Introduction

This is the first comprehensive directory of the criminal justice system in West Virginia. During the fall and spring of 1992-93, the WVSAC requested recent names, addresses, telephone and fax numbers from criminal justice agencies in the state of West Virginia .

The directory was compiled by West Virginia Statistical Analysis Center (WVSAC) which is funded by a grant from the U. S. Department of Justice, Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS-Grant No. 91-BJ-CX-K030). Individuals or organizations seeking a specific address often do not know where to turn and may require several referrals before the current office is found. It is hoped the West Virginia Criminal Justice Directory will serve as a road map to those who need assistance.

While great care was taken in compiling and proofreading the agency listings, the WVSAC relied on different sources that may contain errors or may be outdated. Users are urged to report any corrections to the WVSAC office so that the errors can be corrected in the subsequent editions.

Director & Associate Professor

Acknowledgments

The WVSAC would like to express its appreciation to the members of the WVSAC Oversight Committee for their assistance in the development of the directory. In addition, the WVSAC would like to express its appreciation for the assistance of the WVSAC current staff and two previous graduate assistants who helped compile the directory last fall: Michelle Waldon, Psychology and Tracy Edmonds, Journalism.

West Virginia Statistical Analysis Center

The West Virginia Statistical Analysis Center (WVSAC), which is in its second year, was established in August 1991 with a grant from the U. S. Department of Justice, Bureau of Justice Statistics. WVSAC is housed in the Marshall University Research and Economic Development Center.

The WVSAC collects and analyses data concerning the criminal justice system and related issues. During the first grant year, research efforts included the Drug Arrest Survey, Work Release Study, Victimization Survey, and Data Needs Assessment Survey. The current grant year (1992-93) WVSAC is researching crime and the elderly and prison populations projection. In addition, WVSAC personnel will assist with specific data requests and will identify the appropriate data source if the data is not available at WVSAC. Inquires regarding research projects, technical assistance, or information on past or current research should be directed to:
