and by the Court Statistics and Information Management Project staff to keep errors to a minimum, the reader should understand that a verification process does not guarantee absolute accuracy.

The final problem is variation in the subject matter jurisdiction of the courts. In 1980, five states, Illinois, Idaho, Iowa, Missouri and South Dakota, the District of Columbia, and Guam, handled all types of cases in general jurisdiction courts. In other states, such as Florida and New Jersey, general jurisdiction courts process only major criminal cases and major civil actions, while other civil and criminal cases are handled by limited jurisdiction courts. Limited jurisdiction courts were added to this series in 1976 in order to present a complete picture of the trial court caseload. The 1980 state statistical profiles in Part II show that the number and types of trial courts vary from state to state. This difference in court structure must be kept in mind while examining the data in these summary tables.

The reader should note two other factors before reviewing the trial court tables. The first: only states reporting data that could be displayed in specific case category tables (i.e., felony, real property rights, status offenses, etc.) were included in such tables. For the sake of clarity, those states that did not report such data were not listed.

The following tables are sequenced from a general overview (national caseload totals for courts) to the more specific caseload detail (civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile case categories and caseload).

TABLE 13: Reported national caseload (civil, criminal, traffic, juvenile, and total) in all trial courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization:

In 1980 the number of different kinds of trial courts in a state ranged from 1 (in states with a single-tier trial court) to 15. Five states (Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, and South Dakota), the District of Columbia, and Guam have no limited jurisdiction courts. Massachusetts technically has one general jurisdiction court with seven departments. A court organization chart for each state can be found in Part II of this report.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

When comparing trial court statistics, the differences in jurisdiction both within and among states must be examined. For example, general jurisdiction courts in states with single-tier courts handle all cases from felonies to parking violations, and from the largest civil actions to small claims. Another state's general jurisdiction courts may have a criminal division that handles only felony matters (after preliminary hearings in limited jurisdiction courts), and a civil division that handles no civil cases involving less than $10,000.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Some states report only total caseload. Others report individual case categories, but omit breakdowns within certain categories to show what is included within, for example, domestic relations, estate, or mental health. This omission presents a problem in interstate comparison.

In addition, there are states that are not consistent in their reporting of data. The general jurisdiction court, for example, may give detailed category breakdowns, whereas the limited jurisdiction court may report only total civil, criminal, and juvenile cases, or not report at all.

Sources of data:

The 1980 state statistical profiles in Part II show how the number and types of courts vary from state to state. Also see Appendix B.

Variations in counting cases:

Figure C displays the existing variation in criminal case units of count. These figures show that the problem of case definition in trial courts is more acute on the criminal side. Most states, Puerto Rico, and Guam count civil cases in all trial courts when the petition or complaint is filed. In criminal cases, however, the two major units of count are almost evenly divided. Paper documents filed are the count unit for some courts, while the number of defendants is the count unit for other courts. In fact, several states have courts using different units of count.

Reported cases:

The reported cases for all trial courts, for general jurisdiction courts, and for limited jurisdiction courts include all complete data by the level of court indicated within the state. For example, for a state with more than one limited jurisdiction court to be included in the reported cases for limited jurisdiction courts, all of its limited jurisdiction courts must have reported complete data.

Number of states reporting complete data:

This figure represents the total number of states whose trial courts, at the indicated level, reported complete data.

Percent of population represented by complete data:

State population figures used are the revised 1980 Bureau of Census figures and total 229,712,000 for the 50 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. This was the figure used to compute percent of population represented by complete data for all trial courts, and for civil and criminal case types in general jurisdiction courts.

Estimated national totals:

These are the cumulative totals of all reported state total data that were complete, plus the estimated totals for each state for which complete figures were unavailable. The procedure used to estimate incomplete and missing data is discussed in Appendix A.

Appropriate analyses:

The estimates of total trial court volume can be compared to the estimates of the total appellate volume given in Table 1 to indicate the relationship between trial and appellate courts. The estimate of the total volume of each major case type, civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile, shows the relative distribution of the types of cases that are brought to the trial courts.

Limitations on use:

The estimates of case volume are based on complete data from only a portion of the states. It is not possible at this time to gauge the variability of these estimates. They should be viewed only as gross, "ball park" estimates, and not as representing the exact volume of cases in state courts.

Note: Data included in this table are those from the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam and Puerto Rico. To ascertain the states that reported data in any category, refer to Table 14.

TABLE 14: Reported total trial court caseload, 1980.

Variations in court organization:

Fifty states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico have 1980 trial court data displayed in Table 14.

A court organization chart for each state is in Part II of this report. The wide variation in court organization from state to state can be illustrated by comparing the District of Columbia's single-tier court system with Georgia, which has a number of general jurisdiction and/or limited jurisdiction courts. These differences in court organization determine the proportion of total trial court caseload that will be heard in general jurisdiction and in limited jurisdiction courts in each state.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

The variations in court organization mentioned above will also determine what proportion of civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile case types are heard at each level of court. See the individual court profiles in Part II for the case types handled in each trial court.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Table 14 shows only the very broad breakdown of caseload into civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile cases, and indicates with NHs the case types not handled in each particular court. This table gives a good overview of the way caseload is distributed among the trial courts. The large number of blank spaces indicates from which courts data were unavailable for 1980. No totals appear for a state on the state name line in any of the columns unless complete data (at least 90%) were reported by all courts handling that case type. State totals are left blank if data were missing from any court in the state.

Sources of data are indicated in the individual court profiles in Part II and Appendix B.

Variations in counting civil and criminal cases:

Those states that count criminal cases by charging documents are listed separately from those that count defendants. States that use some other unit of count for criminal cases will have the definition spelled out in the charging document columns, and have the data listed in the defendant columns. Care should be taken to avoid comparing defendant-count states with state data based on other units of count. These definitions in criminal cases are spelled out in the immediately preceding Figure C. An "*" next to a court indicates that the civil unit of count is not the filing of a complaint. Please check the profile to identify the unit of count. Only data from those states that count cases in the same way can be compared.

Appropriate analyses:

All percentage calculations that were less than 1% but greater than 0% have been rounded up to 1%. All percentage calculations that were less than 0% but greater than -1% have been rounded down to -1%.

Disposed cases as percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases that the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed. This measure was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten.

Filed (disposed) per 100,000 population. The unit of state population used on all court caseload charts is 100,000. This measure compensates for variations in state population and gives a more realistic basis for comparison of caseloads among states of various sizes. If the number of filings was unavailable but the number of dispositions was available, the number of cases disposed per unit of population was entered in this column in place of the number of cases filed per population unit. The use of this alternative quantity is indicated by enclosing it in parentheses. Population figures represent the total state population.

If all other factors (court jurisdiction, case definition, unit of count, etc.) are similar, the filed per unit of population statistic will permit direct comparison among states of the number of filed civil cases, criminal cases, traffic cases, juvenile cases, as well as among state totals.

Limitations on use:

Data that are not at least 90% complete are not included in this table to prevent inappropriate comparisons. The data that are included must account for differences between the way cases are defined and counted in different courts. Where possible, comparisons should be limited to those among state totals for specific types of cases. Before making comparisons between limited jurisdiction courts or among general jurisdiction courts, check the organization charts in Part II of this volume for similarities in jurisdiction.

Note: All data that are at least 90% complete are entered in the table. Blank spaces indicate that either the data were unavailable or less than 90% complete, or that the calculations were inappropriate. The "filed per 100,000 population" STATE TOTAL figure may not equal the sum of the individual state courts due to rounding.

NH = This case type is not handled by this court.

-- = Not applicable.

Data are incomplete:

Arizona--Superior Court--Civil filings do not include adoption data from Maricopa County, or mental health cases. Civil dispositions do not include adoption data from Maricopa County. Juvenile data do not include cases from Maricopa County.

--Justices of the Peace Court--Data were unavailable from St. John's Snowflake and Quartzsite Precincts. In addition, traffic figures also do not include data from the Northeast Phoenix Precinct.

Arkansas--Municipal Court--753 cases could not be identified by case type for the court located in Salem; however, they are included in the court totals column.

Delaware--Total state filings do not include complete data from the Aldermen's Court.

Iowa--Criminal and total state filings do not include preliminary hearings. Civil dispositions do not include "family in need of assistance" cases.

Kansas--District Court--Total state dispositions do not include small claims, adoptions, mental health and other juvenile cases.

Louisiana--Family Court and Juvenile Court--Total court filings do not include civil cases.

Maine--District Court--Court totals and civil cases do not include support/custody data.

Maryland--District Court--Court totals and criminal cases do not include any criminal cases except those adult offenses against juveniles.

Massachusetts--District Court Department-- Traffic filings do not include DWI or "operating so as to endanger" cases. State totals do not include other criminal, or juvenile appeal cases.

Minnesota--State totals do not include juvenile cases from the District Court.

Nebraska--District Court total and criminal cases, and STATE TOTALS do not include data from Webster and Valley Counties.

New Hampshire--District Court--Domestic violence petition data were supplied by only 18 of 41 court locations.

North Dakota--County Justice Court-- Civil filings do not include mental health cases.

Oregon--Circuit Court--Civil dispositions do not include adoption and mental health cases.

--County Court--Civil dispositions do not include adoption and mental health cases.

Utah--Circuit Court-- Traffic data do not include parking cases for Murray.

Vermont--District Court Criminal filings do not include sentence review only cases.

Wisconsin--State totals do not include approximately one-third of the juvenile cases.

Explanation of data included in the category:

Idaho--District Court--Civil data may include some juvenile appeals.

Iowa-- Juvenile dispositions include "family in need of assistance" domestic relations cases.

Massachusetts--District Court Department-- Criminal filings include some felonies and DWI cases.

Nebraska--District Court-- Criminal cases include civil appeals.

Rhode Island--District Court-- Criminal filings include traffic cases.

Texas--County Court at Law-- Traffic dispositions include criminal appeals.

Vermont--Superior Court-- Civil cases include criminal appeals.

TABLE 15: Civil filed and disposed for general jurisdiction, limited jurisdiction, and all trial courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification:

This table breaks the gross totals of Table 14 into the civil case classification. Because of the variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification, comparisons of general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts from state to state are seldom appropriate.

Lack of complete data (less than 90% complete from an individual court) is responsible for the large number of blanks in the "All trial courts" columns on this table, as well as for states missing from the table. In order for a state to be included in this table, it had to have complete filing or disposition data from all its trial courts.

Courts that do not break their caseload down into specific case types, do generally separate caseload into civil, criminal, and juvenile cases. (Traffic may be reported separately or it may be lumped into criminal caseload.)

Sources of data are found on the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in counting cases do have an impact on total caseloads. If states are not counting cases at the same beginning and ending point, total caseload is not comparable.

Appropriate analyses:

All percentage calculations that were less than 1% but greater than 0% have been rounded up to 1%. All percentage calculations that were less than 0% but greater than -1% have been rounded down to -1%.

Disposed as a percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases that the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons can be made between courts that count cases in the same way. The method of counting civil cases has the greatest influence over data reported.

Although data have been broken down into general and limited jurisdiction courts, this has been done to provide a flavor for the different workloads of the different levels of trial courts. Interstate comparisons should be restricted to all trial courts' figures.

Note: State totals were included in this table only when all courts with civil jurisdiction within that state reported either complete filings and/or dispositions. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable or incomplete, or the calculations were inappropriate.

-- = Not applicable.

jExplanation of data included in the category:
Idaho--Data may include some juvenile appeals.
Vermont--General jurisdiction courts-- Civil appeal data include criminal appeals as well as some habeas corpus and postconviction remedy cases.

NH = This case type is not handled in this court.

TABLE 16: Composition of civil case filings in general jurisdiction courts, 1980.

TABLE 17: Composition of civil case dispositions in general jurisdiction courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

These two tables deal only with general jurisdiction courts. In states with a single-tier trial court (Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, South Dakota, District of Columbia, and Guam), all case types are heard in the general jurisdiction court. These courts are indicated by a "*" before their state name. In all other states some of the trial court case types are heard in limited jurisdiction courts.

The individual court profiles for each state (found in Part II) must be consulted to determine whether the figures for an individual case type in these tables represent the complete caseload for that case type in the particular state.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classifications and definitions:

Courts that do not break their caseload down into specific case types do generally separate caseload into civil, criminal, and juvenile cases. (Traffic may be reported separately or it may be reported as a part of the criminal caseload.) Consequently, these two tables are easier to aggregate than later tables that show specific case types.

Those states that reported less than 90% of complete "total" data were excluded from these tables.

Appropriate analyses:

Data from these tables may be used to identify courts with similar jurisdiction and courts that handle similar volumes of cases. These data can also be used to compute the distribution of types of civil cases filed in each court. To compute the proportion of the total filings (dispositions) for each case type, divide the number of filings (dispositions) for each case type by the total filings (dispositions) for each court and multiply by 100.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons should not be made between courts in states with a single-tier trial court (marked with an "*") and courts in states with both general and limited jurisdiction courts.

Comparisons can be made only between courts that use the same unit of count for counting civil cases. Since the data contained in these tables are taken from only the general jurisdiction courts, the organization charts for each state should be checked to determine whether or not other courts in the state also handle the specific case types before comparisons of volumes of specific case types are made.

Note: All available data from states that have total dispositions which are at least 90% complete are entered in this table. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable, or less than 90% complete. Other civil also includes extraordinary writ cases.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total.

NH = This case type is not handled by the court.

*These states have a single-tier trial court. These courts hear cases that would be heard by limited jurisdiction courts elsewhere.

¹Data are incomplete:

- Arizona--Superior Court-- Adoption data were unavailable for Maricopa County.
- Connecticut--Superior Court-- Small claims include approximately 1% of the small claims dispositions.
- Georgia--Superior Court--Data were unavailable from Cobb County.
- Iowa--District Court-- Domestic relations and total civil cases do not include "family in need of assistance" cases.
- Massachusetts--STATE TOTAL--Case type breakdowns were unavailable for the Superior Court Department, and no data were available for the Housing Court Department.
- Michigan--Court of Claims--Data do not include appeals under the Vietnam Era Bonus Section Act.
- Nebraska--District Court-- Total civil does not include appeals. Data were unavailable for Webster and Valley counties.
- New Hampshire--Superior Court--There were 2,009 civil cases that could not be identified by case type, but are included in the total.
- New Jersey--Superior Court--Data do not include contested adoptions.
- Oregon--Circuit Court-- Domestic relations does not include adoptions. Total civil does not include adoptions or mental health cases.

Puerto Rico--Superior Court-- Appeal data do not include appeals of trial court cases.

Washington--Superior Court--Spokane was unable to provide data for the indicated case types. Domestic relations cases do not include adoptions.

Explanation of data included in the category:

- Alabama--Circuit Court-- Other civil includes law, auto tort, and civil appeals cases.
- Arizona--Superior Court-- Law includes prayer under $1,000, auto tort, non-auto tort, contract, eminent domain, unclassified civil and appeals cases.
- Arkansas--Circuit Court-- Law includes trial de novo appeals.
- Connecticut--Superior Court-- Law cases include torts, contracts, collection cases, appeals of wills and estates in trust from the Probate Court.
- Delaware--Court of Chancery-- Other civil includes some equity, real property, and contract cases.
- Hawaii--Circuit Court-- Domestic relations includes mental health cases. Other civil includes some other criminal cases as well.
- Idaho--District Court--Data may include some juvenile appeals.
- Kentucky--Circuit Court-- Mental health data include competency hearings.
- Massachusetts--District Court Department--The law category includes some small claims cases.
- Michigan--Circuit Court-- Other civil includes tort cases from Wayne County.
- North Carolina--Superior Court-- Other civil includes some real property, adoptions and mental health cases.
- Puerto Rico--Superior Court-- Other civil includes some real property and estate cases.
- Vermont--Superior Court-- Appeals data include some criminal appeals, post conviction remedy and extraordinary writ cases.
- Wisconsin--Circuit Court-- Other civil includes torts, real property rights, mental health, appeals and extraordinary writs. Small claims cases include uncontested cases in Milwaukee County.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

Caseload in these tables are from both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts. The same case types may be handled in very different courts from state to state. Only state totals can be compared. To facilitate comparisons, the states in these tables have been grouped into three categories: those states where a court has exclusive jurisdiction over a case type and where it submitted complete data; those states where more than one court handles a case type and each court submitted complete data; and those states that reported incomplete data from any one of these courts with that case type jurisdiction.

The court organization charts in Part II should be consulted for a brief summary of the jurisdiction of each court.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

The COSCA CSIM Committee has chosen to classify cases according to subject-matter rather than the remedy sought. This makes categories such as "law" and "equity" difficult to reclassify unless the particular court can report specifically the kinds of cases included.

Even with use of the Model Statistical Dictionary case definitions, the classifications vary from state to state. Domestic relations, for example, may include all family matters in some states while other states report only divorce actions as domestic relations cases.

Some states count support and custody matters in their juvenile caseload, whereas the classification used here places these matters in domestic relations caseload.

Only states reporting data that could be displayed in the specific case type are included in these tables, and then only if the data are 90% complete. Many courts do not break data down beyond the broad civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile categories.

Variations in counting cases:

Caseload cannot be compared among courts that do not count cases at the same beginning and end point. Those states that do not count cases at the filing of the petition or complaint have been separated and placed at the bottom of each large jurisdiction grouping.

Appropriate analyses:

All percentage calculations that were less than 1% but greater than 0% have been rounded up to 1%. All percentage calculations that were less than 0% but greater than -1% have been rounded down to -1%.

Disposed cases as percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases of which the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed of more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed. This measure was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote in the profiles in Part II) made it inappropriate.

End pending cases as percent of filed. This figure gives the percent of the number of filed cases that were pending at the end of the year. This measure is computed by dividing the number of cases pending at the end of the year by the number of cases filed and then multiplying by one hundred. A value of one hundred percent indicates that the number of cases pending at the end of the year was equal to the number of cases filed during the year. A value higher than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload larger than cases filed, while a value lower than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload smaller than the number of cases filed. We expect this number to be low for case types such as traffic that have relatively quick disposition times, but it will be larger for torts and other case types that usually take longer to process. This percent was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote on the profiles in Part II) made it inappropriate.

Number change in pending caseload. This number gives the net increase or decrease in pending caseload for the court year by subtracting the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year from the number of cases pending at the end of the year. An alternative to this calculation, subtracting the number disposed from the number filed, was used when pending data were unavailable or incomplete. When this alternate formula was used, the resulting number was enclosed in parentheses. A positive number indicates that the pending caseload increased during the year while a negative number indicates that the pending caseload was reduced in size. Thus, a large negative change in pending cases indicates that the court is keeping the caseload current, while a large positive change in pending cases indicates that the court has not kept pace with its filings.

Percent change in pending caseload. This percentage indicates the change in pending cases relative to the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year, and is obtained by dividing the number change in pending caseload by the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year and then multiplying by one hundred. (This figure cannot be calculated if the alternative formula described above was used to calculate the number change in the pending caseload.) A high negative percent indicates that the court reduced its pending caseload significantly, while a high positive percent indicates that the pending caseload increased significantly. This measure was not computed if the number of beginning pending cases was less than ten or if the jurisdiction of the court changed significantly during the year.

Filed (disposed) per 100,000 population. The unit of state population used on all court caseload charts is 100,000. This measure compensates for variations in state population and gives a more realistic basis for comparison of caseloads among states of various sizes. If the number of filings was not available or was not complete (indicated by an "i" footnote in the profiles in Part II) but the number of dispositions was available, the number of cases disposed per unit of population was entered in this column in place of the number of cases filed per population unit, and the use of this alternative quantity was indicated by enclosing it in parentheses. Population figures used in the criminal tables represent the total state population. If all other factors (court jurisdiction, case definition, etc.) are similar, the filed-per-unit-of-population statistic will permit direct comparisons among states of the number of filed cases. For civil cases in trial courts, this measure will indicate, among other things, the propensity to litigate among the citizens in a given state.

Limitations on use:

In these case type tables, only the STATE TOTALS can be compared in those states where more than one court has jurisdiction over the case type.

Comparisons can be made between the data reported for a state where an individual court has exclusive jurisdiction over the type of case and the STATE TOTALS for states where more than one court has jurisdiction. Comparisons can not be made for states reporting incomplete data. Comparisons should be made only between those cases that use the same unit of count for counting civil cases. (See Figure A for a listing of the groups of states that use the same unit of count for civil cases.)

Note: States were included in this table only when at least one court specifically provided data on the number of torts. States were excluded from this table when the number of torts could not be segregated from other civil actions in any of its courts. However, when one state court separated torts from other civil actions, and it was clear that other courts in that state had jurisdiction over civil actions with monetary damages that did not fall under the jurisdiction of a specific small claims structure, then the state was categorized as having incomplete state data. Blank spaces indicate that either the data were unavailable or less than 90% complete, or that the calculations were inappropriate.

* = These courts do not use filing of a petition as the unit of count. Check the state profile to identify the specific unit of count.

Ohio--Court of Common Pleas--Pending data were unavailable for wrongful deaths. This category represents 3% of the total filings.
Washington--Superior Court--Spokane did not report disposition data for 1980.

TABLE 26: Civil jury and non-jury trial dispositions by case type, 1980.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

Subject matter jurisdictions are visually quite apparent in Tables 26 and 37, where the "+" symbols under the heading "Case type" indicate what case types were reported for each piece of trial data. These breakdowns were made to facilitate comparative analysis among courts and case types. Both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts are included.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classifications and definitions:

Both the case categories and the data classified in each case category vary from state to state. The categories "law" and "equity" have been added to the CSIM case types on Table 26 in order to accommodate those states that have reported trial data for cases they classify as "law" and "equity." Overlap exists between these categories and the CSIM case types, which focus on subject-matter rather than on the remedy sought.

Variations in counting both cases and trials:

Each of these tables has numerical superscripts by each court name, indicating how that court counts cases. Caseload cannot be compared among courts that do not count cases in the same way.

The definitions used by each court to count trials are indicated in the third column in Tables 26 and 37, the second column in Table 41. Comparisons can be made between courts that count trials in the same way.

Appropriate analyses:

All percentage calculations that were less than 1% but greater than 0% have been rounded up to 1%. All percentage calculations that were less than 0% but greater than -1% have been rounded down to -1%.

Trials as a percent of dispositions.
Dividing the number of trials conducted by the total number of cases disposed of for the appropriate case type results in the trial rate for that case type for the court.

Jury trials as a percent of dispositions.
Dividing the number of jury trials conducted by the total number of cases disposed of for the appropriate case type results in the jury trial rate for that case type for the court.

Jury trials as a percent of trials. Dividing the number of jury trials by the total number of trials conducted for that case type results in the proportion of trials that are trials by jury for that case type for the court.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons on these tables must be restricted to the court level, and must be controlled for case type, unit of count, and trial definitions. State totals have not been computed in order to avoid any temptation to compare "apples and oranges."

Care should also be taken to compare only those courts that share similar rules regarding the availability of jury trials. For example, some states make it more difficult for a criminal defendant to waive a jury trial than other states. Similarly, in some states both parties to civil litigation must agree to a jury trial, while in other states one of the parties can demand a jury trial.

TABLE 27: Criminal filed and disposed in general jurisdiction, limited jurisdiction, and all trial courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification:

This table breaks the gross totals of Table 14 into criminal case classification. Because of the variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification, comparisons of general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts from state to state are seldom appropriate.

Lack of complete data (less than 90% complete from an individual court) is responsible for the large number of blanks in the "All trial courts" columns on this table, as well as for states missing from the table. In order for a state to be included in this table, it had to have complete filing or disposition data from all its trial courts.

Courts that do not break their caseload down into specific case types, do generally separate caseload into civil, criminal, and juvenile cases. (Traffic may be reported separately or it may be lumped into criminal caseload.)

Sources of data are found on the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in counting cases do have an impact on total caseloads. If states are not counting cases at the same beginning and ending point, total caseload is not comparable. See Figure C.

Appropriate analyses:

All percentage calculations that were less than 1% but greater than 0% have been rounded up to 1%. All percentage calculations that were less than 0% but greater than -1% have been rounded down to -1%.

Disposed as a percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases that the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons can be made between courts that count cases in the same way. The method of counting criminal cases has the greatest influence over data reported. Consult Figure C for a listing of the groups of courts that count criminal cases in the same way.

Although data have been broken down into general and limited jurisdiction courts, this has been done to provide a flavor for the different workloads of the different levels of trial courts. Interstate comparisons should be restricted to all trial courts' data.

Note: All courts in Hawaii and Maine are displayed in the number of defendants grouping because this is the unit of count for the general jurisdiction court in each of these states. State totals were included in this table when all courts with criminal jurisdiction within that state reported either complete filings and/or dispositions. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable or incomplete, or the calculations were inappropriate.

-- = Not applicable.

NH = This case type is not handled in this court.

JExplanation of data included in the category: Massachusetts--Data include some DWI cases.

TABLE 28: Composition of criminal case filings in general jurisdiction courts, 1980.
TABLE 29: Composition of criminal case dispositions in general jurisdiction courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

These two tables deal only with general jurisdiction courts. In states with a single-tier trial court (Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, South Dakota, District of Columbia, and Guam), all case types are heard in the general jurisdiction court. These courts are indicated by an "*" before their state name. In all other states, some of the trial court case types are heard in limited jurisdiction courts.

The individual court profiles for each state (found in Part II) must be consulted to determine whether the figures for an individual case type in these tables represent the complete caseload for that case type in the particular state.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classifications and definitions:

Courts that do not break their caseload down into specific case types do generally separate caseload into civil, criminal, and juvenile cases. (Traffic may be reported separately or it may be reported as a part of the criminal caseload.) Consequently, these two tables are easier to aggregate than later tables that show specific case types.

Those states that reported less than 90% of complete "total" data were excluded from these tables.

Appropriate analyses:

Data from these tables may be used to identify courts with similar jurisdiction and courts that handle similar volumes of cases. These data can also be used to compute the distribution of types of criminal cases filed in each court. To compute the proportion of the total filings (dispositions) for each case type, divide the number of filings (dispositions) for each case type by the total filings (dispositions) for each court and multiply by 100.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons should not be made between courts in states with a single-tier trial court (marked with an "*") and courts in states with both general and limited jurisdiction courts.

Comparisons can be made only between courts that use the same unit of count for counting criminal cases. Since the data contained in these tables are taken from only the general jurisdiction courts, the organization charts for each state should be checked to determine whether or not other courts in the state also handle the specific case types before comparisons of volumes of specific case types are made.

Composition of criminal case dispositions in general jurisdiction courts, 1980. (continued)

Note: All available data from states that had total dispositions which were at least 90% complete are entered in the table. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable or less than 90% complete. Other criminal also includes extraordinary writ, postconviction remedy and sentence review only cases. The felony/misdemeanor category in this table does not represent the sum of all felonies and misdemeanors, but deals only with those figures which could not be broken down into those respective categories.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were unavailable by category.

NH = This case type is known not to be handled by the court.

*These states have a single-tier trial court. These courts have no limited jurisdiction courts under them, so they hear cases that would be heard by limited jurisdiction courts elsewhere.

¹Data are incomplete:

Connecticut--Superior Court--Additional felonies could not be separated from the felony/misdemeanor category.
Georgia--Superior Court--Data were unavailable from Cobb County.
Indiana--Superior Court and Circuit Court--Additional misdemeanors could not be separated from the felony/misdemeanor category.

Nebraska--District Court--Data were unavailable for Webster and Valley Counties.

²Explanation of data included in the category:

Arkansas--Circuit Court-- Appeals include some original misdemeanors.
Delaware--Superior Court-- Felony/misdemeanor includes appeals.
Illinois--Circuit Court-- Misdemeanors include ordinance violations and preliminary hearings in the Circuit Court of Cook County.
Indiana--Superior Court and Circuit Court-- Other criminal includes some preliminary hearings.
Iowa--District Court-- Felony data include appeals.
Kansas--District Court-- Misdemeanors and felonies include appeals.
Nebraska--District Court-- Felony data include some misdemeanors, and appeal and total criminal include some civil appeals.
Pennsylvania--Court of Common Pleas-- Felony/misdemeanor figure includes some trial de novo for appeal cases.
South Carolina--Circuit Court--Data include cases from the County Court, and the Civil and Criminal Court.

TABLE 34: Preliminary hearing caseload for trial courts, 1980.

TABLE 35: Criminal appeals caseload for trial courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

Caseload in these tables is from both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts. The same case types may be handled in different courts from state to state. Only state totals can be compared among these states using the same unit of count. To facilitate comparisons, the states in these tables have been grouped into three categories: those states where a court has exclusive jurisdiction over a case type and where it reported complete data; those states where more than one court handles a case type and each court submitted complete data; and those states where data from any one of the courts with that casetype jurisdiction are incomplete. The court organization charts in Part II should be consulted for a brief summary of the jurisdiction of each court.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Both the case categories and the data classified in the case categories vary from state to state.

Because such problems exist for these and all other case categories, the case types used in this report are those chosen for inclusion in the State Court Model Annual Report and State Court Model Statistical Dictionary.

Even with use of the model case types, however, caseloads are not comparable if state statutes vary as to the types of criminal cases classified as felonies or misdemeanors. Certain drug offenses, for example, may be serious felonies in one state but only misdemeanors in another.

Only states reporting data that could be displayed in the specific case types are included in the tables, and then only if the data are at least 90% complete. Many courts do not break data down beyond the broad civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile categories.

Variations in counting cases:

Each of these tables has numerical superscripts by each court name, indicating how that court counts cases. This distinction is highlighted further by dotted lines separating the states by unit of count.

Appropriate analysis:

All percentage calculations that were less than 1% but greater than 0% have been rounded up to 1%. All percentage calculations that were less than 0% but greater than -1% have been rounded down to -1%.

Disposed cases as percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases of which the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed of and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed of more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed. This measure was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote) made it inappropriate.

End pending cases as percent of filed. This figure gives the percent of the number of filed cases that were pending at the end of the year. This measure is computed by dividing the number of cases pending at the end of the year by the number of cases filed and then multiplying by one hundred. A value of one hundred percent indicates that the number of cases pending at the end of the year was equal to the number of cases filed during the year. A value higher than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload larger than cases filed, while a value lower than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload smaller than the number of cases filed. This percent was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote in the profiles in Part II) made it inappropriate.

Number change in pending caseload. This number gives the net increase or decrease in pending caseload for the court year by subtracting the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year from the number of cases pending at the end of the year. An alternative to this calculation, subtracting the number disposed of from the number filed, was used when pending data were unavailable or incomplete. When this alternate formula was used, the resulting number was enclosed in parentheses. A positive number indicates that the pending caseload increased during the year while a negative number indicates that the pending caseload was reduced in size. Thus, a large negative change in pending cases indicates that the court is keeping the caseload current, while a large positive change in pending cases would indicate that the court has not kept pace with its filings.

Percent change in pending caseload. This percentage indicates the change in pending cases relative to the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year, and is obtained by dividing the number change in pending caseload by the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year and then multiplying by one hundred. (This figure cannot be calculated if the alternative formula described above was used to calculate the number change in the pending caseload.) A high negative percent indicates that the court reduced its pending caseload significantly, while a high positive percent indicates that the pending caseload increased significantly. This measure was not computed if the number of beginning pending cases was less than ten or if the jurisdiction of the court changed significantly during the year.

Filed (disposed) per 100,000 population. The unit of state population used on all court caseload charts is 100,000. This measure compensates for variations in state population and gives a more realistic basis for comparison of caseloads among states of various sizes. If the number of filings was not available or was not complete (indicated by an "i" footnote on the profiles in Part II) but the number of dispositions was available, the number of cases disposed per unit of population was entered in this column in place of the number of cases filed per population unit, and the use of this alternative quantity was indicated by enclosing it in parentheses. Population figures used in the criminal tables represent the 18-year-old-plus state population. If all other factors (court jurisdiction, case definition, etc.) are similar, the filed-per-unit-of-population statistic will permit direct comparisons among states of the number of filed cases.

Limitations on use:

In these criminal case type tables, only STATE TOTALS can be compared in those states where more than one court has jurisdiction over the case type. Comparisons can be made between the data reported for a state with an individual court that has exclusive jurisdiction over the type of case, and the STATE TOTALS for states where more than one court has jurisdiction. Comparisons should be avoided for states not reporting data for one or more courts that have jurisdiction over the case type.

Comparisons should be made only between those cases that use the same unit of count for counting criminal cases.

It should also be noted that any change(s) in the caseload of a court may not indicate a change in the actual "offense-rate" within a state, but may merely reflect changes in the criminal code, law enforcement policies and/or citizen reporting rates--among other things. These data should only be used for court management measures.

TABLE 36: Criminal disposition types for trial courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

These tables display data for the general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts that report manner-of-disposition data. In Table 36 the states are grouped according to the unit used in counting criminal cases.

Sources of data are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in definitions:

Table 36 indicates the various units used in counting cases from state to state. Only a few states report sufficiently complete data to make between-state comparisons of the proportion of total caseload disposed by each manner of disposition.

Appropriate analyses:

All percentage calculations that were less than 1% but greater than 0% have been rounded up to 1%. All percentage calculations that were less than 0% but greater than -1% have been rounded down to -1%.

Number and percent of total dispositions for each manner of disposition. Dividing the number of cases for each manner of disposition by the total number of similar cases results in the proportions of cases disposed by each manner of disposition. These figures can be compared between courts that count cases in the same way (i.e., the same unit of count).

Limitations on use:

The distribution of the proportions of cases by different manners of disposition is affected by the method used for counting cases in the court. Dismissals will make up a higher percentage of dispositions in those courts that use a paper-based or charge-based count. Before making comparisons between states and courts, be sure that they both use the same unit of count.

The distribution is also affected by the order with which procedures are carried out by the court and the prosecutor. The proportion of dismissals will be lower in courts that screen cases before filing them than in courts that screen cases after they are filed.

In addition, care should be taken to ensure that a dismissal in one state means the same as a dismissal in another state. For example, some states may distinguish between dismissals by prosecutors and by judges, while others may treat them as the same.

Note: All available data are entered in the table and all appropriate calculations are included. Blank spaces indicate that either the data were unavailable or the calculations were inappropriate.

* The category data do not sum to the total dispositions due to other minor or unreported methods of dispositions.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

Hawaii--District Court--The unit of count is the number of charges.

ⁱData are not complete:

Alaska--Superior Court--Data are given for felony cases only.

Florida--Circuit Court--Data are given for felony cases only.

Georgia--Superior Court--Data were unavailable from Cobb County.

Hawaii--District Court--Data do not include preliminary hearing cases.

Illinois--Circuit Court--Data are given for felony cases only.

New Jersey--Superior Court (Law and Chancery Divisions)--Data are given for felony cases only.

North Carolina--Superior Court--Data are given for felony cases only.

Pennsylvania--Philadelphia Municipal Court--Data are given for misdemeanor "criminal" cases only.

Texas--Municipal Court and Justice of the Peace Court--Data contained in this table are based on an incomplete number of monthly reports received. The reporting rates for the various courts were: Municipal Court--73%; Justice of the Peace Court--80%.

Utah--District Court--Data include felony/misdemeanor cases only.

Washington--Superior Court--Type of disposition data were unavailable for eight court locations.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Alaska--The dismissal figure included 3 hung juries.

Arizona--Nolle prosequi data include some dismissals.

California--Superior Court--Acquittal and dismissal data include some transfers.

Justice and Municipal Court--Trial conviction data does not include juvenile orders.

Delaware--Superior Court--Dismissal data includes 13 hung juries and 4 mistrials.

Florida--Some dismissals are included with acquittals.

Georgia--Superior Court--The dismissal figure includes nolle prosequi.

Hawaii--District Court--This court identified an additional 4,425 cases as "stricken," which have not been included in the dismissal data.

Illinois--Circuit Court--Total criminal dispositions does not include felonies that were later reduced completely to misdemeanors.

North Carolina--Superior Court and District Court--Dismissal data includes the number of speedy trial dismissals only.

South Carolina--The total trials figure was estimated by adding the trial convictions and trial acquittals.

Tennessee--Disposition data include traffic (DWI/DUI) dispositions.

TABLE 37: Criminal jury and non-jury trial dispositions by case type, 1980.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

Subject matter jurisdictions are visually quite apparent in Tables 26 and 37, where the "+" symbols under the heading "Case type" indicate what case types were reported for each piece of trial data. These breakdowns were made to facilitate comparative analysis among courts and case types. Both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts are included.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classifications and definitions:

Both the case categories and the data classified in each case category vary from state to state. The categories "law" and "equity" have been added to the CSIM case types on Table 26 in order to accommodate those states that have reported trial data for cases they classify as "law" and "equity." Overlap exists between these categories and the CSIM case types, which focus on subject-matter rather than on the remedy sought.

Variations in counting both cases and trials:

Each of these tables has numerical superscripts by each court name, indicating how that court counts cases. Caseload cannot be compared among courts that do not count cases in the same way.

The definitions used by each court to count trials are indicated in the third column in Tables 26 and 37, the second column in Table 41. Comparisons can be made between courts that count trials in the same way.

Appropriate analyses:

All percentage calculations that were less than 1% but greater than 0% have been rounded up to 1%. All percentage calculations that were less than 0% but greater than -1% have been rounded down to -1%.

Trials as a percent of dispositions.
Dividing the number of trials conducted by the total number of cases disposed of for the appropriate case type results in the trial rate for that case type for the court.

Jury trials as a percent of dispositions.
Dividing the number of jury trials conducted by the total number of cases disposed of for the appropriate case type results in the jury trial rate for that case type for the court.

Jury trials as a percent of trials. Dividing the number of jury trials by the total number of trials conducted for that case type results in the proportion of trials that are trials by jury for that case type for the court.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons on these tables must be restricted to the court level, and must be controlled for case type, unit of count, and trial definitions. State totals have not been computed in order to avoid any temptation to compare "apples and oranges."

Care should also be taken to compare only those courts that share similar rules regarding the availability of jury trials. For example, some states make it more difficult for a criminal defendant to waive a jury trial than other states. Similarly, in some states both parties to civil litigation must agree to a jury trial, while in other states one of the parties can demand a jury trial.

TABLE 38: Traffic filed and disposed in general jurisdiction, limited jurisdiction, and all trial courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification:

This table breaks the gross totals of Table 14 into the broad case traffic classification. Because of the variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification, comparisons of general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts from state to state are seldom appropriate.

Lack of complete data (less than 90% complete from an individual court) is responsible for the large number of blanks in the "All trial courts" columns on this table, as well as for states missing from the table. In order for a state to be included in this table, it had to have complete filing or disposition data from all its trial courts.

Courts that do not break their caseload down into specific case types do generally separate caseload into civil, criminal, and juvenile cases. (Traffic may be reported separately or it may be lumped into criminal caseload.)

Sources of data are found on the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in counting cases do have an impact on total caseloads. If states are not counting cases at the same beginning and ending point, total caseload is not comparable.

Appropriate analyses:

Disposed as a percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases that the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed.

Limitations on use:

Although data have been broken down into general and limited jurisdiction courts, this has been done to provide a flavor for the different workloads of the different levels of trial courts. Interstate comparisons should be restricted to all trial courts' figures.

Also, comparisons should not be made between states that handle traffic, and in particular, parking cases differently. Courts that include parking cases in their reported data, indicated by a footnote "s" should not be compared to those that do not, indicated by a footnote "r." In addition, states with neither an "s" or "r" footnote should not be compared with any other state or themselves. For these states, we simply do not know if they do, or do not include parking cases.

TABLE 39: DWI/DUI caseload for trial courts, 1980.

Variations in court jurisdiction and subject matter jurisdiction.

Caseload in these tables is from both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts. DWIs may be handled in different courts from state to state. The court organization charts in Part II should be consulted for a brief summary of the jurisdiction of each court.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Both the case categories and the data classification within case categories vary from state to state. Because such problems exist for these and all other case categories, the case types used in this report are those chosen for inclusion in the State Court Model Annual Report and State Court Model Statistical Dictionary.

Only states reporting data that could be displayed in the specific case type are included in the tables, and then only if the data are at least 90% complete. Many courts do not break down data beyond the broad civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile categories.

Parking violations, which many states report in their traffic caseload, are not included in this table.

In addition, some states include DWI/DUI in their criminal categories. Beginning with our 1981 Annual Report, we will also be including DWI/DUI in our criminal category.

Appropriate analyses:

All percentage calculations that were less than 1% but greater than 0% have been rounded up to 1%. All percentage calculations that were less than 0% but greater than -1% have been rounded down to -1%.

Disposed cases as percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases of which the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed of and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed of more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed. This measure was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote) made it inappropriate.

End pending cases as percent of filed. This figure gives the percent of the number of filed cases that were pending at the end of the year. This measure is computed by dividing the number of cases pending at the end of the year by the number of cases filed and then multiplying by one hundred. A value of one hundred percent indicates that the number of cases pending at the end of the year was equal to the number of cases filed during the year. Assuming that the number of dispositions is a close estimate of the number of filings, this could be interpreted to mean that if the court received no new filings the following year, it would take that whole year to eliminate its backlog. A value higher than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload larger than cases filed, while a value lower than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload smaller than the number of cases filed. We expect this number to be low for case types such as traffic that have relatively quick disposition times. This percent was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote on the profiles in Part II) made it inappropriate.

Number change in pending cases. This number gives the net increase or decrease in pending caseload for the court year by subtracting the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year from the number of cases pending at the end of the year. An alternative to this calculation, subtracting the number disposed from the number filed, was used when pending data were unavailable or incomplete. When this alternate formula was used, the resulting number was enclosed in parentheses. A positive number indicates that the pending caseload increased during the year while a negative number indicates that the pending caseload was reduced in size. Thus, a large negative change in pending indicates that the court is keeping the caseload current, while a large positive change in pending would indicate that the court has not kept pace with its filings.

Percent change in pending cases. This percentage indicates the change in pending cases relative to the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year. It is obtained by dividing the number change in pending caseload by the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year, and then multiplying by one hundred. (This figure cannot be calculated if the alternate formula described above was used to calculate the number change in the pending caseload.) A high negative percent indicates that the court reduced its pending caseload significantly, while a high positive percent indicates that the pending caseload increased significantly. This measure was not computed if the number of beginning pending cases was less than ten or if the jurisdiction of the court changed significantly during the year.

Limitations on use:

The unit of count for traffic cases is not included in this report. Nevertheless, these cases are probably counted differently in many of these courts. Some courts may report data for all traffic cases; others only for contested cases. Comparisons should be made using only STATE TOTAL data or data from a court that has exclusive jurisdiction over these types of cases. Comparisons should be avoided between individual courts that do not have exclusive jurisdiction in their states.

It should also be noted that large increases in the DWI caseload may not indicate increased drunk driving but may merely reflect changes in drunk driving legislation as well as other law enforcement policies.

TABLE 40: Traffic disposition types for trial courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

These tables display data for the general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts that report manner-of-disposition data. In Table 40 the states are grouped according to the unit used in counting traffic cases.

Sources of data are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in definitions:

Table 40 indicates the various units used in counting cases from state to state. Only a few states report sufficiently complete data to make between-state comparisons of the proportion of total caseload disposed by each manner of disposition.

Appropriate analyses:

Number and percent of total dispositions for each manner of disposition. Dividing the number of cases for each manner of disposition by the total number of similar cases results in the proportions of cases disposed by each manner of disposition. These figures can be compared between courts that count cases in the same way (i.e., the same unit of count).

Limitations on use:

The distribution of the proportions of cases by different manners of disposition is affected by the method used for counting cases in the court. Dismissals will make up a higher percentage of dispositions in those courts that use a paper-based or charge-based count. Before making comparisons between states and courts, be sure that they both use the same unit of count.

The distribution is also affected by the order with which procedures are carried out by the court and the prosecutor. The proportion of dismissals will be lower in courts that screen cases before filing them than in courts that screen cases after they are filed.

In addition, care should be taken to ensure that a dismissal in one state means the same as a dismissal in another state. For example, some states may distinguish between dismissals by prosecutors and by judges, while others may treat them as the same.

te: All available data are entered in the table and all appropriate calculations are included. Blank spaces indicate that either the data were unavailable or the calculations were inappropriate.

= This case type is not handled in this court.

= Not applicable.

Violations Bureau dispositions: These cases were disposed by a Violations Bureau, usually with just the payment of a fine. In the Texas Justice of the Peace Court and Municipal Court these are called payment of fine dispositions.

Particular court or reporting system information: The numbers of dispositions reported for Georgia courts in this table are different from those reported in the rest of this report. Georgia defines a case differently when counting types of dispositions than it does when counting filings or total dispositions. The total disposition figures used here are the sums of the number of cases given under each type of disposition.

ⁱData are incomplete:

Alaska--The figures given include only "other traffic" cases.

Florida--County Court--Trials are held for criminal traffic cases only. Civil hearings are not included with the trial data.

Georgia--Superior Court--Figures do not include Cobb County.

Indiana--Municipal Court of Marion County--Data consist of nonfelony traffic cases only.

Kansas--Data do not include juvenile traffic cases.

Texas--Municipal Court data are based on a seventy-three percent reporting rate. Justice of the Peace Courts submitted eighty percent of all possible reports.

^jExplanation of data included in the category: Georgia--Nolle prosequi are included in the dismissals category.

New Jersey--Pleas include some convictions; dismissals include some acquittals.

^rData reported are known to not include parking cases.

^sData reported are known to include parking cases.

TABLE 41: Traffic jury and non-jury trial dispositions, 1980.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

Subject matter jurisdictions are visually quite apparent in Tables 26 and 37, where the "+" symbols under the heading "Case type" indicate what case types were reported for each piece of trial data. These breakdowns were made to facilitate comparative analysis among courts and case types. In this table, however, data include all available traffic data. Both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts are included.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classifications and definitions:

Both the case categories and the data classified in each case category vary from state to state.

Variations in counting both cases and trials:

Each of these tables has numerical superscripts by each court name, indicating how that court counts cases. Caseload cannot be compared among courts that do not count cases in the same way.

The definitions used by each court to count trials are indicated in the third column in Tables 26 and 37, the second column in Table 41. Comparisons can be made between courts that count trials in the same way.

Appropriate analyses:

All percentage calculations that were less than 1% but greater than 0% have been rounded up to 1%. All percentage calculations that were less than 0% but greater than -1% have been rounded down to -1%.

Trials as a percent of dispositions.
Dividing the number of trials conducted by the total number of cases disposed of for the appropriate case type results in the trial rate for that case type for the court.

Jury trials as a percent of dispositions.
Dividing the number of jury trials conducted by the total number of cases disposed of for the appropriate case type results in the jury trial rate for that case type for the court.

Jury trials as a percent of trials. Dividing the number of jury trials by the total number of trials conducted for that case type results in the proportion of trials that are trials by jury for that case type for the court.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons on these tables must be restricted to the court level, and must be controlled for case type, unit of count, and trial definitions. State totals have not been computed in order to avoid any temptation to compare "apples and oranges."

Care should also be taken to compare only those courts that share similar rules regarding the availability of jury trials. For example, some states make it more difficult for a criminal defendant to waive a jury trial than other states. Similarly, in some states both parties to civil litigation must agree to a jury trial, while in other states one of the parties can demand a jury trial.

TABLE 41:
Traffic jury and non-jury trial dispositions, 1980. (continued)

Note: All available data are entered in the table and all appropriate calculations are included. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable or calculations were inappropriate.

-- = Not applicable.

Trial definitions:

- A = A trial is counted if tried to judgment, completion, verdict, or decision.
- B = A jury trial is counted when the jury selection begins (first juror is drawn).
- C = A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn (impaneled).
- D = A non-jury trial is counted when the first witness is sworn.
- E = A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.
- F = A trial is counted when it has officially begun.

¹Data are incomplete:

Alaska--District Court--Data only include "other traffic" cases.

Arizona--Justices of the Peace Court--No disposition data were reported for St. Johns, Snowflake, and Quartzsite Precincts.

Colorado--County Court--no trial data were available for the court located in Huerfano County.

Florida--County Court--Trials are held for criminal traffic cases only. Civil hearings are not included with the trial data.

Georgia--Superior Court--Figures do not include Cobb County.

Indiana--Municipal Court of Marion County--Data consist of nonfelony traffic cases only.

Kansas--Data do not include juvenile traffic cases.

Oregon--Only partial reports were received from 3 municipalities.

Texas--The Municipal Court reported 73% of their monthly reports, while the Justice of the Peace Court reported 80%.

¹Data reported are known to not include parking cases.

²Data reported are known to include parking cases.

TABLE 42: Juvenile filed and disposed for general jurisdiction limited jurisdiction, and all trial courts, 1980.

Variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification:

This table breaks the gross totals of Table 14 into the broad case juvenile classification. Because of the variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification, comparisons of general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts from state to state are seldom appropriate.

Lack of complete data (less than 90% complete from an individual court) is responsible for the large number of blanks in the "All trial courts" columns on this table, as well as for states missing from the table. In order for a state to be included in this table, it had to have complete filing or disposition data from all its trial courts.

Courts that do not break their caseload down into specific case types do generally separate caseload into civil, criminal, and juvenile cases. (Traffic may be reported separately or it may be lumped into criminal caseload.)

Sources of data are found on the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in counting cases do have an impact on total caseloads. If states are not counting cases at the same beginning and ending point, total caseload is not comparable.

Appropriate analyses:

Disposed as a percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases that the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons can be made between courts that count cases in the same way. The method of counting juvenile cases has the greatest influence over data reported.

Although data have been broken down into general and limited jurisdiction courts, this has been done to provide a flavor for the different workloads of the different levels of trial courts. Interstate comparisons should be restricted to all trial courts' figures.

TABLE 43: Criminal-type offense caseload for trial courts, 1980.
TABLE 44: Status offense caseload for trial courts, 1980.
TABLE 45: Non-offense caseload for trial courts, 1980.

Variations in court jurisdiction and subject matter jurisdiction:

Caseload in these tables is from both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts, and represents the total caseload reported for each case type from each state. The same case type may be handled in different courts from state to state. The court organization charts in Part II should be consulted for a brief summary of the jurisdiction of each court.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Both the case categories and the data classification in the case categories vary from state to state.

Because such problems exist for these and all other case categories, the case types used in this report are those chosen for inclusion in the State Court Model Annual Report and State Court Model Statistical Dictionary.

Only states reporting data that could be displayed in the specific case type are included in the tables, and then only if the data are at least 90% complete. Many courts do not break data down beyond the broad civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile categories.

The volume of juvenile cases cannot be compared across all state courts because the statutory age when a juvenile becomes an adult varies from state to state. This variation affects the volume of both juvenile filings and adult criminal filings.

Appropriate analyses:

All percentage calculations that were less than 1% but greater than 0% have been rounded up to 1%. All percentage calculations that were less than 0% but greater than -1% have been rounded down to -1%.

Disposed cases as percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases of which the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed of and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed of more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed. This measure was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote) made it inappropriate.

End pending cases as percent of filed. This figure gives the percent of the number of filed cases that were pending at the end of the year. This measure is computed by dividing the number of cases pending at the end of the year by the number of cases filed and then multiplying by one hundred. A value of one hundred percent indicates that the number of cases pending at the end of the year was equal to the number of cases filed during the year. A value higher than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload larger than cases filed, while a value lower than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload smaller than the number of cases filed. This percent was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote in the profiles in Part II) made it inappropriate.

Number change in pending cases. This number gives the net increase or decrease in pending caseload for the court year by subtracting the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year from the number of cases pending at the end of the year. An alternative to this calculation, subtracting the number disposed of from the number filed, was used when pending data were unavailable or incomplete. When this alternate formula was used, the resulting number was enclosed in parentheses. A positive number indicates that the pending caseload increased during the year while a negative number indicates that the pending caseload was reduced in size. Thus, a large negative change in pending indicates that the court is keeping the caseload current, while a large positive change in pending indicates that the court has not kept pace with its filings.

Percent change in pending cases. This percentage indicates the change in pending cases relative to the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year, and is obtained by dividing the number change in pending caseload by the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year and then multiplying by one hundred. (This figure cannot be calculated if the alternative formula described above was used to calculate the number change in the pending caseload.) A high negative percent indicates that the court reduced its pending caseload significantly, while a high positive percent indicates that the pending caseload increased significantly. This measure was not computed if the number of beginning pending cases was less than ten or if the jurisdiction of the court changed significantly during the year.

Filed (disposed) per 100,000 population. The unit of state population used on all court caseload charts is 100,000. This measure compensates for variations in state population and gives a more realistic basis for comparison of caseloads among states of various sizes. If the number of filings was unavailable or was not complete (indicated by an "i" footnote in the profiles in Part II) but the number of dispositions was available, the number of cases disposed per unit of population was entered in this column in place of the number of cases filed per population unit, and the use of this alternative quantity was indicated by enclosing it in parentheses.

Population figures used in the juvenile tables represent the state population under 18 years of age. If all other factors (court jurisdiction, case definition, etc.) are similar, the filed-per-unit-of-population statistic will permit direct comparisons among states of the number of filed cases.

Limitations on use:

Although juvenile courts employ different units of counting when an event becomes a case, these tables do not use such a classification scheme. An effort will be directed at such a scheme in future reports.

TABLE 46: Filed cases (total, civil, criminal, and juvenile cases) in trial courts, 1975-1980.

Variations in court organization:

These tables include data from both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts, although data were unavailable from all courts in each state (as indicated by the footnote "p" in the profiles in Part II).

Sources of data for each court are the State Court Caseload Statistics: Annual Report series, 1975-1979 and historical data supplied by selected state court administrative offices.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

The jurisdiction of each court is outlined briefly in the court system chart for each state located in Part II of this report. Variations in jurisdiction make caseload comparisons among trial courts extremely difficult.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

The case classifications used in the Annual Report series are those chosen for inclusion in the State Court Model Annual Report and State Court Model Statistical Dictionary. Differences among states in the way even the broad categories civil, criminal, and juvenile are defined can make caseload comparisons difficult from state to state. For example, some states include support and custody cases in their juvenile caseload, but the classification scheme used here places them in civil (domestic relations) caseload.

Variations in counting cases:

Figure C indicates the various units used in counting criminal cases in the states. Caseload figures are not comparable when they are not counted at the same beginning and ending point.

Appropriate analyses:

The method of counting cases and the data included for each yearly figure were kept constant for each court. As a result, the number and percent changes in caseloads reported in these tables are, except where otherwise noted, are due to the actual change (usually growth) in filings in the court and not to changes in the way the court counted cases. Changes for similar courts or for all courts within a state may be compared for identical time periods.

Limitations on use:

Caseloads normally fluctuate from year to year, so changes from one year to the next may not be representative of the actual underlying trend. The change in the jurisdiction of a court, or the consolidation of two or more courts, will have an effect on the caseload of the related courts' caseloads.

City, Police, and Justice of the Peace Courts--Total cases, civil, and criminal --Incomplete data were reported for 31 court locations in 1976, 47 in 1977, 53 in 1978, 59 in 1979, and 11 in 1980. Breakdowns for civil and criminal cases were not available for 13 additional courts in 1980.
California--Superior Court--One court location did not report data for six months of 1979.
Colorado--Denver Probate Court--Total cases and civil cases-- No estate data were available for three months of 1977.
County Court--Total cases and criminal --Data reported for 1977 do not include preliminary hearing cases from Denver.

Connecticut--Superior Court--No data are included for cases disposed by the Appellate Session of Superior Court.
Delaware--Court of Common Pleas--(1978 only)--Other civil miscellaneous cases are missing from the court located in New Castle County for six months.
Georgia--Total cases, civil, criminal, and juvenile --Data were not reported for the following courts: Superior Court--one court for 1980; State Court--one court in 1977, one in 1979; Juvenile Court--one circuit in 1977; one court in 1978, 8 counties in 1980.
Iowa--Total cases and criminal --Data given for 1980 do not include preliminary hearing cases.
Kansas--District Court--(1978 only)--Figures do not include other estate cases.
Louisiana--Total cases, civil, criminal, and juvenile --Data were not available for two locations of the City, Parish, and New Orleans Municipal and Traffic Courts for 1977 and 1978. Data were estimated for several other court locations for these same years.
Maine--Total cases, civil, and juvenile --Data reported for 1977 for the District Court included incomplete figures for various civil and juvenile case categories. Civil figures are incomplete for 1978, 1979, and 1980. The only cases not available for 1980 were support/custody cases.
Maryland--Circuit Court--Figures for total cases do not include sentence review only cases. Criminal cases do not include sentence review only cases or adult offenses against juveniles.
Massachusetts--Criminal --One location of the Juvenile Court Department did not report criminal data for 1977.
Michigan--Circuit Court--(1978 only)--No data were available for one court; six other courts reported total cases filed only. (1979 only) --Three courts reported no data.
District Court--Total cases, civil, and criminal --No data were reported for five locations for 1979. In 1978 nine locations reported grand total filings only; the civil and criminal figures for these years are not complete.
Probate Court--Total cases, civil, and juvenile --No estate data were available for 1978, 1979, or 1980. Six locations did not report any data for 1977. Various courts did not report data for assorted categories of cases for 1979 and 1980. None of these data are comparable, as a result.
Court of Claims--Total cases and civil --Data reported for 1980 does not include appeals filed under the Vietnam Bonus Section Act.
Minnesota--District Court--No data were available for juvenile cases filed in this court.
Missouri--Total cases and criminal --No data were available on the number of ordinance violations filed in 1980.

Part II State court statistical profiles

Part II State court statistical profiles

The following section begins with blank prototypes of the three different types of tables that make up the profile of the court system of each state. The first prototype is a diagram depicting the organization of the courts within a state, including number of judges and number of courts, their jurisdictions and routes of appeal. The second and third prototype tables provide the reader with an outline of the case categories into which actual data from appellate and trial courts have been classified.

Following the blank prototypes are the state statistical profiles, which contain the actual court caseload statistics. State profiles are arranged in alphabetical order by state name with the organization chart for the state court system presented first, followed by the statistical profiles for the court(s) of last resort, intermediate appellate court(s) (if any), general jurisdiction court(s), and limited or special jurisdiction court(s) (if any).

The statistical profile for each court is the basic source document used in compiling the summary tables in Part I. Along with the name of the court, the level of the court, the number of court divisions, the number of judges, and the time span covered by the data, each profile shows the actual caseload data reported by that court.

Data are classified into the general categories chosen by the CSIM Project as being most representative of the kinds of data reported by the states. For example, a divorce action reported by a trial court is displayed as a "marriage dissolution" case under the general heading of "domestic relations" for "civil" caseload. CSIM Project classifications are shown in the prototypes and appear in boldface on the statistical profiles.

Footnotes are used in these statistical profiles to explain any peculiarities regarding the data as reported by each court and to qualify data, as necessary, when transferred from the statistical profiles to the summary tables in Part I. Standard footnote headings, as indicated on the prototypes, have been adopted for use in this report and will continue to be used in the Annual Report series. These standard headings give the subject matter of the footnote. If further explanation is needed, informational statements are provided on the profiles under the standard footnote heading.

In Part II the source of data is indicated at the bottom of each state court profile. A complete listing of sources is included in Appendix B.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court but the data are unavailable.
X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:
Petitions for writ of certiorari granted are not counted as disposed until the resulting appeal is disposed; a filing is not counted for the resulting appeal. These numbers of granted petitions for writ of certiorari are the figures appearing in the parentheses.

^JExplanation of data included in the category:
The figure given for the number of appeals disposed represents the number of opinions written during the year.
Miscellaneous matters include prisoner petitions and requests to take the Bar Exam.

^kAdditional information:
Data are given on this profile only for cases already under submission. All cases submitted to the court are decided within the term year.

 N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.
 -- = Not applicable.

^hFigure was computed:

"Publication date to mandate" mean figure equals "notice of appeal to mandate" minus "notice of appeal to opinion publication."
 "Hearing or submission to opinion publication" mean figure for time interval data equals the "hearing or submission to circulating draft opinion" plus "circulating draft opinion to opinion publication."
 "Notice of appeal to opinion publication" is the sum of four major subcategories.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Filed figures include cases filed or reinstated.
 Disposed figures include cases closed and transferred to the Court of Appeals. There were 176 cases transferred to the Court of Appeals including 2 civil and 136 criminal appeals, 2 petitions for review and 36 sentence appeals.
 The number of civil and criminal appeals filed includes cross appeals filed.
 Juvenile appeals relating to dependency are included with the civil appeals.
 Juvenile appeals relating to criminal-type offenses are included with the criminal appeals category.

^lSpecial source or revision in the data:

The breakdown for manner of disposition data, the correct number of request to appeal and original jurisdiction cases on which review was denied, and time interval data for sentence review only cases were supplied by the clerk of the court during data verification.

^mInformation on disposition type on trial data:

The manner of disposition data is a case count. The 304 opinions and mandates include some opinions filed in 1979 on which mandates were not issued until 1980. There were 237 actual opinions published in 1980.

ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

The analysis of time periods for disposition of appeals was done for all cases closed by opinion, memorandum opinion and judgment, and mandate. This amounted to 144 civil appeals, 106 criminal appeals, and 23 sentence review only cases, which together comprised all cases closed by opinion and mandate during 1980.

^bParticular court or reporting system information:

This court was created during the court year. The number of cases given as pending at the beginning of the year are those cases transferred to it from the Supreme Court. Filings and dispositions are given for the period from the creation of the court to the end of the court year.

This court has jurisdiction over criminal but not civil appeals.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Filed figures include cases filed or reinstated as well as the number of cross appeals filed.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.
N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.
X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.
-- = Not applicable.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
The criminal case unit of count is the number of indictments or complaints. Some occur after preliminary hearings in District Court. A trial is counted if tried to judgment.
^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:
During the court year civil cases opened before May 1978 were closed to help clean up the files. These cases may not have been included in the civil disposition figures given, causing the imbalance. Figures are as reported in the annual report.
^hFigure was computed:
The juvenile filing figure for each category was calculated by multiplying the percent of formal petitions for each category by the total number of formal petitions.
ⁱData are not complete:
Criminal total pending figures include only felony cases.
Grand total pending figures include only civil and felony cases.
^jSpecial source or revision in the data:
The number of other criminal cases disposed was supplied by the administrative office of the court during data verification.
^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:
Civil jury trial and civil disposition data are for all civil categories except domestic relations and probate. Civil non-jury trials also include domestic relations (divorce, reciprocal support) cases.
ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:
Age at disposition and age of pending data are given for the following categories as listed in the annual report:
Domestic relations -- divorce, dissolution of marriage, and other.
Probate -- estates, guardianship, probate waiver, protective, other estate, adoption, and sanity.
Other civil -- civil damage; debts, contracts, and notes; housing, real estate; administrative review; and other.
Felony cases over 730 days old were included in the 731 to 910 days old category.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.
-- = Not applicable.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
The criminal case unit of count is the number of indictments or complaints.
A trial is counted if tried to judgment.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are as reported in the annual report. The end pending figure for preliminary hearings does not include those cases out on warrants. During the court year preliminary hearing cases that were opened before December 1978 were closed to help clean up the files. These cases may not have been included with the preliminary hearing disposition figures.

ⁱData are not complete:

Grand total pending figures include all data except other criminal, other criminal--traffic informal complaint, and other traffic cases.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Civil disposition type data do not include dispositions of small claims cases.
Misdemeanor disposition data include misdemeanor traffic cases.
Traffic trial and disposition data only include other traffic cases.

ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

Misdemeanor age at disposition is measured from first appearance to dismissal, acquittal, or sentencing.
The misdemeanor category for time interval and age of pending data includes misdemeanor traffic cases.
Traffic time interval data only include other traffic cases.
Age of pending cases data were not available for "all other civil" cases in the same time period breakdowns as were available for all other case categories.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Appeals (civil, criminal, and delayed) filed include cases transferred in from the Arizona Court of Appeals. Eighty-nine appeals were transferred from the Court of Appeals during 1980.

Special actions include mandamus, prohibition, and quo warranto cases from District One of the Court of Appeals. The Supreme Court has handled these cases for Division One since 1975 in order to help it catch up with its backlog.

Petitions for review are requests for review of Court of Appeals cases (or portions thereof) that are heard as a matter of right in the Court of Appeals. They are not necessarily processed as a regular appeal.

Miscellaneous special actions are instituted by indigent prisoners for redress of grievances arising out of their convictions or restraint. There is no constitutional or statutory provision which prescribes this type of case.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.
N/A = This case type is handled by the court but the data are unavailable.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment.
A jury trial is counted when the voir dire examination of the panel begins.
A non-jury trial is counted when the first witness is sworn.

Adjustment to the beginning pending figures for the 1980 court year were based on the findings of the inventory.

ⁱData are not complete:

Adoption and total domestic relations figures do not include adoption data for Maricopa County.
Juvenile filing, dispositions, and pending data do not include data from Maricopa County.
Grand total figures do not include adoption or juvenile data from Maricopa County.
Total domestic relations, total civil, and grand total data given for trials do not include modify decree, foreign decree, or contempt only domestic relations cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Filings include cases transferred in.
Dispositions include cases transferred out.
Civil cases include prayer under $1,000, auto tort, non-auto tort, contract, eminent domain, unclassified civil, and appeal cases.
Mental health cases disposed are the number of civil (390) and criminal (619) mental health hearings held.
Civil appeals are included with data classified in the law category.
Unclassified criminal cases are offenses which do not come under any of the other criminal case categories listed, for example, peace bond complaints.

^mInformation on type of disposition or trial data:

Figures given for criminal cases disposed while a jury or non-jury trial was in process are also included in the court of the number of criminal trials held. Trials are counted at their beginning, but not all continue to verdict.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.
N/A = This case type is handled by the court but the data are unavailable.
X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.
-- = Not applicable.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment.
A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.
A non-jury trial is counted when the first witness is sworn.

Figures are given as in the report.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:
Pending figures are given for active cases only. There was no information available on the number of cases transferred from active to inactive status or from inactive to active status during the year, resulting in the imbalance.

ⁱData are not complete:
Small claims pending and disposition figures only include small claims cases from the Housing Session. This affects the total small claims, total civil and grand total pending and disposed figures.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:
Civil law cases include torts, contracts, collection cases, appeals of wills and estates in trust from the Probate Court.

^kAdditional information:
In addition to the data included in the profile, there were 965 inactive Part A criminal cases and 13,508 inactive Part B (5,035 in diversionary stage and 8,473 with rearrest pending) cases pending at the beginning of the year and 935 Part A and 16,267 Part B (6,884 in diversionary stage and 9,383 with rearrest pending) cases pending at the end of the year.

^lSpecial source or revision in the data:
Information on the type of disposition for criminal Part A cases was provided by the Office of the Chief Court Administrator during data verification.

^mInformation on trial or type of disposition data:
Data for civil trials are given for law cases on the jury, non-jury, or appeal of administrative agency case trial lists and domestic relations marriage dissolution cases.
Data were not available for any cases handled by the Housing Sessions or for civil, small claims or law cases disposed in the geographic area courts, formerly the Courts of Common Pleas.

 N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.
 X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.
 -- = Not applicable.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
 A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information, indictment, transfer, appeal, or reinstatement. A defendant with a consecutively numbered series of information, appeals, or transfers filed on the same day is counted as one defendant.
 A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.
 A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.
^fBeginning pending figure for the 1980 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1979 court year:
 Figures are as given in the annual report.
^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:
 Figures are as given in the annual report.
^jExplanation of data included in the category:
 Involuntary commitment proceedings are held only in New Castle County.
 Criminal cases include appeals that are tried de novo except for filings, which can be separated into new filings and appeals.
^kAdditional information:
 The number of pending criminal defendants displayed includes those which are triable and not triable.
 In addition to the criminal case dispositions listed there were also 671 unindicted criminal cases disposed by nolle prosequi. These cases were not counted with the other criminal dispositions because these cases were never actually before the Superior Court. The cases had been bound over to Superior Court either because probable cause was found at the preliminary hearing, or because the preliminary hearing was waived, but either the Attorney General then decided not to seek indictment, or the grand jury ignored the indictment.
 The trial information counts the number of trials held. More than one defendant's case may be disposed of by a single trial. There were 218 defendants whose cases were disposed of by jury trial, and 37 whose cases were disposed of by non-jury trial.
^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:
 Civil trial and disposition figures only include data for law and real property rights cases. No other civil cases are tried in this court.
ⁿInformation on age of pending caseload or time interval data:
 Arrest to disposition times include all defendants.
 Indictment to disposition times include indicted defendants only.
 Median time values were calculated using the grouped medians method.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
 A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
^fBeginning pending figure for the 1980 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1979 court year:
 This is due to adjustments made by the administrative office of the court.
^jExplanation of data included in the category:
 Civil cases include corporate cases, equity, real property disputes (boundaries and title), commercial matters, contractual matters, Delaware's "Sunshine Law," etc. Corporate matters take up most of the time.
^kAdditional information:
 This profile does not include referrals to the Public Guardian. The Public Guardian refers cases to the Court of Chancery if he thinks a guardianship may be necessary. In the fiscal year 1979-80 there were 88 beginning pending, 204 filed, 247 disposed, and 45 end pending cases for the Public Guardian. The 204 filed cases were 11 guardianships and 193 investigations.

^aCourt jurisdiction:
 Jury trials are not handled in the New Castle County Court of Common Pleas; jury trials for criminal cases are held in Kent and Sussex Counties. If a jury demand is made in New Castle County, the case is transferred to the Superior Court.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
 A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of charges.
 A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.
 A non-jury trial is counted if the case is not disposed of by a jury trial. Disposition by guilty plea, nolle prosequi, dismissal, etc., are all counted as non-jury trials.

 N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

^cJudge information:
 In addition to the aldermen and mayor serving this court, there are also 1 deputy, 2 assistants, and 1 alternate alderman.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
 A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
 The criminal and traffic case unit of count is the number of charges.

 Data reported for 1980 were more complete than those reported for 1979, affecting the size of the pending caseload reported.

⁹Change in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:
 This is due to the various sources of missing data listed below.

ⁱData are not complete:
 No filed or pending data for criminal and traffic cases were available for the courts located in Newport, Bridgeville, or Ocean View. All civil figures and all disposition figures are complete.
 Filed and beginning pending data for the court in Rehoboth Beach could not be identified by case type. These cases are included in the grand total cases figures, but are not included in the criminal or traffic figures.
 One hundred-forty-four of the cases filed and twenty-six of the cases pending at the end of the year in Bethany could not be identified by case type. They are included in the grand total cases figures, but not in the criminal and traffic figures.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.
 N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.
 -- = Not applicable.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

Superior Court data are displayed according to case types, not court divisions as they exist in the Superior Court. Civil Division handles civil jury, civil non-jury, small claims, and landlord and tenant cases. Family Division handles divorce, adoption, paternity, support, reciprocal support, intrafamily, judicial petitions, habeas corpus, delinquency, neglect, and person in need of supervision cases. Probate Division handles decedent's estates and minor's estates cases. Tax Division handles civil tax and criminal tax cases. Criminal Division handles all criminal and traffic cases.

^cCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted when it is placed on the calendar (has reached issue).
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information, indictment, or complaint.
 A jury trial is counted if tried to verdict.
 A non-jury trial is counted if tried to decision.

^hFigure was computed:

Mental health beginning pending figure was computed from filed, disposed and end pending data.

ⁱData are not complete:

Total civil and grand total trial data do not include non-jury trials conducted for small claims cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

The business of the auditor-master division includes fiduciary accounts, orders of reference, and inventories. Special proceedings include fugitive from justice complaints, writs of habeas corpus, extradition of out of state witnesses, adversary hearings, and show cause of contempt proceedings.

^kCriminal and traffic cases filed include new filings and reinstated cases.

^lSpecial source or revision in the data:

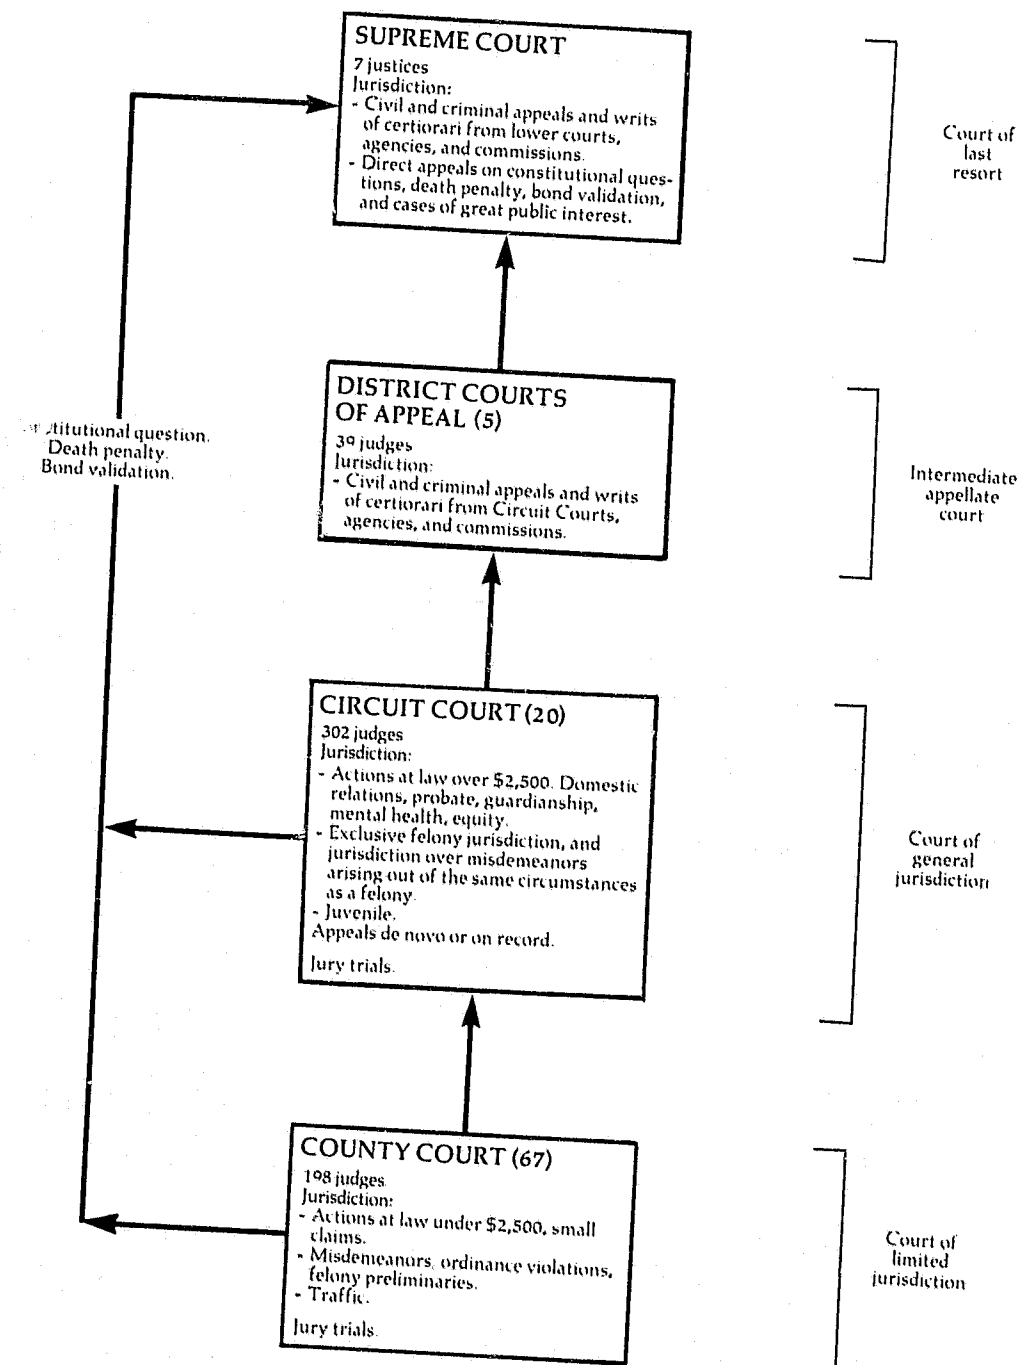

Juvenile disposed and pending and criminal type of disposition data so marked were provided by the administrative office of the court during data verification.

^mInformation on dispositions type or trial data:

Other traffic dispositions are defendants whose cases are in the traffic summons stage in accordance with procedures outlined in the Traffic Violation Notice System.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information, indictment, or complaint arising from a single criminal episode.
A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.
A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs. All civil cases not disposed by jury trial or dismissed before trial are considered disposed by judge (non-jury trial).
^mInformation on for disposition type or trial data:
Civil trial data do not include estate or appeal cases.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.
 N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

^dCase definition of unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information, indictment, or complaint, from a single criminal episode.

A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.

A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs. All civil cases not disposed by jury trial or dismissed before trial are considered disposed by judge (non-jury trial).

^jExplanation of data included in the category.

Summary procedure cases are those involving up to $1,500 in damages.

Other civil cases are those involving $1,500 to $2,500, or nonmonetary civil cases.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Trials are held for criminal traffic cases only. Hearings are held for civil infractions; these hearings are not included with the trial data.

* The Intermediate Court of Appeals was established pursuant to Act 111 of the 1979 Legislature and held its first session on April 28, 1980.
 † The Land Court and Tax Appeal Court hear special cases, but are considered general jurisdiction courts for this report because circuit judges serve.
  The Circuit Court and District Court are both courts of record. District Courts hear high volume cases. The Circuit Court hears all jury trials. For purposes of this report, the Circuit Court is considered a court of general jurisdiction since it handles felony cases.

^cJudge information:
 There are a total of 25 (18 circuit, 2 family, and 5 district family) judges that hear Circuit Court proper and Family Court cases. In the first circuit, Family Court cases are heard by the 2 Family Court and 5 District Family Court judges. In the other three circuits, both circuit and district court judges hear Family Court cases in addition to their regular assignments. All Family Court data are included with the Circuit Court data on this table and in the summary tables in Part I of this report.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
 A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment.
 A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.
 A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.

^fBeginning pending figure for the 1980 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1979 court year:
 These figures were indicated as corrected in the 1980 annual report.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:
 Land cases handled by the Land Court are not included.
 Miscellaneous family contains mental health cases.
 Supplemental proceedings in the other civil category include supplemental proceedings on criminal as well as civil cases.
 District Court transfers are cases initiated in the District Court that demand a jury trial.

^lSpecial source or revision in data:
 Data breakdown for felony and misdemeanor cases was obtained by telephone from the administrative office of the courts.
 This figure was corrected by the administrative office of the court during data verification.

Corrections were made based on an inventory of cases.

^hFigure was computed:

Beginning pending figure was calculated from filing, disposition, and end pending data.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Filed figures include cases added and cases transferred.

YRA cases are juvenile delinquency cases filed under the Youth Rehabilitation Act. CPA cases involve dependent or neglected children petitions filed under the Child Protection Act.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint. The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment. A trial is counted when it has officially begun (the jury is sworn or there is an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence). Also included with the trial data are cases closed at hearings.

^fBeginning pending figure for the 1980 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1979 court year: Corrections were made to end pending figures for the 1980 court year based on an inventory of cases. This caused the beginning pending figures for the 1980 court year, computed from filed, disposed, and end pending figures, to be different from end pending figures reported for 1979.

^hFigures were computed:

Beginning pending figures were computed from filing, disposition, and end pending data.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Special proceeding appeals may include some juvenile appeals.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

The Magistrates Division is a division of the District Court and its data are included in the general jurisdiction section of the summary tables in Part II of this report.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint. The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information, indictment, or complaint. A trial is counted when it is officially begun (the jury is sworn or there is an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence). Also included with the trial data are cases closed at hearings.

^fBeginning pending figure for the 1980 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1979 court year: Corrections were made to end pending figures for the 1980 court year based on an inventory of cases. This caused the beginning pending figures for the 1980 court year computed from filed, disposed, and end pending figures, to be different from end pending figures reported for 1979.

^hInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

Criminal and traffic cases included in the time interval data include all criminal and traffic data except "juvenile--driving while intoxicated" cases.

^cJudge information:

In addition to the 34 regular judges, 4 retired judges and 9 circuit judges also served on this court by agreement during 1980.

^kAdditional information:

Of the 3,183 civil appeals filed, 31 were cases which were reinstated during 1980.

Of the 3,420 criminal appeals filed, 93 were cases which were reinstated during 1980.

^lSpecial source or revision in the data:

Figures for the number of civil and criminal cases disposed without opinion or order were given by the administrative office of the courts during data verification.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

There were 51 specially concurring, 142 dissenting, and 41 supplemental opinions filed in the court.

The 2,148 majority and per curiam opinions disposed of 2,523 cases.

The 1,760 Rule 23 orders disposed of 519 civil and 1,291 criminal cases.

 X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

- cJudge information:
 Associate judges may hear all matters except criminal trials in which the defendant is charged with an offense punishable by more than one year imprisonment.
- dCase definition or unit of count:
 A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
 The criminal case unit of count for caseload data is the number of informations, indictments, or complaints. The criminal case unit of count for trial and type of disposition data is the number of defendants.
 A trial is counted if tried to verdict or decision.
- fBeginning pending figure for the 1980 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1979 court year:
 These differences were caused by adjustments that were made by the court in the 1979 end pending counts.
- gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:
 Figures were adjusted by reason of a physical inventory.
- iData are not complete:
 Misdemeanors and grand total pending figures do not include any conservation violation cases.
 Criminal total pendings do not include pending cases for conservation violations, or ordinance violations.
 Grand total pendings do not include pending cases for conservation violations, ordinance violations, and traffic cases.
- jExplanation of data in the category:
 Filed includes cases that have been reinstated and transferred in and transferred out of the court's jurisdiction. Cases reinstated or transferred in are added to the original filings, while cases transferred out are subtracted. Postjudgment and posttermination matters are not included.
 Misdemeanor cases include ordinance violations, conservation violations and preliminary hearings in felony cases in the Circuit Court of Cook County.
- mInformation on disposition type or trial data:
 Criminal trials and criminal dispositions are for felony cases only. Trials in which the defendant was found guilty of a reduced charge were not included in the trial data, but are included in the "reduced to misdemeanor" figure.
 The unit of count in trial and disposition data is the number of defendants, unlike the unit of count in the other profile data.

^aCourt jurisdiction

On January 1, 1979, the Criminal Court of Marion County and the Juvenile Court of Marion County were vested into a reorganized Superior Court.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations, indictments, or complaints.

A trial is counted if tried to verdict or decision.

Figures are as calculated from data given in the annual report.

^hFigure was computed:

Beginning pending figures were calculated from filing, disposition, and end pending data.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

"Other" includes all matters adjudicated in the court that have not been specifically listed. These include probable cause hearings, petitions for writs of habeas corpus, commitment proceedings, waiver hearings, and informal juvenile hearings. It was determined from the data that many of these were probable cause cases when handled as a County Court function. The "other" category cases are listed as other criminal for the regular functions of the court.

^kAdditional information:

Case categories identified as "county court function" are cases that were handled by the Superior Court or Circuit Court, but are normally handled by the County Court.

Cases filed include 5,186 cases "venued in".

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

"Other" trials include data for trials in domestic relations, estate, traffic, juvenile, public hearing, and other criminal cases.

X = The date for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

-- = Not applicable.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Petitions for writ of certiorari and petitions for permission to appeal interlocutory ruling when granted are not counted as a disposition. The resulting appeal is not counted as a new filing, and is counted as a disposition only when the appeal is disposed. These granted petitions are the numbers appearing in the parentheses.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions: Figures are as given in the annual report.

^hFigure was computed:

Applications for further review filed figure was computed from pending and disposed figures.

^kAdditional information:

Cases transferred to the Court of Appeals by the Supreme Court are not included in cases listed as disposed prior to formal submission to the court.

^lSpecial source or revision in the data:

Figures for the number of appeals filed, the number of civil and criminal opinions written and their contents, and time interval data were supplied by the clerk of the court during data verification.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

The civil category for manner of disposition, disposition of cases, and status of pending cases data includes civil appeals, postconviction relief, and appeal of administrative agency cases.

The criminal category for manner of disposition, disposition of cases, and status of pending cases data includes criminal appeals and sentence review only cases.

In addition to the 275 majority opinions there were also 23 dissents and 15 concurrences filed.

ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

Priority civil includes postconviction relief and contested child custody cases.

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations or indictments.
 A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.
 A non-jury trial (contested) is counted when the first witness is sworn.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1980 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1979 court year:
 The disparity between those figures is due to inventory corrections.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:
 Figures are as reported in the annual report.

hFigure was computed:

Time interval data were estimated from percentages given in the annual report.

iData are not complete:

Domestic relations and total civil dispositions do not include family in need of assistance cases.
 Total civil pending does not include domestic relations or estate data.
 Grand total pending does not include domestic relations, estate, preliminary hearing or juvenile data.
 Total criminal and grand total filed figures do not include preliminary hearing cases.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Small claims total includes cases handled by the clerk. The cases are not listed as filed or pending in the "by clerk" category because the cases are filed as regular cases and not as cases to be specifically disposed by the clerk.
Regular criminal cases handled by the district judges include felonies and appeals.
Felony pending is the total for all regular criminal categories (felony, appeal, indictable misdemeanor).
Misdemeanor (regular criminal) pending cases are included in the felony (regular criminal) data.
Domestic relations disposed figure for family in need of assistance is included in disposition figures for juvenile data.

kAdditional information:

In addition to the total criminal data, there were 564 search warrants and 694 seized property hearings handled by district associate judges, regular full-time magistrates, and substitute full-time magistrates; there were 929 search warrants and 359 seized property hearings handled by part-time magistrates.
 Estate, guardianship and conservatorship, trusteeship, and regular criminal (felony) cases are handled by district judges only.

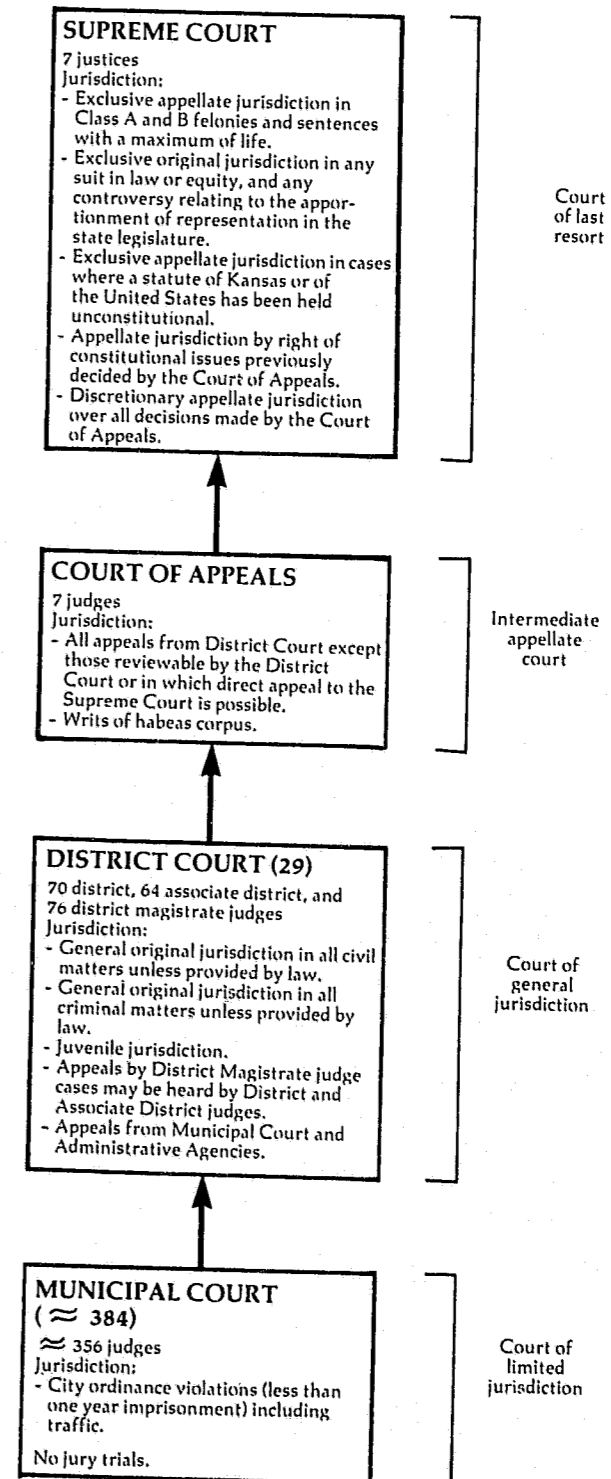

Preliminary hearing cases were disposed of by associate judges and regular magistrates.

Nonindictable state and nonindictable ordinance cases are handled by district associate judges, regular full-time, substitute full-time, and part-time magistrates.

Other domestic relations and juvenile cases disposed represent the number of cases closed by formal hearing.

 N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.
 X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.
 -- = Not applicable.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
 A civil case is counted at the filing of a petition or complaint. Appeals are filed in categories according to the nature of the case.
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations, indictments, or complaints.
 A jury trial is counted when the jury is impaneled.
 A non-jury trial is counted if the case is contested (an attorney appears in opposition).

 Figures are as given in the annual report.

ⁱData are not complete:
 Juvenile total disposed figure does not include other juvenile.
 Domestic relations pending and disposed figures do not include adoption cases.
 Total civil pending figures do not include small claims, adoption, mental health, or estate cases.
 Total civil and grand total disposed figures do not include small claims, adoption, or mental health cases.
 Grand total pending figures do not include small claims, adoption, mental health, estate, traffic, or juvenile cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:
 Filings include original actions and retrials/reinstatements.
 Civil cases are divided into three major groupings in the Kansas Annual Report: domestic relations, regular actions, and limited actions (Chapter 61 cases). Regular and limited actions cases include contract, tort, real property rights, civil appeals, extraordinary writs, and other civil cases. Regular and limited actions cases are distinguished from each other by the amount demanded in the suit. There were 17,816 regular civil cases filed and 16,830 disposed during the 1980 court year. The same elements for limited actions were 40,345 and 37,018.
 Domestic relations cases for trial, disposition, age of pending, and time interval data include marriage dissolution, support/custody, and other domestic relations cases, but not adoption cases.
 Figures for disposed and pending criminal appeal cases are included in the felony and misdemeanor categories, according to the nature of the case being appealed.

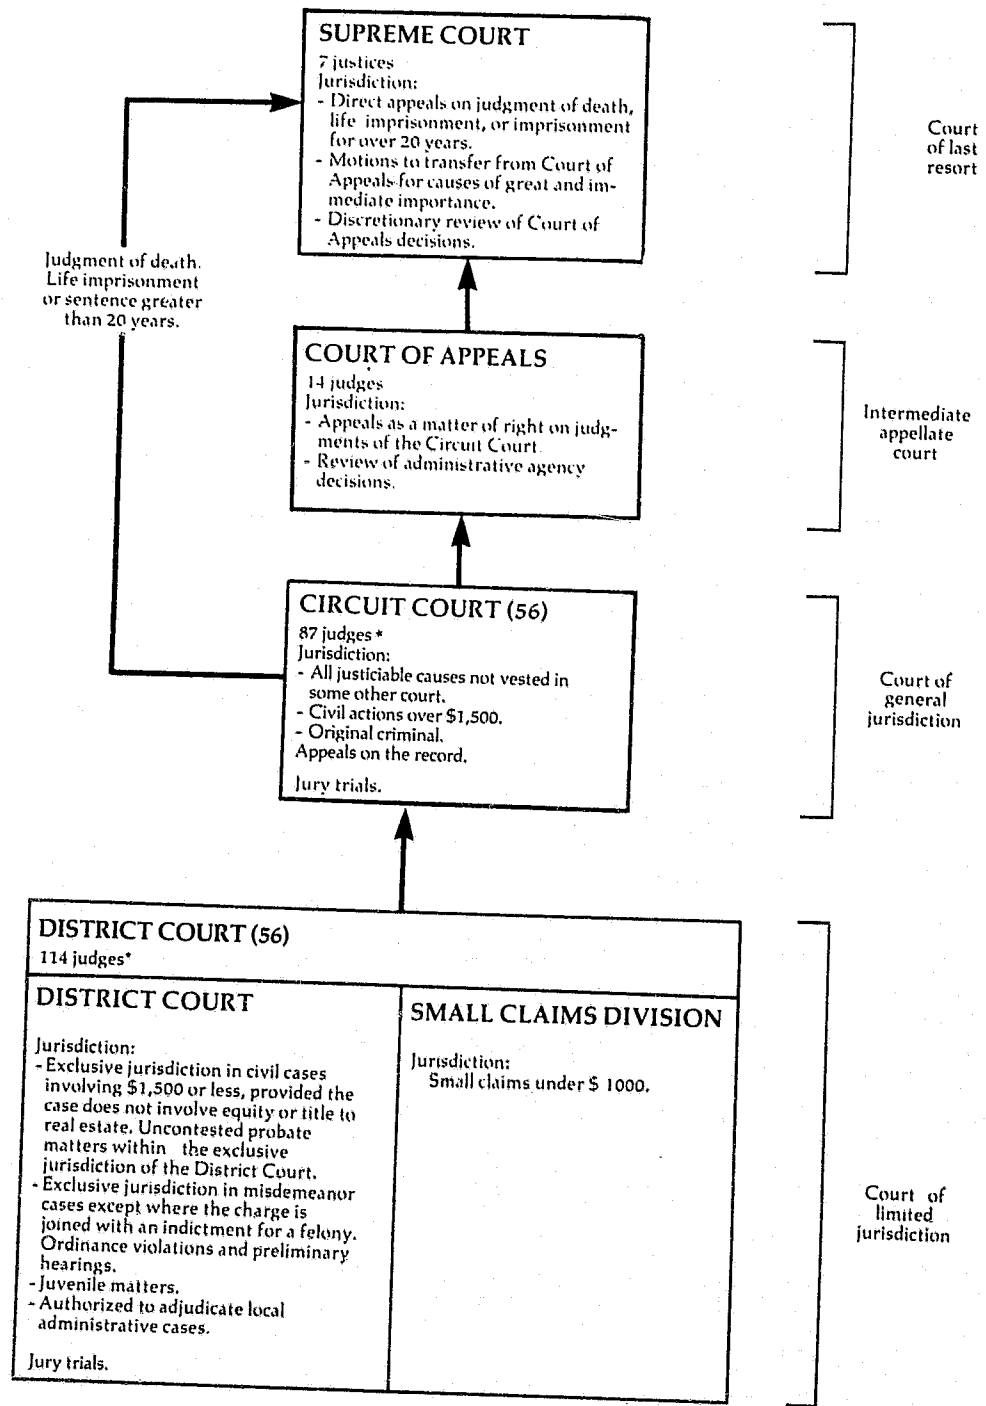

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:
 Dismissed criminal dispositions include dismissals, other uncontested matters, and appeals from lower courts.
 Traffic dispositions and trials do not include juvenile traffic cases.
 As a result of the change in the trial definition, non-jury cases include some cases which were merely "contested"--an answer was filed, although no trial was held.
 Felony and misdemeanor trial and disposition data include appeal cases from the lower courts.
 The sum of trial acquittals and trial convictions exceeds the total number of trials; however, these are the figures in the Kansas Annual Report.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:
A writ granted is not counted as disposed until the resulting appeal is disposed; a filing is not counted for the resulting appeal. These granted writs are the numbers appearing in parentheses in the profile.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:
Appeals filed include a few habeas corpus original jurisdiction cases.
Original jurisdiction petitions under disciplinary include some nondisciplinary bar matters as well as disciplinary cases.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the informations, indictments, or complaints.

A jury trial is counted by the state with the beginning of voir dire. A non-jury trial is counted when opening arguments have begun.

Figures are as given in the annual report.

^hFigure was computed:

End pending figure for the 1980 court year was computed from beginning pending, filed, and disposed figures.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Title 29 cases are OUI (operating under the influence) cases and other traffic offenses.

End pending figure was calculated from filed, disposed, and beginning pending data.

^lSpecial source or revision in the data:

Beginning pending figures for the 1980 court year were taken from the end pending figures for the 1979 court year given in the 1979 annual report.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Civil trial data do not include URESA cases.

ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

Filing to first appearance and first appearance to disposition figures include data on indictments, transfers appeals, and juvenile appeals. First appearance to guilty plea, first appearance to jury trial, and first appearance to jury waived trial figures include data on indictments, transfers, and appeals only.

Blank space = Not enough information is known. The case category may or may not be handled by the court.
X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:
Applications for leave to appeal when granted are not counted as dispositions until the resulting appeal is disposed; a new filing is not counted for the associated appeal. These granted applications for leave to appeal are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

⁹Change in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:
Figures are as given in the annual report and by the clerk of the court.

^kAdditional information:
The court also considered 30 miscellaneous matters during the year, in addition to its regular caseload.

^lSpecial source or revision in the data:
Filing figures were supplied by the clerk of the court during data verification.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:
Three dissenting opinions and five concurring opinions were also filed.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint. The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the informations, indictments, or complaints.

A jury trial is counted by the state with the beginning of voir dire. A non-jury trial is counted when opening arguments have begun.

^hFigure was computed:

End pending figure for the 1980 court year was computed from beginning pending, filed, and disposed figures. Explanation of data included in the category:

Title 29 cases are OUI (operating under the influence) cases and other traffic offenses. End pending figure was calculated from filed, disposed, and beginning pending data.

^jSpecial source or revision in the data:

Beginning pending figures for the 1980 court year were taken from the end pending figures for the 1979 court year given in the 1979 annual report.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Civil trial data do not include URESA cases.

ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

Filing to first appearance and first appearance to disposition figures include data on indictments, transfers appeals, and juvenile appeals. First appearance to guilty plea, first appearance to jury trial, and first appearance to jury waived trial figures include data on indictments, transfers, and appeals only.

 X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

- aCourt jurisdiction:
 All juvenile cases are heard in this court in all counties except Montgomery County, where they are heard in the District Court. Juvenile data for Montgomery County are given in the District Court profile.
- dCase definition or unit of count:
 A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations or indictments.
 A jury trial is counted if tried to verdict.
 A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.
- fBeginning pending figure for the 1980 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1979 court year:
 Figures are as given in the annual report.
- gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:
 Figures are as given in the annual report.
- hFigure was computed:
 Time interval data were computed by weighting the individual court's average by the number of trials per court.
- iData are not complete:
 Criminal and grand total pending do not include sentence review only cases.
- JExplanation of data included in the category:
 Pending figures for adult offenses against juveniles are included in the total pending for juvenile cases.
- lSpecial source or revision in the data:
 Time interval figures for total civil cases were provided by the administrative office of the court during data verification.
- mInformation on disposition type or trial data:
 The equity category for trial data includes domestic relations, equity, and foreclosure. The law category includes all other civil categories.
- nInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:
 The equity category for time interval data includes domestic relations, equity, and foreclosure. The law category includes all other civil categories.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of complaints.

ⁱData are not complete:

Total criminal disposed and grand total disposed figures do not include other criminal cases.

Motor vehicle complaints were somewhat under-reported in FY1980 due to the passage of decriminalized motor vehicle legislation.

Decriminalization took effect January 1, 1979. Some local courts included the decriminalized case figures with the motor vehicle complaint figures when reporting 1980 data; others did not. The data reported here is not strictly comparable to similar data reported for previous years.

Total traffic filed and grand total filed figure does not include DWI/DUI, parking, or operating so as to endanger.

Total traffic disposed figure does not include DWI/DUI or juvenile motor vehicle complaint cases. Grand total disposed figure does not include criminal appeals cases, or juvenile appeal cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Small claims supplementary process data is included in the law civil supplementary process data.

Criminal complaints include some felony cases. A maximum 5-year sentence may be given in these felony cases.

Total misdemeanor and criminal filed cases include DWI/DUI and operating so as to endanger cases.

 A civil case is counted at the filing of a petition or complaint.
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of complaints.
 A trial is counted when the jury is sworn or when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.

ⁱData are not complete:
 Figures given for the total number of criminal and traffic jury and non-jury trials do not include the number of trials held for criminal complaint or criminal domestic relations cases. Neither are there cases included in the grand total count of the number of jury or non-jury trials held. Civil trial figures are not included in the total number of jury and non-jury trials held, either.
 Total cases disposed do not include traffic decriminalized complaints.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:
 Criminal domestic relations cases are incidents of domestic violence.
 Trial and disposition data given for criminal and traffic complaint cases include criminal domestic relations, traffic criminal complaints, and other criminal complaints. No disposition data are given for traffic decriminalized complaints.

Additional information:

The 3,339 jury-of-six complaints involved 1,807 defendants. There were 807 requests in the first instance and 2,532 de novo appeals.

^aCourt jurisdiction:
 The court is divided into three divisions: the Felony Division, the Misdemeanor Division, and the Traffic and Ordinance Division.

The Traffic and Ordinance Division handles criminal ordinance violations, all traffic cases, and civil infractions.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the warrant.
 A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.
 A nonjury trial is counted when the first witness is sworn.

^hFigure was computed:
 The number of misdemeanor defendants convicted at trial was calculated by subtracting the number not guilty and the number dismissed from the number of trials.

ⁱData are not complete:
 Total criminal and grand total pending figures do not include misdemeanor cases.
 Total criminal trial figures do not include trials conducted for ordinance violation cases.
 Grand total trial figures do not include trials conducted for civil, criminal ordinance violation, or traffic cases.

^kAdditional information:
 During the year the Misdemeanor Division also handled 1,001 writs and miscellaneous matters.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

^hFigure was computed:
Disposition data for mental health cases were computed from pending and filing data given in the annual report. Although the annual report says no mental health cases were completely disposed of, these computed figures may be interpreted as the number of cases which went from an active to an inactive status during the year.

ⁱData are not complete:
All case type figures reported on this profile were not available from one or more court locations. As a result, no comparisons should be made among these data or between these data and data from other courts.
Data reported do not include any estate cases.
Grand total disposed figures do not contain any estate or juvenile data.

^bParticular court or reporting system information:
 The court sits in 3 divisions of 3 judges each, with judges alternating among the divisions.

^hFigure was computed:
 The filing figures were computed from disposed and pending data.
 The number of motions disposed was computed by subtracting the number of dismissed appeals from the total number of motions given as disposed in the annual report.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:
 Data for motions disposed in the manner of disposition table includes 154 unspecified appeals cases which were dismissed.

^kAdditional information:
 Cases disposed by dismissal are included in the civil and criminal appeals filings, but a civil/criminal breakdown for cases dismissed is not available.

^lSpecial source or revision in the data:
 Beginning pending figures for cases other than appeals were taken from the 1979 annual report where they are given as end pending figures for the 1979 court year.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:
 Of the 372 majority opinions deciding cases on the merits, 282 were published and 107 were unpublished. There were also 30 concurring or dissenting opinions written.

^cJudge information:
 Circuit judges serve in the Court of Common Pleas.

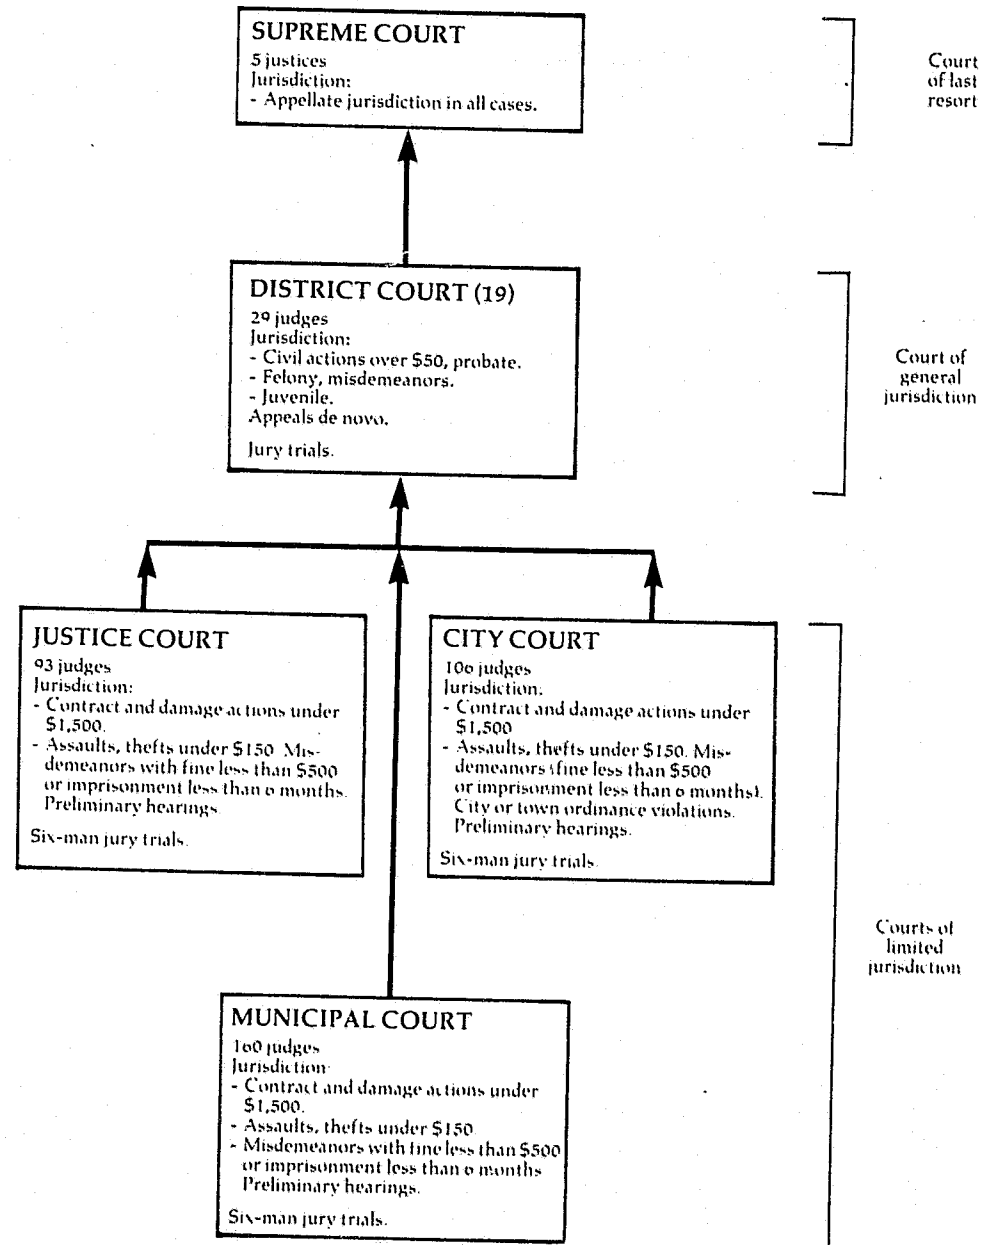

^dCase definition or unit of count:
 A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations or indictments. A filing may involve multiple defendants.
 A trial is counted after the presentation of evidence on the merits has begun.

ⁱData are not complete:

No data were available for the cases, primarily ordinance violations, handled by the municipal judges.
 The only pending data for civil cases that were available were for other civil cases handled by circuit judges.
 Criminal pending figures include felony/misdemeanor cases only.
 Total pending data were available only for some of the case types handled by circuit judges. These case types are other civil, felony/misdemeanor, and juvenile cases. Not included were small claims, estate, other civil handled by associate circuit judges, misdemeanor, preliminary hearing, and traffic cases.
 Other civil trial data were not available separately for jury and non-jury trials conducted by circuit judges for the courts located in Jackson, Jefferson, and St. Louis Counties, and St. Louis City. These jurisdictions represented 42% of the 40,635 trials conducted by all circuit judges in the state. There were 400 jury and 22,434 non-jury trials conducted by circuit judges reported for the rest of the state.
 Trial data reported for associate circuit judges were complete.
^jExplanation of data included in the category:
 Felony/misdemeanor filing and disposition figures include municipal appeals.
 The preliminary hearing disposition figure includes dismissals, bind-overs, trials, and acceptance to pleas of reduced charges.
 The dismissed preliminary hearing figure includes nolle prosequi and change of venue cases.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.
X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

ⁱData are not complete:
Requests to appeal are not counted statistically by the Supreme Court; the figures presented for appeals are cases docketed. There are a number of cases that the court refuses to hear. These discretionary cases, when leave to docket is denied, could be considered processed by the court, but they are not docketed or reported statistically. As a result, request to appeal cases are not included in the total cases figures given in the chart.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:
Original proceedings are included with the appeals data. There are a minimal number of original proceedings handled by the court.

- ^dCase definition or unit of count:
A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment.
- ^fBeginning pending figure for the 1980 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1979 court year:
Variance is due to recounting and correcting entries.
- ^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:
Figures are as given in the annual report. Variance is due to improper reporting of reopened case dispositions in Lancaster and Hall Counties.
- ⁱData are not complete:
No data were available for Webster County (in the 10th district) or Valley County (in the 20th district).
- ^jExplanation of data included in the category:
Filed figures include the number of reopened cases placed before the District Court.
Cases that are listed as criminal appeals include both civil and criminal appeals. Statements in the annual report indicate that more than half were criminal appeals.
Criminal cases may include a few misdemeanor cases.

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information, indictment, or complaint.

ⁱData are not complete:

No data are included for Washoe or Eureka counties. Other data were incomplete as follows: December missing for Pershing and Lincoln counties; September through December missing for Carson County; May through December missing for Esmeralda, Mineral, and Lye counties. Approximately 33 percent of the state population lives in Washoe county, and approximately 9 percent in each of the other counties named here.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Requests to appeal when granted are not counted as disposed until the resulting appeal is disposed, a new filing is not counted for the resulting appeal. These granted requests to appeal are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

⁹Change in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are as given in the annual report.

ⁱData are not complete:

Filing and pending data for motions for direct certification and motions for leave to appeal could not be separated from other motions and other petitions data. These numbers are not included in total requests to appeal, total other cases, or total cases filed or pending figures.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Filing and pending figures for total other proceedings include motions for direct certification and motions for leave to appeal.

Disposition data for these two categories are available separately and are listed on the appropriate lines under the requests to appeal heading above.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

The 92 written opinions and 18 per curiam opinions disposed of 134 appeals and 9 disciplinary matters.

There were also 13 concurring, 41 dissenting, and 3 concurring in part, dissenting in part opinions written.

^cJudge information:

There are 22 judges authorized in this court, but 1 judge served as the acting administrative director of the courts.

Figures are as given in the annual report. Difference is due to adjustment made by the clerk of the court to the computerized docketing control system.

^hFigure was computed:

Civil appeals filed were computed by subtracting the number of criminal appeals and appeals of administrative agency cases filed from the number of total appeals filed.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

This figure includes 33 criminal appeals from state administrative agencies that are not included under criminal appeals.

^kAdditional information:

Total appeals filed and disposed include 31 certifications by the Supreme Court before calendaring by the Appellate Division.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

There were also 6 concurring and 15 dissenting opinions filed.

Transfers are cases transferred to the Supreme Court by certification.

The 3,500 opinions disposed of 3,738 cases.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.
 N/A = This casetype is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.
 X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.
 -- = Not applicable.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
 A civil case is counted when it is placed on the calendar (has reached issue).
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations or indictments.
 A jury trial is counted when the first juror is drawn.
 A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.

 This is because of recounts by the counties resulting from their periodic physical inventories and the discovery of other reporting errors by the counties during the course of the year.

ⁱData are not complete:
 Total pending figures for domestic relations include pending matrimonial and uncontested adoption cases. They do not include pending contested adoption cases.
 Total disposed for domestic relations includes matrimonial and uncontested adoption, but not contested adoption cases.
 Total civil and grand total trial data do not include estate cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:
 Matrimonial includes divorce, maintenance, nullity, adoption, custody, matrimonial injunctions, and miscellaneous matrimonial.
 Total civil figures include data for adoption (contested) and estate cases which could not be separated into the proper categories. There were 252 of these cases pending at the beginning of the court year, 546 disposed, and 248 pending at the end of the court year.

^kAdditional information:
 Of the 22,980 felony cases filed, 329 were reopened cases.
 Of the 29,309 felony cases pending at the end of the court year, 6,091 were listed on inactive status, untriable for reasons beyond the control of the court or prosecutor. These include fugitives, John Does, and defendants incarcerated in another state.

ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:
 Time interval data are for cases in which trials commenced in the Law Division of the Superior Court during March, 1980.
 Age of pending data reflect active and inactive cases for equity, marriage dissolution, estate, and felony cases.
 Age of pending cases data for auto tort and other tort cases are for active cases only. There were, in addition, 623 inactive other tort and 191 inactive auto tort cases.
 The number of estate cases pending over 18 months is included in the 12+ to 18 months category.

 A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.
 Figures are as given in the annual report. This imbalance is caused by adjustments made to caseload data based on physical inventories conducted periodically by each court.
ⁱData are not complete:
 Grand total pending figures do not include criminal or traffic cases.
^jExplanation of data included in the category:
 Filed includes all complaints filed or transferred from other courts or counties and inactive complaints restored to calendar.
 Small claims include auto small claims cases and other small claims.
 Criminal case complaints include indictable offenses referred to county prosecutors for indictment as well as minor criminal, disorderly persons, ordinance, fish and game, navigation, etc.
ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:
 Time interval data are for all civil cases in which trials commenced during March 1980, excluding small claims and real property rights.

^bParticular court or reporting system information:
 In 1980, the New Mexico court system changed their reporting period from the calendar to the fiscal year.

 Between 1979 and 1980, the New Mexico court system changed from the calendar to the fiscal year as the reporting period. As a result, pending figures reported for the end of 1979 and the beginning of 1980 are different.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:
 Rule 37 motions are prosecutors' motions for extension of time in District Court. Rule 34 motions and Rule 44 motions are motions for extension of time in Childrens Court. Rule 41 of the Rules of Criminal Procedure for Magistrates Court is a motion for extension of time.

^mCategories for disposition type or trial data:
 The disposition of appeals types are the results of opinions.

ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:
 No table was prepared on notice of appeal to docketing since counsel only has 30 days to file a skeleton transcript after filing of the notice of appeal.

¹Data are not complete:

Time interval grand total figures for the subcategories under the heading "Notice of appeal in district court to answer brief filed" do not include criminal and juvenile data. Grand total figures for the total time interval from "Notice of appeal in district court to answer brief filed" and for the interval "Answer brief filed to decision" do not include criminal and juvenile summary calendar data.

^mInformation on type of disposition and trial data:
Disposition information on interlocutory appeals could not be separated into civil and criminal categories. These data are not included in the civil and criminal appeals.
ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending data:
Cases included in the time interval chart do not include dismissed, denied, docket and affirm, transferred to/from the Supreme Court, or those cases determined to be atypical as a result of severe problems or delays (e.g. reinstated cases). Decision to mandate for "other calendar" criminal and juvenile cases was based on 157 rather than 158 cases. Total criminal, juvenile, and grand total figures were adjusted to take this into account.
Time interval figures given in the annual report were to the nearest whole number for inclusion in this table.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Petitions for discretionary review granted are not counted as disposed until the appeal is disposed; a filing is not counted for the appeal. These granted petitions are the numbers appearing in parentheses. The number of granted petitions appearing in the filed column will usually differ from the number appearing in the disposed column because petitions allowed during one term may not be docketed as appeals until the following term.

^fData are not complete:

Pending data for total cases do not include requests to appeal.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

A petition granted is not counted as disposed until the resulting appeal is disposed; nor is a new filing counted for the resulting appeal. These petitions granted are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

ⁱData are not complete:

Civil appeals and criminal appeal filed include only cases from the Superior Court. Cases from the District Court could not be divided into these categories.

Total other cases disposed figure does not include State Bar cases disposed.

Total opinions affirmed, reversed, and affirmed in part/reversed in part figures do not include request to appeal petitions disposed by opinion.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

The number of State Bar cases disposed is included in the number of appeals disposed.

^kAdditional information:

Eight hundred-forty-one of the motions were allowed; 255 were denied.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.
N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

Estate and special proceedings cases were disposed by the clerks of the Superior Court.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is not consistent statewide. Cases are counted according to what the courts have in fact treated as cases.

A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.

A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.

The difference is due to a change in reporting period from calendar year to fiscal year for the court.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Special proceedings include such matters as petitions in foreclosure, involuntary commitments to mental hospitals, adoptions, condemnations of real property for public purposes, and incompetency of persons to manage their personal financial affairs.

^kAdditional information:

In addition to the judges serving this court, there are also 100 clerks who have the authority to dispose of estate and special proceedings cases that are handled by judges in other states. Data for cases disposed by the clerks of court are included in this profile.

Ohio Court of Claims (continued)

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

All cases where the amount of the claim exceeds $1,000 must be determined by a judge. Where the amount of the claim is between $100.01 and $999.99, the claim is determined by a judge unless a waiver is filed. All claims from $0.00 to $100.00 and all claims between $100.01 and $999.99 where the right to trial has been waived are administratively determined by the clerk or deputy clerk of the Court of Claims.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.
A non-jury trial is counted when the first witness is sworn.

Figures are as given in the annual report.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Filings include reinstated cases.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment.
A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.
A non-jury trial is counted when the first witness is sworn. Hearings by administrative judges and referees are not included as non-jury trials.

Figures are as given in the annual report.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Filed figures include both reactivated cases and original filings.

^kAdditional information:

In addition to the small claims dispositions reported on the chart, 909 small claims cases transferred were sent to the regular civil docket.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Civil trials do not include 17,986 hearings by judge in small claims cases.

ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

Contract, forcible entry and detainer, and other civil cases pending over 24 months are included with those pending over 12 months.
Small claims, misdemeanor, and traffic cases pending over 12 months and over 24 months are included with those pending over 6 months.
Preliminary hearing cases pending over 6 months, over 12 months, and over 24 months are included with those pending over 1 month.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court but the data are unavailable.
X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total, but were not available by category.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

The Supreme Court is the court of last resort for civil cases.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Petitions for certiorari that have been granted are not counted as disposed until the appeal is disposed; a filing is not counted for the resulting appeal. These granted petitions are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

The imbalance is caused by certiorari data not being included in the pending figures. Figures are as given in the annual report.

^lData are not complete:

Total other cases and total cases pending figures do not include certiorari cases pending.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

All civil appeals are originally filed in the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court then assigns some of these cases to the Court of Appeals for disposition. Therefore, cases assigned, disposed, and pending in the Court of Appeals have been deducted from the Supreme Court's appeals category and are given as caseload figures for the Court of Appeals in its statistical profile. There were 369 cases transferred to the Court of Appeals in 1980.

^kAdditional information:

Rehearing requests were denied in all 96 of the cases.

^lSpecial source or revision in the data:

Figures marked were supplied by the administrative office of the courts during data verification.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
The criminal case unit of count is the case number assigned at arraignment.
A juvenile case is counted with the filing of a petition.
A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.
A non-jury trial is counted when the first witness is sworn.

^hFigure was computed:

Disposed figure for decedents' estates was computed from filing and pending data.
Beginning pending figure for total civil cases was computed using filed, disposed, and end pending data for the combined categories of law and equity ("civil") given in the annual report.
Beginning pending figure for criminal and total criminal was computed from filing, disposition, and end pending data.

ⁱData are not complete:

Domestic relations pending and disposition figures do not include adoption cases. Filings include all categories.
Total civil pending and disposition figures do not include adoption or mental health cases. Filings include all categories.
Grand total disposition and pending figures do not include adoption, mental health, or juvenile cases. Filings include all categories.

^kAdditional information:

There were 19,049 law and equity cases pending at the beginning of the 1980 court year, 28,961 cases filed, 24,485 disposed, and 23,525 pending at the end of the court year.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment.
A trial is counted if tried to verdict or sentence, if adjudged guilty.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are as given in the annual report.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Civil under other civil includes trespass, assumpsit, equity, and miscellaneous civil cases that are counted when the case is placed at issue as ready for trial.

Criminal under felony/misdemeanor includes felonies, misdemeanors, and trial de novo for appeal.

Miscellaneous appeals include criminal appeals from District Justice Courts and other miscellaneous court actions.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment.

A non-jury trial is counted if tried to completion (decision). There are no jury trials in this court.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

This was due in part to the placement of 570 records in deferred status and the reinstatement of 340 other records during the court year, a net change of -230 cases. Figures are as given in the annual report.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

"Private complaints" are criminal complaints filed by a private citizen; "criminal" complaints are filed by the police.

Code enforcement pertains to violations regarding housing, property, etc.

Data are not complete:
 Total misdemeanor and total criminal filed and disposed figures do not include criminal Class 2 misdemeanors. They are included in the grand total figures.
 Total civil disposed does not include adoption, prolate, mental health, or other civil cases.
 Criminal filed and disposed figures do not include criminal Class 1 misdemeanors. These figures are included in the grand total figures.

Explanation of data included in the category:
 Offenses included in Class 1 misdemeanors are reckless driving, simple assault, and driving while intoxicated.
 Offenses included in Class 2 misdemeanors are approximately 80% traffic cases. The remaining 20% are criminal cases and include disorderly conduct, prostitution, and gambling. Petty offenses are defined as vehicle equipment violations. The total number of these cases filed and disposed are given in the traffic category since traffic is the majority of these cases.

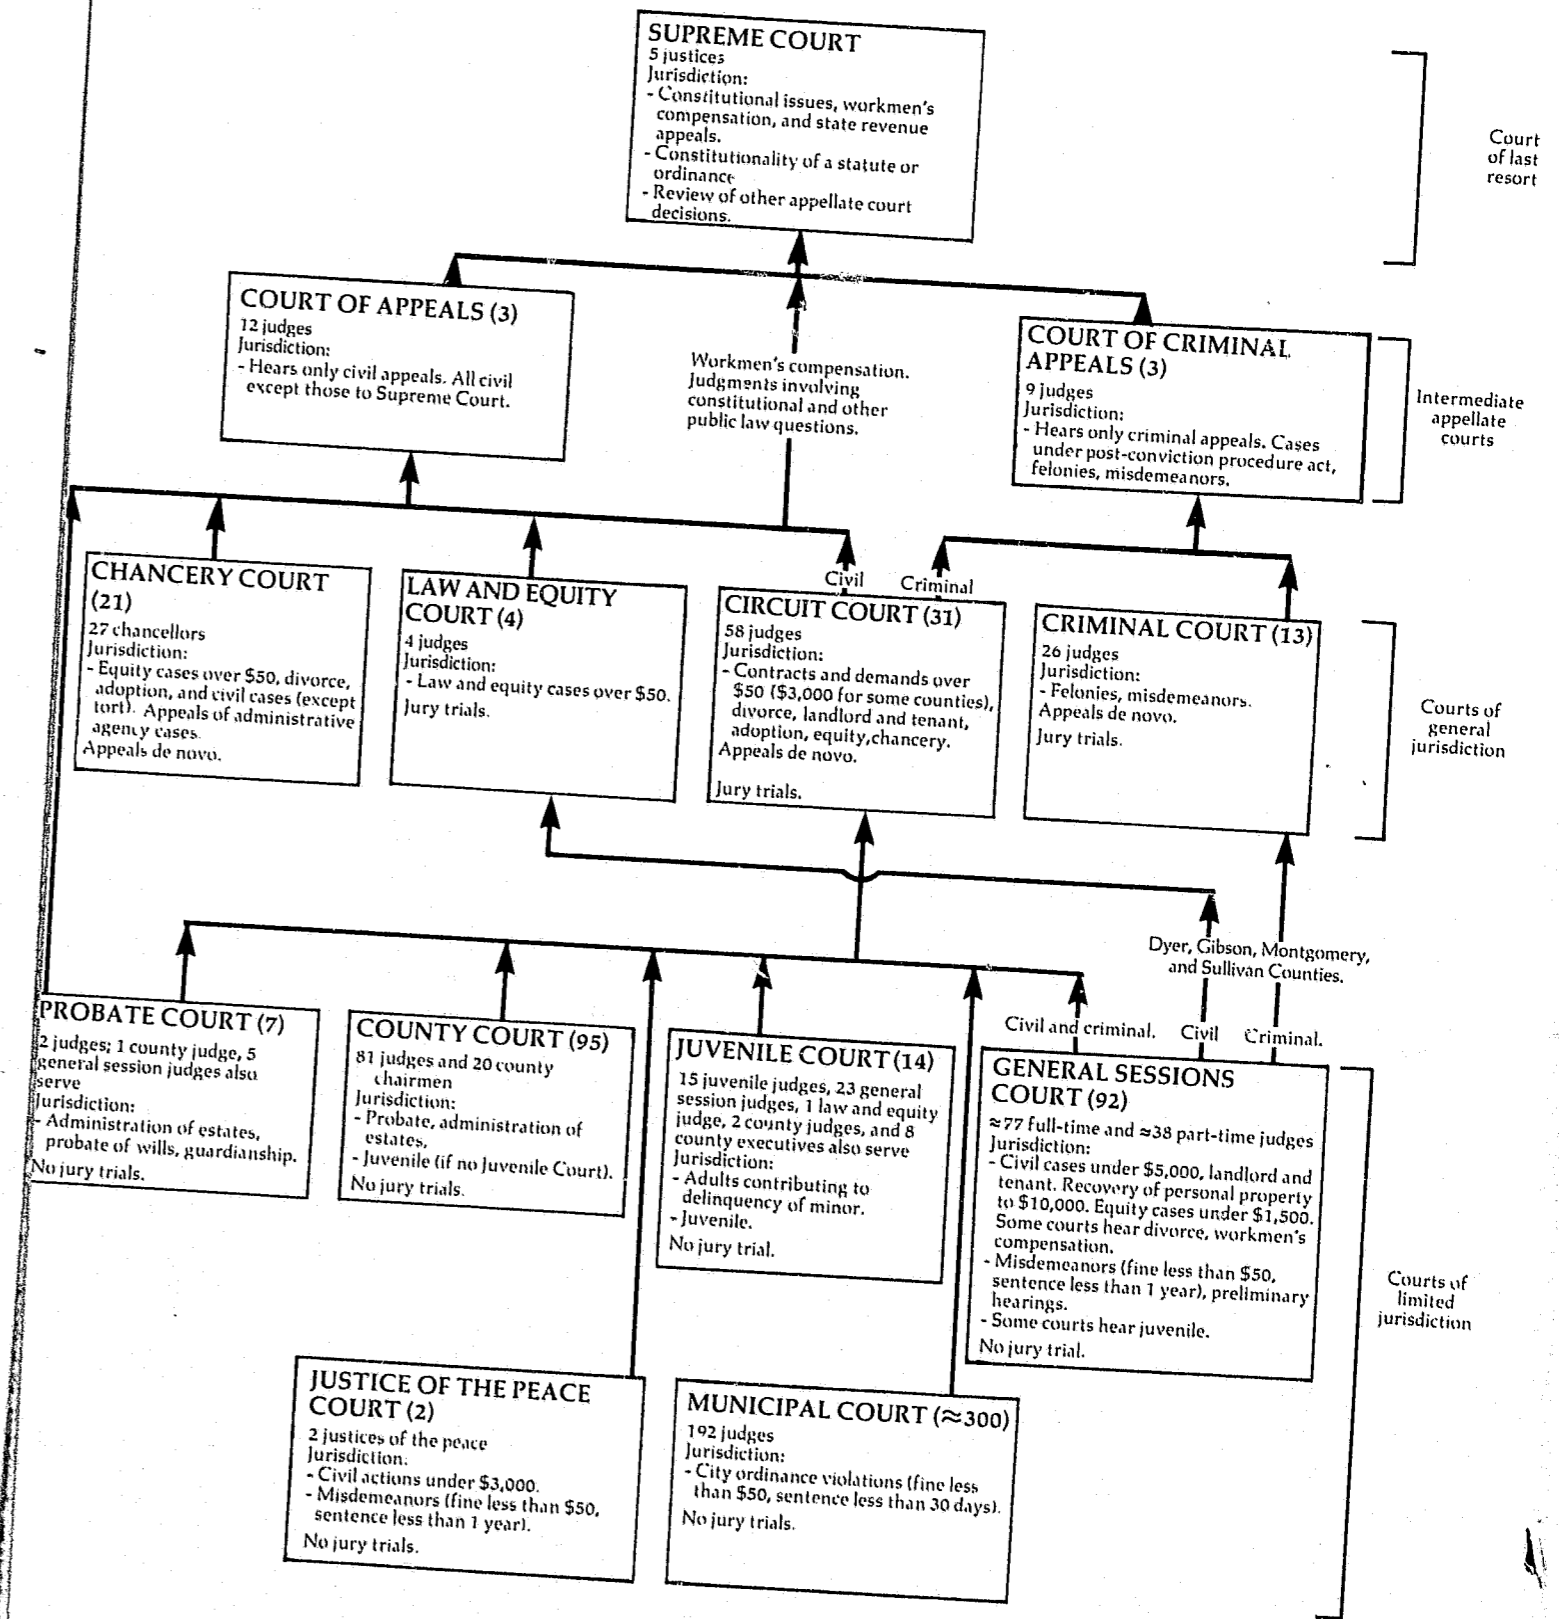

Traffic data for DWI/DUI cases are included in with the Class 1 misdemeanor data on the court profile.

Additional information:
 The juvenile caseload is handled by the court services department. There were 62.5 full-time equivalent court service officers during 1980.

Special source or revision in the data:
 Filing figures for criminal and traffic cases were supplied by the Administrative Office of the Court during data verification.

^cJudge information:

Circuit judges hear chancery cases in the Special 11th and 17th Chancery Divisions. Chancery cases in Dyer and Gibson Counties are heard by the judge of the Law and Equity Court since there is no Chancery Court in either of these two counties. Five percent of the dispositions were handled by judges temporarily assigned to hear chancery cases.

^aCourt jurisdiction:
The Supreme Court is the court of last resort for civil cases only.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:
Motions for leave to file petitions for writs of mandamus, habeas corpus, or prohibition, and applications for writs of error when granted are not counted as disposed cases until the associated original jurisdiction cases or appeals are disposed. Similarly, a filing is not counted for the resulting original jurisdiction case or appeal. These granted petitions and applications are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:
Figures are as given in the annual report or as calculated from data given in the annual report or supplied by the clerk of the court.

^hFigure was computed:
End pending figure for civil appeals were calculated by subtracting the number of all other cases pending from the total number of cases pending given in the annual report.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:
Rehearing requests include motions for rehearing of causes, motions for rehearing of applications for writs of error, motions for rehearing of motions for leave to file petition, and motions for rehearing on habeas corpus.

^kAdditional information:
Of the 418 motions for rehearing disposed, 13 were granted.

^lSpecial source or revision in the data:
Pending data for original proceedings cases were supplied by the clerk of the court.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:
The court also filed 22 dissenting opinions and 9 concurring opinions.

Source: Texas Judicial Council, 52nd Annual Report 1980 (Austin, Texas: May, 1981). Statistics are from the annual report except that totals have been computed where necessary, and additional information was supplied by the clerk of the court during data verification.

^aCourt jurisdiction:
The Court of Criminal Appeals is the court of last resort for criminal cases only. It has no original jurisdiction.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:
Applications for writ of habeas corpus, etc., when granted, are not counted as disposed until the associated habeas corpus appeal is disposed; a new filing is not counted for the resulting appeal. The applications granted are the figures appearing in parentheses. Ninety-nine of these granted applications were disposed of with written opinion.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.

^bParticular court or reporting system information:

The data were compiled from 3,048 out of a possible 3,048 monthly county reports from the court, a reporting rate of 100%.

^cCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment.

A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.

A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs. Guilty pleas in criminal cases after the start of a non-jury trial are not counted as trials.

Figures are as given in the annual report.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Filings include new cases filed and other cases reaching docket.

Domestic relations "nonadversary" category includes adoptions, change of name, occupational drivers' licenses, dependent and neglected children decisions, and removal of disability of minority.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Directed verdict cases are counted as jury trials on the tables in Part I of this report.

Source: Texas Judicial Council, 52nd Annual Report 1980 (Austin, Texas: May, 1981). Statistics are from the annual report except that totals have been computed where necessary.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the complaint.

A trial is counted if tried to verdict or decision.

ⁱData are not complete:

Data reported here represent 6,596 reports out of a possible 9,024. Data includes only courts in cities with a 1970 population of 5,000 or greater. Data for the entire year were submitted by courts in 489 of the courts, incomplete data were submitted by 109 courts, and the remaining 154 courts submitted no data for the 1978 court year, resulting in a reporting rate of 73 percent.

^kAdditional information:

There were 8,501 felony complaints accepted and 175 examining trials conducted.

 N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

^bParticular court or reporting system information:
 In the calendar year 1980, clerks in all counties reported data for all 12 months, a reporting rate of 100 percent.

^cCase definition or unit of count:
 A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition.
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or complaint.

 The number of cases pending is adjusted by computer to reflect transfers and other year-end input.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:
 Criminal appeals pending and disposed figures are reported in the misdemeanor categories. Criminal appeals filed are reported separately. As a result, neither misdemeanor or criminal appeals figures balance.

ⁱData are not complete:
 Total civil and grand total disposition and pending figures do not include estate cases. Filings are for all categories. Pending and disposed figures for total misdemeanors and total criminal cases do not include traffic appeal cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:
 "Other civil" includes all of Harris County (Houston) civil activity. It was not reported in the detailed civil categories. Misdemeanor totals include appeal dispositions and pending cases. Disposed and pending traffic figures include traffic appeals that could not be separated from original cases. These appeals would normally be included in criminal appeals.

^dCase definition or unit of count:
A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations, indictments, or complaints.
A jury trial is counted if tried to verdict for civil and traffic cases; if drawing of jury begins for criminal cases.
A non-jury trial is counted if tried to decision for civil and traffic cases; if trial begins for criminal cases.
These differences reflect adjustments made to pending figures for the Washington County court.
^lData are not complete:
Total criminal and grand total pending and filed figures do not include sentence review only cases.

^kAdditional information:
Four hundred-seventy-five of the small claims cases pending at the end of the year were awaiting trial.
Thirty-one of the sixty-nine sentence review only cases disposed resulted in a reduced sentence.
^lSpecial source or revision in the data:
The number of small claims cases settled, discontinued, etc., was provided by the Office of the Court Administration during data verification.
^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:
Civil trials include only data for law and small claims cases.

The number of motions filed was calculated from disposed and pending figures supplied by the administrative office of the court.

ⁱData are not complete:

The number of requests to appeal filed, disposed, and pending at the end of the year could not be separated from the civil and criminal appeals data. Total other cases filed, disposed, and pending at the end of the year figures do not include request to appeal cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Figures for request to appeal cases filed, disposed, and end pending are included in the number of civil and criminal appeals filed, disposed, and pending at the end of the year. There were 263 requests to appeal filed and 273 disposed, and 10 pending at the end of the year.

^bParticular court or reporting system information:

Statistics are collected separately by Milwaukee County, which is not a part of the otherwise statewide information system.

^cCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
 The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations or indictments.
 A juvenile disposition is counted with the disposition of a formal petition.
 A trial is counted when any testimony is taken.

ⁱData are not complete:

Juvenile data were not available for the first six months of the year for any county except Milwaukee.
 Total trial figures do not include trials conducted for juvenile cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Small claims data are reported for all cases in Milwaukee County, but for contested cases only in the rest of the state.
 Cases included in the "other civil" category are torts, real property rights, mental health, appeals, extraordinary writs, and other civil cases for all areas of the state not reported separately on the profile.

Appendices

Appendix A: Technical discussion of estimation procedures

A. Calculation of Missing and Incomplete Data

Least squares regression was used to estimate the total volume of filings and dispositions in trial and appellate courts for 1980. The procedure followed is similar to the one that was used to estimate the national totals for the 1979 edition of the Annual Report. The same or a reduced number of independent variables in each regression equation were used to predict 1980 filings and dispositions. The coefficients of each regression equation were estimated, using all complete state-level caseload data. Unlike the 1978 Annual Report, Puerto Rico and Guam were included in the estimation procedure.

The criterion used to identify which variables best predicted the caseload figures was the coefficient of determination (R^2). This statistic identifies the percent of the variation in the variable being predicted (i.e., the dependent variable), that is explained by variation in the independent variable. The coefficient of determination can have any value between 0% and 100%. The independent variable that produced the highest R^2 for each dependent variable was used in the estimating equation. The equations that were developed to estimate the 1980 national totals are discussed below.

Appellate Courts

Courts of last resort:

- (1) Filings = $-50 + 1.10$ (1980 court of last resort dispositions)
- (2) Dispositions = $75 + .88$ (1980 actual or estimated court of last resort filings)

The number of missing data points that might inhibit estimates based on this pair of equations was small. Complete filing data were supplied by 46 of the 52 possible states and dispositions were given for 45. Only four states were unable to supply complete data for both filings and dispositions.

In previous years, appellate filings were found to be closely related to population figures. The coefficient of determination between estimates of 1976 population and filings in the court of last resort in 1976 was 81%; in 1977 it dropped to 54%; but for 1978 it dropped even lower, to 35%. This unacceptably low value continued in 1979, with an R^2 of 56%. In 1980, it dropped further to 53%.

Therefore, as in 1979, we looked for another variable to predict current year appellate filings. Judicial expenditures and numbers of appellate judges also yielded low R^2 s of 43% and 55% respectively.

When courts of last resort were divided into those located in states with intermediate appellate and those without such courts, the less than significant relationships between filings, and population, judicial expenditures and numbers of judges in courts of last resort did not change appreciably. The coefficient of determination increased for those states without intermediate appellate courts, but decreased for those states with such intermediate courts. Therefore, on the average, controlling for the existence of intermediate appellate courts would not enhance the estimating equations.

As was the case in 1979, dispositions in courts of last resort was the best estimator of 1980 filings. This relationship yielded an R^2 of 97%. This relationship is so strong, attempts to introduce multivariate analysis would contribute so little additional explanation that such attempts were abandoned. When 1980 dispositions were unavailable, 1979 actual or estimated dispositions were used. The prediction equation for filings in courts of last resort is given as equation (1) and was used to estimate filing figures for the six states that provided incomplete data. Dispositions were estimated from current year filing figures as outlined in equation (2). For those states with incomplete filing data, the estimated filing figure from equation (1) was used as the independent variable in equation (2). Although these procedures do not outline a theoretically important contribution to explaining filings and dispositions, they are designed to estimate the most accurate number, not necessarily the best causal explanation. The reader must be reminded of that subtle, but important research caveat.

Intermediate Appellate Courts

(3) Filings = $171 + .98$ (1980 intermediate appellate court dispositions)

(4) Dispositions = $-155 + 1.01$ (1980 intermediate appellate court actual or estimated filings)

As was the case with the court of last resort, almost all states reported complete data for filings and dispositions in their intermediate appellate courts. The previously described method used to estimate the filing and disposition volume for courts of last resort was used here. Of the 32 states with intermediate appellate courts in 1980, only two did not report complete filing data and two did not report complete disposition data. Population, judicial expenditures and the number of intermediate appellate court judges were not sufficiently powerful explanations to justify inclusion in an estimating equation with R²s of 70%, 76% and 63% respectively. Current year dispositions were found to be good predictors of current year filings (R² value of 99%) for intermediate appellate courts. The new predictive equation (3) was calculated using data from 30 states. Dispositions were estimated in the same way as they were for the courts of last resort using equation (4), and based upon data from 30 states.

Estimates for those states who failed to provide complete filing or disposition data can be found in Table A.

Trial Courts

Data for trial courts were estimated by case category: civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile. Far fewer states reported complete trial data than appellate data. As a result, the estimates of the national totals of cases filed and disposed in trial courts are less accurate than those given for appellate courts.

Civil:

(5) Filings = $1,929 + 63.2$ (1980 total population)

(6) Dispositions = $32,984 + .78$ (1980 actual or estimated trial court civil filings)

Equation (5) is based on data from 28 states, while equation (6) is based on data from only 20. The R² for equations 5 and 6 were 91% and 97% respectively. Total state expenditures, judicial expenditures and the number of lawyers were also highly correlated with civil filings in the trial courts. The R² value for each of these were 90%, 88% and 77% respectively.

The estimates of the volume of civil filings and dispositions in trial courts in all states are given in Table B.

Criminal:

Defendant based equations:

(7) Filings = $-26,966 + 37.5$ (1980 total state population)

(8) Dispositions = $-3,360 + .87$ (1980 actual or estimated trial court criminal filings)

Non-defendant based equations:

(9) Filings = $-14,605 + 59.4$ (1980 total state population)

(10) Dispositions = $-8,518 + .98$ (1980 actual or estimated trial court criminal filings)

The approach used to estimate this year's criminal filings is a refinement of techniques used in previous years. This year two sets of equations were developed; one based on those states which use defendants as the unit of count, and a second set of equations based on states which employ a unit of count other than the defendant (e.g., the number of indictments, informations, etc.). Although the samples upon which these two sets of equations are relatively small, failure to make this distinction would render any estimate problematic (especially when the percentage of states that use each of the various units of count are not statistically controlled). Even this technique, however, does not categorize the states by every possible unit count type. Such a technique would be impossible statistically given the small number of states reporting complete data, and the large number unit of count types.

Equation (7) was based on data from 10 states, while equation (8) was based on data from 8 states. The R² were 93% and 99% respectively. Equation (9) was based on 8 states, while (10) was based on data from 6 states. The R²s were 90% and 99% respectively.

The estimates of criminal filings and dispositions for all states are given in Table B.

Traffic:

(11) Filings = $-20,269 + 80$ (1980 number of sworn police personnel)

(12) Dispositions = $-5,503 + .97$ (1980 actual or estimated trial court traffic filings)

The procedure used to estimate the number of traffic cases filed and disposed during 1980 approximates that used in 1979. A few states are known to include parking cases as a part of their traffic caseload; most do not. This practice renders their traffic filings so large, when compared to other states, that they become statistical outliers when using regression techniques. In order to prevent those few states that include parking cases from inflating the estimates for states that do not include parking cases in their caseload, states reporting traffic data which include parking cases that were eliminated from the complete data file were California, Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts and New Jersey. Equation (11) was estimated with complete traffic filing data (minus parking cases) from 23 states, while equation (12) was estimated with complete dispositions minus parking cases from 20. The R² for equations (11) and (12) were 72% and 99% respectively.

The jurisdiction guide now being prepared for the 1981 Annual Report, will for the first time provide reliable information on the extent to which traffic data includes parking violations. When complete, this will facilitate the development of three sets of equations; one based on those that report parking and non-parking together; one based on non-parking data; and one based on parking data (whose estimates would be added to the non-parking estimates).

The estimates of the volume of traffic filings and dispositions in trial courts in all states are given in Table B.

Juvenile:

(13) Filings = $8,356 + 4.84$ (1980 total population figures)

(14) Dispositions = $132 + .97$ (1980 trial court actual or estimated juvenile filings)

Complete juvenile data were reported by more states than were data for any other category of trial court cases. Filing estimates were based on data from 44 states; disposition estimates were based on data from 31. However, the R² value (i.e., 32%) for measuring the adequacy of the estimation equation was lower for juvenile filings than it was for any of the other equations. This is probably a reflection of the different way each state counts juvenile cases and our current inability to distinguish among those counting methods. Although the R² was so low that very little confidence can be afforded estimates based on equation (13), it was the highest R² available for inclusion in the equation. General expenditures and judicial expenditures yielded R²s of 25% and 21% respectively. In addition, since there were no states where actual dispositions were available but filings were not, juvenile dispositions could not be used to estimate juvenile filings. Although the R² for equation (14) was very high (i.e., 99%), the estimates resulting from equation (14) were based upon juvenile filings yielded by the poor estimates of equation (13).

B. Calculation of the Estimates of National Totals

For each of the fourteen categories of data represented above by an estimation equation, an estimate of the national total volume was calculated. Actual figures or estimates for all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam and Puerto Rico were added together to estimate the national totals. Finally, the estimates of total filings were added together by level of court to produce estimates of the total number of cases filed in all appellate courts and in all trial courts. Total dispositions for appellate and trial courts were produced in a similar manner.

The estimates of caseload volume for appellate courts is given in Table 1 and for trial courts in Table 13 in Part I of this volume.

The estimates reported in Tables 1 and 13 should be considered as "ballpark" estimates of the actual data.
